Bleak Mall report urges shift in city's direction

By ED PRATHER
P-B Staff Writer

After almost a decade of efforts to rejuvenate downtown Pomona, redevelopment in the city is on the verge of taking a new direction.

The change is being fostered by completion of a $50,000 study of redevelopment. The study urges an end to the city's preoccupation with downtown and calls for redevelopment projects in the city's eastside commercial and industrial areas.

The study, prepared by Urban Projects Inc. (UPI) of Los Angeles, is critical of past redevelopment efforts in the downtown area. It states that reestablishing the Mall as a major retail center would be "very difficult, if not impossible."

That bleak assessment, the study reports, is based on downtown Pomona's poor regional location and accessibility, city-wide social problems, the continuing instability of the area and the general "uncertainty" about Pomona's future.

The study notes that at one time or another such projects as a hotel, convention center, specialty center, regional shopping center, international village, condominium complex, restaurants and other developments have been proposed for the downtown area, none of which have been built.

In addition, problems have arisen in some of the redevelopment projects that have been completed downtown, most notably the Speidel Building, a nine-story office structure on the east side of Park Avenue between Third and Fourth streets.

The building has been the subject of protracted legal actions involving the various interested parties, including questions of the legality of the financial arrangements between the parties.

Although the building was "completed" some three years ago, occupancy of the building remains at only approximately 50 per cent and the city has yet to issue a final certificate of occupancy for the structure.

City officials say that the certificate will not be issued until the owner, the Sun Life Assurance Co. of Canada, meets all its requirements, including landscaping and operation of required seismic devices.

Theoretically, lack of the final certificate leaves in doubt the prospects of tenants moving in.

The city has been assured, said City Administrator Jerrold Gonce, that the back taxes on the structure will be paid in the near future.

Although the city has very little control over the arrangements made by developers, Gonce is hopeful that the city will be in a better position to scrutinize the financial worthiness of proposed projects in the future.

"What we're aiming at now is a more businesslike approach to redevelopment. We want to encourage developers, but keep away from promoters," he said.

The past history of the downtown redevelopment effort is illustrated by the proposed United California Bank building on the site of the old Pomona Post Office on the northwest corner of Garey Avenue and Mission Boulevard.

Originally proposed as a six-story structure, plans for the building have already been scaled down to three stories, possibly less, and there is also a chance that the building will not be constructed at all.

The bank has a $3 million development commitment with the city. If final plans for the development fall short of that, the city will have a choice of accepting the lesser development or regaining possession of the property.

THE GOVERNOR BENDS AN EAR

Alice Bolan of San Francisco, one of approximately 600 members of the Citizens Action League who came to Sacramento to promote Assembly Bill 167, was as surprised as anyone when Gov. Brown stopped to chat with her outside the Capitol Tuesday. The governor asked to see the sign and took it to his office with her approval.

Lopsided vote

House Demos OK policy of no more aid to Asia

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Democrats voted a policy stand today against any more U.S. military aid for either Cambodia or South Vietnam.

The vote was 189 to 49, only 29 votes short of an absolute House majority against President Ford's request for additional military aid for the two countries.

The vote was taken at a special House Democratic caucus on a resolution saying the Democrats "firmly oppose the approval of any further military assistance to South Vietnam or Cambodia in fiscal year 1975."

Rep. Bella S. Abzug, D-N.Y., one of six sponsors of the resolution, said after the vote that "this gives a very strong sense of how the Democrats feel."

She said it was sure to have an impact on whether the House Foreign Affairs Committee recommends approval of any military aid for Cambodia later this week.

The balloting came as Sen. Henry M. Jackson proposed that President Ford send Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield to China to meet with ousted Cambodian Chief of State Norodom Sihanouk in an effort to arrange a new government for Cambodia.

Mansfield indicated he was receptive to the idea.

Earlier, the Democrats rejected an effort to sidetrack the issue by referring it to their steering committee.

Rep. John J. Flynt, D-Ga., leader of a House fact-finding mission to South Vietnam and Cambodia, said for the first time he is opposed to military aid for Cambodia.

But Flynt said he voted against the Democratic policy stand on grounds the House, not the Democratic caucus, should be taking the vote.

Programs may bankrupt us, Brown cautions

SACRAMENTO (AP) — California could go bankrupt if all the billions of dollars in spending programs before the legislature were signed into law, Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. says.

The Democratic governor told a Capitol news conference Tuesday:

"It's a worry to everyone. If you don't wake up, the place is going to go bankrupt."

Asked about social service programs, Brown said: "I am trying to find a humane, rational way to keep government from going bankrupt."

After taking a look at various state departments, Brown said, "I don't think Ronald Reagan was right because he sat here presiding over this mess, with grace."

Too many times, Brown said, he bumps into the attitude that the state has a "money tree" and it is all right to have government operate as a "paper blizzard."

California currently faces potential expenditures of billions of dollars more than revenues, Brown said, and he is trying to rein expenditures in order to avoid a tax increase.

If he felt there was "a dramatic demand" for a tax increase to foot some proposed programs, Brown said, then he would consider that option.

"You can say the governor of California is neither a Scrooge or a Santa Claus," Brown said with a laugh.

Two gunmen rob area supermart

Two men armed with chrome-plated pistols robbed the Alpha Beta Market at 1337 E. Fourth St. in Ontario Tuesday evening, taking nearly $1,000 in cash and coins before fleeing from an off-duty policeman.

Market Manager Ralph Torres told officers that two men, both Caucasians, approached him while he was at a check stand and asked if he were the manager.

When he said he was, one of the men opened his coat to show a chrome-plated pistol and told him that his accomplice had all the other clerks covered. They ordered him to walk over to the safe. Torres said the second man at the safe also displayed a pistol.

Torres said the safe was open and the two gunmen ordered him to hand them the cash inside. Torres complied and one of the gunmen reached into the safe and grabbed three rolls of quarters.

The gunmen walked out of the store with Torres following a safe distance behind. Torres said he remembered that just before the gunmen came, Upland Police Officer Tom Garner had been in the store. Torres found Garner in the parking lot and told him he had just been robbed.

The two gunmen saw Torres talking to Garner and suddenly ran. Garner said he chased the gunman on foot a short distance, but lost them.

Torres said one of the men was about 27, 5 feet 9, 170 pounds with reddish-brown hair, wearing a light gold coat with a fur collar.

The second gunman was described as being in his 40s, unshaven, 5 feet 5, 140 pounds with "bad teeth." He was wearing a beanie hat and had on dark clothing.

Stans enters guilty plea to five violations

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Commerce Secretary Maurice H. Stans pleaded guilty today to five misdemeanor counts of violating campaign laws while he was chairman of Richard M. Nixon's 1972 re-election finance committee.

Stans said the violations were unintentional and expressed hope that he could begin rebuilding his life free of the anguish brought by "public accusations against me that have proven to be unfounded."

Stans, who will be 67 on March 22, could be sentenced to a maximum one year in jail and fined $1,000 on each of the five counts, but that is unlikely.

Hundreds rally to support bill against utility rates

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The Capitol hallways were flooded with hundreds of protesters seeking to overturn the rate structures of California's giant utility companies.

Assembly Speaker Leo McCarthy gave the crowd of more than 600 persons support Tuesday when he spoke to them at a church rally across the street from the Capitol.

"A whopping increase in rates is like a tax increase. Middle-income and low-income people ought not to carry a disproportionate share of the burden," the San Francisco Democrat said.

The Bay Area-based group called Electricity & Gas for the People (E&GP), which concentrated its attack on Pacific Gas & Electric Co. (PG&E), spearheaded the protest.

Like others in California, the utility charges lower rates to businesses and other big consumers than it does to residential power users. EG&P said it should be the other way around.

"Instead of having the big users pay less, we want those who use less to pay less," said group spokesman Michael Mitroff.

During the morning, the group lobbied for a bill by Assemblyman John Miller, D-Oakland, which would require utility companies to cut present rates in half for small amounts of gas and electricity.

McCarthy, who supports the bill, was presented with a box full of petitions urging a change in utility rate structure. Group spokesmen said the petitions had 100,000 signatures.

Film in policeman's camera 'overexposed'; nudist jailed

Pomona police said they were ready early today for a resident's naked, early-morning dash into the street in front of his home at 656 Illinois St.

Officers said the fellow had taken to running outdoors just as a morning newspaper was being delivered.

Shortly after 4 a.m., officers said, the 28-year-old man dashed outside and right into the flash-gun blast of a policeman armed with a camera. They said he turned around, raced back indoors and slammed the door, but was arrested by an officer who entered the back door. The suspect, George Oliver Hough III, was booked on an indecent exposure charge.

Gesture of good faith to voters

School officials offer to take salary cut

Administrators in one of the valley's school districts have decided to combat inflation by taking a 2½ per cent pay cut next year.

The 23 administrators of the Bonita School District, which serves La Verne and San Dimas, hope that other educators, including their teachers, will follow their example.

A similar move is now under consideration by the Walnut School District, but no action has been taken there by the Board of Trustees.

The cut in pay was presented to the Bonita school board Tuesday night "in response to the good faith of the voters," who had overwhelmingly passed an override request last week, raising taxes by 61 cents per $100 of assessed valuation.

It was accepted by the school board in the same vein.

James Overin, assistant superintendent of the district, said the action will reflect pay cuts ranging from $840 next year for Supt. James Johnson, to $473 for elementary school principals, and probably will stay in effect for two or three years.

Over-all, the cuts will reduce salaries by 2½ per cent and will save the district more than $30,000 a year.

The cuts were offered, despite the fact that the override will increase revenues by $480,000 a year. Overin said that new revenue was still not enough to keep the district operating at its best level.

"I realize that our teachers will be asking for pay raises in view of the high rate of inflation," Overin said. "I hope, however, that they will be reasonable."

The board was highly supportive of the move of the administrators.

Board member Vera Mae Gephart said she thought "this was a good move and indicates good faith with the voters who have expressed concern that our salaries were getting too high."

Johnson said the pay cuts will "present hardships to all concerned. All of those affected have more than enough to do, since we are already understaffed in most areas."

Program cuts are also under consideration and consultations are now in progress with the Bonita Unified School Teachers Association about them. Service cuts are under study with the representatives of the uncertified employes.

Johnson said, "The only hope for really substantial relief must come from the state legislature and the governor with an equitable formula and funding of education."

All those administrators who are employed on a 12-month basis will have their work years cut by six days and those employed on 10½ month basis will be reduced by five days. The superintendent and assistant superintendents, who are on long-term contracts, would have new contracts written which would have six days of vacation unpaid.

Hoffman challenges 31-vote loss

Recount due for Bonita election

A recount is set this week to verify the election of Robert Rimpau to the Bonita school board last Tuesday.

The election is challenged by Clell Hoffman, who lives in La Verne but who is a school administrator in Alhambra.

Incumbent Rimpau, according to final but unofficial tallies, beat Hoffman by 31 votes, but Hoffman claims there have been several irregularities in the election which could turn the vote in his favor.

Under the election code, Hoffman is entitled to a recount if he wants one because fewer than 100 votes separate the two contestants.

And a law that was passed in 1971 now bills the cost of the recount to the school district, regardless of the outcome. James Overin, assistant superintendent in charge of business, estimated the cost at close to $1,000.

He said deputies at the office of Los Angeles County Registrar Leonard Panish told him the district would have an official report on the election before March 21.

During the election, Hoffman led Rimpau through most of the night, sometimes by over 100 votes. But the last precinct, located at the Roynon School, put Rimpau over by the 31-vote margin.

Hoffman contends that because of the lateness of the hour — the count was completed at 1:30 a.m. — there is a strong possibility that election officials at that precinct may have made errors.

He also suggests that errors might have been made at the Ekstrand School precinct where election officials brought the ballot box to the district office without counting the votes, and had to be reconvened to make the count.

Further, Hoffman said, one precinct at the LeRoy Boys Home opened a half hour late because of a mixup. Had it opened on time, Hoffman contends he might have received several additional votes.

Panish said all votes cast in elections within the county will be canvassed by March 21. But because of the dispute at Bonita, that election will be counted as soon as possible.

Because the school board is not expected to meet again until April 1, it will not take official notice of the election until it is time to swear those who are elected into office.

The two other incumbents, Eugene Bowers and Lowell Godfrey, were returned to office by the voters last week.

JOSEPH BUSCH, Los Angeles district attorney public will be the guest speaker Thursday at luncheon sponsored by the Pomona Chamber of Commerce. The noon luncheon will be held at Orlando's Restaurant in Pomona. His talk is expected to deal with juvenile crime and juvenile justice. Reservations for the luncheon may be made through the Chamber of Commerce. Cost is $4.

OIA site serves 2,000-square-mile area

Officials to mark new radar center

The Federal Aviation Administration's new $2 million computerized radar approach control facility will have its official opening Friday at 10 a.m. at Ontario International Airport.

The 12,000-square-foot, single-story building houses sophisticated air traffic control equipment to safely direct airplanes through the area.

The facility was previously located at March Air Force Base in Riverside. It began operation at the Ontario airport on Feb. 24.

The 10 a.m. ceremony will be attended by Lynn Hink, the FAA's deputy director for the Western region; Parry Schriver and Bob Frehse, air traffic and airways facilities division chiefs for the Western region; and local mayors and aviation officials. An open house for the public will be observed from 1 to 5 p.m.

The facility is located 1130 S. Archibald Ave. at the airport's southeast corner. Gene P. Lawing is the operation's chief.

The center will provide radar air traffic control services for a 2,000-square-mile area which extends from El Monte to Banning and Mt. Baldy to Rancho California.

It provides flight control to some 175,000 flights annually. These include military, commercial and general aviation.

There are 17 airports within the service area, including Ontario, Chino, Riverside, Brackett, Cable, March, Norton and El Monte.

Air traffic control specialists use computerized electronic gear that can produce alpha numeric information on the radar display. This gives the airplane's identification, ground speed and altitude.

The system will also provide for automated transfer of the control of aircraft to other air traffic control facilities at Burbank, Los Angeles, El Toro and Palmdale.

The Ontario facility has 58 staff members. These include 37 traffic controllers who provide 24 hour operations, 15 electronic technicians and six administrators.

Owner gets his way on sign in color-full council session

The Claremont City Council Tuesday night sided with Rick Siebert, owner of Claremont TV at 132 Yale Ave., deciding that he could have a sign with orange letters on a dark brown stucco fascia.

Siebert had appealed an Architectural Commission denial of his proposed sign. The commission had requested that a modified color pattern be submitted.

The city staff felt that the orange lettering was too bright and incompatible with the dark brown building.

The Architectural Commission had recommended that clarity of the sign would be enhanced by adding white to the orange, but Siebert told the council he doesn't like the white.

Councilman Frank Hungerford chuckled, and said that "it's all judgmental. It bothers me that something this small should get to the City Council and not get settled by staff."

Hungerford said that there's a limit to "how far we can go telling a merchant what color he can have on his building. You'll get as many opinions as people we ask." Hungerford moved to support Siebert's appeal.

Councilwoman Eleanor Cohen said that the sign issue "is such a minor problem" and favored the appeal. Councilwoman Claire McDonald agreed, but pointed out that the Architectural Commission is doing a good job.

Acting Mayor Gene Block said he thought the sign would be better looking if orange and white, but went along with the rest of the council.

In other matters, the council decided on the purchase of four new police cars in a joint effort with the county which is buying Plymouth Furies for its Sheriff's department cars.

Deputy City Manager Paul Brotzman had recommended at first that the city call for bids, but Tuesday night told the council he had talked to county officials who quoted a price of $4,315 for a car with air conditioning.

Brotzman reported that each of the cars being replaced had been run more than the 60,000 mile rule of thumb established last year.

Boy Scouts lose unsafe home on school property

Sponsors and adult leaders of Pomona Boy Scout Troop 112 have until May 1 to find a way to save their old Scout House on school district property at 800 S. Caswell St., scheduled for demolition.

Meanwhile, the school board decided Tuesday night, the scouts may not occupy the old cabin but may hold their regular troop meetings in a classroom at Washington Elementary School.

County counsel staff member Elaine Canty warned the school board that as of this meeting the district and individual board members had been made publicly aware that the structure is unsafe and could be held liable should an injury occur.

The board decisio followed a lengthy discussion in which adult leaders of the troop, sponsored by Pomona Moose Lodge, school board members and people in the audience participated.

A number of alternatives were suggested. Board Chairman Ken Pine told the scouters that if the scout council or the Moose Lodge was interested in purchasing the Scout House the district would have it appraised.

Ed Harrison of Pomona said he would donate land for a site for the Scout House. Roy Day of Pomona said he would write a $1,000 check to start a building fund if the troop wanted to build a new scout house on Harrison's land.

CHP escorts back again on a limited basis

The "Escort 55" program will return this weekend but on a limited basis.

The California Highway Patrol said it will provide the convoy service in local areas on an "as needed" basis.

But motorists will not be led all the way to the Nevada border in a coordinated program as was done last month, said Capt. W. C. Jones, area commander.

"If we see a traffic buildup and increased speeds in the local area then we may impose the escort program," he explained. But if the need doesn't arise, then traffic will remain free flowing.

The escort program was halted the past two weekends because of race activities at the Ontario Motor Speedway.

When first instituted, the Escort 55 was limited locally to the San Bernardino Freeway.

But Jones said his officers may also provide such service on the Pomona Freeway if the traffic there requires it.

Purpose of the program is to help motorists obey the state's 55 mile per hour speed limit. Patrol cars involved in convoy duties are identified by their "It's 55" signs mounted on the trunks.

S.B. County jobs go begging

Only one thing census can't count on--census takers

There appears to be a shortage of census enumerators in San Bernardino County. And unless 1,000 more can be found the county's special census set to begin April 1 may be delayed.

County supervisors last February approved a $422,000 contract with the U.S. Bureau of Census for the hiring of 1,300 enumerators. Because of the county's increased population, officials believed the county may be entitled to $1 million in additional federal and state subventions allocated on a population basis.

The census bureau counted 684,000 residents in 1970. This was revised upward to 700,000 in 1972. County officials, however, believe the population to be closer to 730,000.

County Supervisor Robert Townsend of Chino expressed concern this week with the difficulty experienced by the county in hiring these census takers. The county has received only 800 applications and been successful in hiring only 300, he noted.

Townsend said he finds this "peculiar" considering the county's 10.2 per cent jobless rate which may be closer to 11 per cent in his district.

Applicants must be U.S. citizens, in good physical condition and able to read maps. They must be willing to work a minimum of six hours per day, six days per week and have a car available.

Those hired all receive $10 to attend a training session and can earn up to $28 per day.

Applications may be obtained at the Chino Municipal Court, 13271 Central Ave., Chino, Ontario City Clerk's office, 2255 Euclid Ave., and the Ontario Contact Station, 1010 S. Bon View Ave.

Anxious Baldy View School parents get word: no closing

An overflow crowd of Baldy View Elementary School parents Tuesday night was assured that the Upland Elementary District is not considering closing the school.

The parents were concerned because of a recommendation presented by the Upland Teachers Association to the school board last month. The UTA had suggested closing Baldy View and using it as a district office, part of a list of some 25 suggested cuts of expenditures.

"This administration and this superintendent have never considered recommending to this board of trustees that Baldy View be closed," Supt. Bill Plaster said at Tuesday night's board meeting. He noted that the district may consider redistricting some students north of Foothill Boulevard to schools such as Baldy View.

Plaster noted that he had received more than 50 letters from parents who objected to closing the school. In response the board voted unanimously to send a letter to each parent in the school indicating the district's intention to keep the school open.

The board authorized the superintendent to prepare for the formation of a citizen's committee to review school boundaries. The demographic study resulted for the district are expected by the end of May but the board felt that the committee could begin work immediately after spring vacation. The boundary changes will be put into effect next September.

Plaster presented to the board suggested budgeh freezes for the remainder of this school year. The total estimated amount of savings is $61,761.00.

Proposal for drug recovery center before city planners

A proposal to operate a drug recovery house in southwest Pomona will be considered again tonight by the Pomona Planning Commission.

Walter Ellison, program director, is seeking a permit to operate a board and care facility in the four-unit apartment building at 998 W. Ninth St.

The commission, which first considered the proposal at its Feb. 26 meeting, directed an environmental impact report be prepared before it voted on the use permit request.

Testimony given then both supported and opposed the proposed use. A petition bearing some 200 signatures has since been given the city planning staff in opposition to the use permit.

The commission meeting will start at 8 p.m. in the City Council chambers.

Other agenda items include a request by the Budget-Rent-A-Car to convert an abandoned service station at 1681 E. Holt Ave. into a rent-a-car business, a request by Daniel Simms Jr. to develop a seven unit apartment complex at 1444 W. Orange Ave., and a request for an environmental impact report exemption for a ceramics manufacturing plant on 3.5 acres at 2788 Pomona Blvd.

Lottery drawings for draft

WASHINGTON (AP) — Men born Dec. 8, 1956, were assigned No. 1 today in the annual stand-by draft lottery.

No. 2 was drawn for those with June 19 birthdays. No. 3 was assigned to those born March 22.

The men born in 1956 were given numbers in case they have to be called if the military draft is resumed.

The drawing began at 10:10 a.m. EDT with No. 9 being assigned to those born July 3.

April 5 drew No. 5. With just over half the numbers drawn, No. 4 was yet to be assigned.

The draft callup system is designed to supplement the all-volunteer armed forces in case of a national emergency, according to Selective Service Director Byron V. Pepitone.

The men who got their numbers today will be in the first group for possible callup next year. Then, each year after that, they will fall into a lower priority until they are no longer liable for the draft, normally at age 26.

Those who drew numbers 95 and lower will be given higher priority and placed in an "available" class unless they are eligible for deferment or exemption. Those assigned numbers 96 and above will remain in the "holding class."

The lottery drawing involved matching draft numbers drawn from one drum with birthdates drawn from another drum. The draft numbers were in red capsules and the birthdates in blue capsules.

Before the drawing began, the two drums were rotated for 20 minutes to give the capsules a thorough mixing.

The drums were stuffed Monday and have been locked and guarded since.

Pepitone noted that under the law men still must register for the draft during the period from 30 days before and 30 days after their 18th birthday.

"The all-volunteer concept of raising military manpower is proving successful in meeting the current manpower needs during this time of peace," Pepitone said.

"There is still enough uncertainty about relationships between nations to merit the continued functioning of the Selective Service system in a standby status to assure this nation the ability to augment the all-volunteer military force in the event of a national emergency.

This is the third standby lottery since the president's authority to draft men expired, July 1, 1973. Nobody has been drafted since Jan. 1, 1973.

The process is almost identical with the past lotteries except that one extra number, 366, was tossed in for the Feb. 29, 1956, Leap Year babies.

Meany calls for additional tax breaks

WASHINGTON (AP) — AFL-CIO President George Meany urged the Senate today to approve an additional $5.8 billion in tax cuts for families making less than $20,000 a year who itemize deductions.

Meany made the recommendation to the Senate Finance Committee as negotiators sought an energy compromise between President Ford and Congress to avoid higher gasoline taxes and oil import quotas this year while the economy is ailing.

The labor leader said taxpayers making less than $20,000 who itemize deductions are all but ignored in a tax cut approved by the House. He said this could be corrected by giving each taxpayer the option of taking a $200 per person tax credit instead of the present $750 personal exemption.

Meany's proposal, already introduced by Sen. Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn., a member of the committee, would provide a $12,500 family of four a $170 reduction in 1975 taxes, compared to no relief in the House bill. A $15,000 family would receive $125 under the Mondale amendment, Meany said.

The $21.3 billion tax cut bill approved by the House includes $8.1 billion in rebates on 1974 taxes, which would be available to every taxpayer. But in reducing taxes on 1975 income, the House gave all the relief to families making under $10,000 a year who do not itemize deductions.

Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore., chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee which is drafting an energy bill, said his plan for an eventual 40-cent-a-gallon increase in gasoline taxes is dead. Instead, he said a five-cent hike next year would be more likely.

He indicated other members of the panel objected to the steep increase, from the present four-cent-a-gallon rate, for fear it would further depress the economy.

Ullman said hearings before his committee will conclude Monday and key decisions on what the measure will contain should be made before the Easter recess.

The goal is to get the bill to the House floor by mid-April, he said.

Ex-RAF pilot is held for giving secrets to Russ

HOLYHEAD, Wales (AP) — A former Royal Air Force nuclear bomber pilot was charged today with passing secret information to a Soviet diplomat over the past three weeks.

Detectives hustled 33-year-old Alastair Steadman, a flight lieutenant until he left the air force a year ago, in and out of court with his head covered by a blanket.

He was charged under the Official Secrets Act and remanded to jail.

Police detectives claimed Steadman tried to pass unspecified information to a Soviet consulate official between Feb. 16 and March 11 "for a purpose prejudicial to the safety and interests of the state."

The charge said the data was "calculated to be directly or indirectly useful to an enemy." Newspapers said it could involve secret electronic equipment carried by Britain's nuclear bombers.

Steadman was arrested Tuesday by agents of MI5, Britain's counterespionage agency, at his farmhouse home near Anglesey.

The pilot, married and the father of two childen, once flew the giant delta-wing Vulcan bombers, the last of Britain's independent nuclear air strike force.

His arrest came amid growing opposition to the planned London visit next month by Alexander Shelepin, head of the Soviet trade union movement.

Portuguese planes involved

U.S. denies air raid role

LISBON, Portugal (AP) — The United States has denied it had anything to do with an attack by two Portuguese air force planes on the headquarters of an artillery regiment near the Lisbon airport.

Portugal's leftist military government termed the brief attack Tuesday an uprising and blamed "reactionary" elements headed by Gen. Artomo Spinola, the military regime's first president. Spinola's successor, President Francisco da Costa Gomes, appealed for calm and said the government was in complete control.

LISBON, Portugal (AP) — Portugal's leftist military rulers announced that they are assuming permanent political powers following the attack.

After an all-night session, the 200 officers of the ruling Armed Forces Movement announced that elections for an assembly to write a new constitution would be held as scheduled April 12. But they said they were setting up a new Revolutionary Council to "institutionalize" military participation in the country's political life.

Brig. Gen. Otelo Saraiva de Carvalho, the government's security chief, implicated the United States, saying U.S. Ambassador Frank Carlucci "had better leave after what happened today."

"I categorically deny that the U.S. Embassy or the government was in any way involved in events in Lisbon today," said a State Department spokesman in Washington.

Military units took up positions around the U.S. Embassy as leftists surged into the street to show support for the government. A mob sacked the headquarters of the conservative Center Democratic party.

Spinola, a conservative who was ousted by leftist generals last September, fled by helicopter with his wife and 18 officers to a Spanish air force base just across the border. Unconfirmed reports said they contacted diplomatic representatives of Brazil, which gave asylum to the president and premier of the Portuguese dictatorship ousted last April.

The Spanish government announced that it also had nothing to do with the events in Portugal.

The Portuguese government closed the border with Spain and said Spinola, once the hero of the military revolution, headed a list of 28 officers who would be "arrested, tried and punished." But by then he had made his escape.

Home mortgage subsidy could reduce interest rate to 6%

WASHINGTON (AP) — A home mortgage subsidy program intended to help an estimated 400,000 prospective home buyers has been approved by the House Banking Committee.

If adopted, the measure would reduce interest rates on single family homes and condominiums to 6 or 7 per cent for persons who qualify under the bill, approved on a 25 to 11 vote Tuesday.

Currently mortgage interest rates are running between 8 and 9½ per cent.

The subsidy program would be in effect through June 30, 1976.

Persons eligible for the bargain rates could earn no more than 120 per cent of the median income in their area, ranging between $15,000 and $18,500 in most cities, and could buy houses valued at no more than $38,000.

However, 10 per cent of the funds would be earmarked to subsidize interest rates on houses valued up to $42,000 in the 70 cities which are considered high cost areas.

The subsidy program is opposed by the Ford administration, and all but one Republican on the Banking Committee voted against the measure. The Democratic leadership has included emergency housing relief as part of its plan for economic revival.

The program includes two methods to lower interest rates. Lenders such as savings and loan associations, mortgage bankers and in some cases traditional banks would have the option of deciding which method to offer home buyers.

Under one program the government would provide a subsidy for a 6 per cent mortgage interest rate for three years. After that, the 6 per cent rate would be phased out over another three years and then terminated entirely after six years. Then the interest rate would revert to the current market price for the rest of the loan.

2 youths held in strong-arm purse snatching

Two youths were arrested in POMONA Tuesday and charged with knocking down a 75-year-old woman and stealing her purse outside a restaurant.

The pair, one a 17-year-old laborer and the other a 16-year-old Park Avenue High School student, were booked on suspicion of strong-arm robbery. Both denied the charges.

The victim, Mary Ann Adams, Pomona, was crossing the parking lot at Bob's Big Boy, 221 W. Holt Ave., when she was knocked down from behind by two youths and her purse containing $20 was stolen. Her husband, James, 75, and several other persons witnessed the incident. One attempted to follow the pair, but was outrun.

A few minutes later and a block away, police seized the two suspects outside a drive-in restaurant.

Mrs. Adams suffered a knee injury and bruises and was treated by a physician.

An ice cream vendor told POMONA police that he was robbed early Tuesday evening by three young men and a young woman in the 1400 block of S. Palomares Street.

Jerrold J. Coprich, 19, Pomona, said he was stopped by one of the four, who asked for ice cream. Then, he pulled a pistol and took the cash, and two boxes of candy, the salesman said.

The robber was described as a Negro about 18 wearing a brown hat, brown jacket and green shirt. He was armed with a .38-caliber revolver. One of the other men was armed with a small-caliber automatic, the victim said.

West End sheriff's deputies and Ontario police said they recovered four hay trailers stolen early Tuesday morning in the Chino area from underneath the Pomona Freeway overpasses at Riverside Drive and Grove Avenue.

The four trailers, loaded with hay, were reported stolen between 7 and 9 a.m. The trailers were located several hours later by deputies on Merrill Avenue west of Archibald Avenue. The trailers had been unloaded somewhere and abandoned.

Sheriff's deputies and police in the last few months have been investigating a series of hay truck thefts in the West End area. In nearly every case the trucks, trailers and loads of hay were parked underneath freeway overpasses in heavy rains. The drivers of the vehicles parked the trucks under the overpasses to prevent the hay from rotting before delivery.

clined interest is the questionable demand for office space downtown, considering the financially troubled Speidel Building.

UCB is rapidly approaching an extension deadline for the development, with city officials hopeful of a resolution of the situation within weeks.

The Speidel Building, the completed Bank of California facility at Main Street and Mission Boulevard, and the proposed UCB structure are all in Redevelopment Project Area 1, located west of Garey Avenue downtown.

The other original project area east of Garey Avenue has never been developed at all.

The diversified approach urged by the UPI study has the full backing of Gonce, who has already recommended that the council approve redevelopment project areas in the Indian Hill Boulevard-Holt Avenue commercial areas, and the industrial area along Reservoir Avenue in southeast Pomona.

"I think it is imperative that action be taken immediately to establish the two projects," said Gonce.

Of primary importance, he explained, is insuring that the commercial areas along Indian Hill Boulevard and Holt Avenue be protected from decline, since these areas are critical to the city's economic base.

Diversification of the redevelopment effort, he continued, should provide a healthier climate for redevelopment throughout the city, since income from one project area can be used to stimulat development in another area.

Gonce emphasized that diversification will not end the city's efforts to rejuvenate downtown, but will in the long run be beneficial to it.

Tied in with the proposed new direction of redevonment effort, is a proposed reorganization of city commissions dealing with redevelopment.

Gonce favors a new advisory commission composed of the chairmen of the city's Parks and Recreation, Planning, and Cultural Arts commissions, plus professional and public representatives.

If created, the new body would attempt to tie together development efforts throughout the city, and provide a more cohesive approach to solving the social problems in Pomona.

The recommendations by Gonce, and those included in the UPI study are expected to be considered by the City Council in the near future.

Thurber cartoons found in old house

NEWTOWN, Conn. (AP) — The attic walls of an old house have yielded dozens of cartoons sketched more than 40 years ago by humorist James Thurber.

Frumpy, stooped men march along one wall on their way to fish. Nearby, a dog takes a typical Thurber-dog nap in a chair.

Some of the characters have names — presumably people and animals the humorist knew when he lived in the house from 1931 to 1934.

"My husband was up in the attic trying to figure out where the old staircase went," said Catharine Coster, who with her husband, Allen, now occupies the home.

"He pulled layers and layers of wallpaper off the attic walls looking. And then suddenly he found the pencil sketch entitled, 'The Life of a Dog.' He was so excited he woke me up at 6 o'clock in the morning."

Careful stripping of additional paper bared three walls covered with cartoons, although some are faint and hard to see.

Helen Thurber, the humorist's second wife, said the attic was his writing room and there is "no question" that he did the wall cartoons — "He always did drawings on people's walls."

The Costers believe Thurber wrote several books in the room between 1931 and 1933, including "The Owl in the Attic," "The Seal in the Bedroom," and "My Life and Hard Times."

The Costers want to share their find with the public, but the narrow winding stairway makes the room nearly inaccessible. They are considering moving the plaster walls to a library, possibly at the Department of Thurber Studies at Ohio State University.

In what may have been a very personal panel, Thurber drew an aggressive woman thrusting a flower toward a cowering, small man with the caption, "Rosemary-for remembrance."

Thurber divorced his first wife in 1935. They had a daughter, Rosemary.

"Daniel and his gang going fishing at Riverside" depicts four men marching single-file beneath a fluffy cloud.

One of the largest scenes shows "The Newtown Clown Band," five men in clown suits. One is playing a piano, another a drum, a third a horn and and a fourth a banjo. The fifth is just sitting on the piano.

Thurber, who died in 1961, illustrated his stories with similar caricatures. His best known work was the short story, "The Secret Life of Walter Mitty."

Wingspan of 51 feet

Winged reptile's bones found

NEW YORK (AP) — Fossil hunters in Texas have discovered the remains of an extinct winged reptile with a wingspan of 51 feet — about the length of an average railroad freight car — that is the largest known creature ever to have flown.

Bones of the animal, which lived about 60 million years ago, were found in excavations during the last three years in Big Bend National Park in southwest Texas by Douglas A. Lawson, a graduate student at the University of California at Berkeley.

Estimates of the size of the pterodactyl, or winged reptile, were based on the measurements of many bone and bone fragments. The wingspan is twice that of the biggest previously known pterodactyl and almost six times that of the condor, the largest flying bird now alive.

Announcement of the discovery was made in the March 14 issue of Science magazine. It was expected to revive debate among experts about whether the flying reptiles actually flew like birds or climbed to high places and took off to soar like gliders.

"The thing that's so extraordinary about this thing is its tremendous size," said Dr. Wann Langston Jr., director of the Vertebrate Paleontology Laboratory of the University of Texas at Austin, under whose auspieces Lawson is carrying out his explorations.

In his report, Lawson said the animal may have been a carrion eater, feeding upon dead dinosaurs much like vultures today feed upon dead animals. "This pterosaur had a neck long enough to probe a dinosaur carcass," he wrote.

Langston said that a number of skeletons of the pterosaurs — or pterodactyls as they are popularly named — had been found and that Lawson was now on the way to resume excavation.

The largest previously known pterosaur was the species Pteronodon with a wingspread of about 25 feet. No name has yet been given to the new find although scientists said it was clearly a new species.

Brown opposes milk pricing change

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. has come out against repeal of minimum wholesale and retail milk prices.

As the governor voiced his opposition Tuesday, an assembly committee held over a bill that would have done it.

Brown told reporters his food and agriculture director wants to keep the power to set minimum milk prices, and he would be hard pressed to go against him.

"Tim Wallace is very experienced. He is an economist. He may be able to bring milk in at a lower price," Brown said after meeting with spokesmen for state marketing order boards.

Brown refused to say he would veto legislation to scrap minimum prices, however.

A little later, the Assembly Agriculture Committee held over a bill by Assemblyman Joseph Montoya, D-La Puente, to eliminate the minimum milk pricing power.

Committee Chairman John Thurman, D-Modesto, said he hoped the committee could come up with a compromise between Montoya's bill and other pending bills on the subject.

But Mortoya said it might take a ballot initiative.

"I am skeptical that we can do anything legislatively," he said. "There are just too many different interest groups.

"If nothing comes from the legislature then we are going to take our case to the people."

Brown, who was the first governor to meet with a milk marketing board since his father did it 15 years ago, told them he favored putting one public representative on each of the 37 state marketing boards.

Only one of the boards — the Egg Advisory Board — has a public member now.

Supervisors ask Brown for help in malpractice crisis

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Los Angeles county Board of Supervisors has appealed to Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. and several county agencies for help in solving the medical malpractice insurance "crisis."

Supervisor Pete Schabarum said Tuesday that soaring malpractice insurance fees have caused many doctors to practice without insurance.

And he said the number of practicing physicians is becoming increasingly scarce because skyrocketing insurance premiums are forcing early retirement of some doctors while many younger physicians are entering military service rather than face the high insurance rates.

The supervisors unanimously voted to urge Gov. Brown to expand the responsibilities of the state Board of Medical examiners, and to ask the County Medical Association, County Bar Association, County Counsel, County Chief Administrative Officer and Risk Management Advisory Committee to study the County Medical Association's plans for lowering malpractice insurance costs.

Medical malpractice insurance could jump from $1.5 million to $4.5 annually for the county's 6,000 doctors, said Dr. Sanford F. Rothenberg, president of the County Medical Association. He said rates went up 15 per cent Jan. 1 and are now going up by an additional 100 per cent.

"In 1968, my insurance cost $750. This year the premium is $7,000, a 100 per cent increase would mean $14,000," Rothenberg, a neurological surgeon, said.

Although there is negligence among a small number of doctors, Rothenberg said, the real cause of the huge premium increases is failure to regulate contingency fees for lawyers.

He said this encourages wholesale solicitation of clients, unethical and illegal fee splitting and use of biased expert witnesses.

Physicians are supporting a proposed law to limit patient compensation to $150,000 except in cases of gross negligence, Rothenberg said.

The county's present hospital liability and medical practice insurance policy will expire May 22, Schabarum said. The supervisors adopted Schabarum's motion to hire a brokerage firm to develop cost data and coverage terms for a new policy.

Plane crash in snowstorm kills two

BAKER (AP) — Two Yucca Valley residents were killed in a plane crash near here during a blustery snowstorm through which four companions hiked two miles to reach help.

The victims were identified as Dr. Clarence Joseph Mersh, 46, a veterinarian, and Dianna Lynn Rogers, 17. The four survivors, reported in satisfactory condition at Barstow Community hospital, were identified as Linda Anderson, 40; her two daughters, Cynthia, 19, and Christine, 17; and Kathy Tinsley, 26, all of Yucca Valley.

A hospital spokesman said the women received several broken ribs and back and ankle injuries, but braved the snowstorm Tuesday to walk to nearby Interstate 15, where they flagged down a bus.

Funding crisis ends; hunt for alien continues

LOS ANGELES (AP) — U.S. immigration officials say they can resume normal operations to round up illegal aliens after a $1.3 million Congressional appropriation ended a funding crisis.

Joseph Dernetz, assistant director here of the Immigration and Naturalization Service, said Tuesday the cutback in funds had reduced alien arrests by about 50 per cent in Los Angeles and other areas close to the Mexican border.

Officers have been arresting 75 to 100 aliens daily but, Dernetz stated, "we expect it to go back up to 200 or 300 per day by the end of this month."

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — If you work for Pacific Telephone, you can ring up a discount on your phone bill — and the more you make, the less you pay.

Among those persons enjoying virtually free phone service is PT&T board chairman Jerome Hull, who is paid $187,500 annual salary.

Pacific Gas & Electric Co. offers utility bill discounts to its employes too, but they all get a flat 25 per cent off — from meter readers to top executives.

Both firms have come under fire lately for their frequent rate hike requests before the California Public Utilities Commission.

PT&T information officer Roger Orr said all 97,000 telephone company employes get free installation — which cost regular customers $24.

Most PT&T employes in addition get 50 per cent off their regular monthly rate, but higher level employes get a 100 per cent discount, Orr said. Middle managers and persons with 30 years service get an extra $20 free in toll calls and some free message units.

The discounts, approved many years ago by the PUC, cost PG&E an estimated $2,004,000 yearly, which the company said is "just a hair over 1 per cent of our operating revenues last year." Discounts cost PT&T about $6,788,000 a year.

PG&E spokesman Dennis Pooler said the discount is "part of the fringe benefit package. It's very likely that if this was disallowed in the future that the employes would require to be compensated for a like amount."

Orr said PT&T regards the discounts as "an important factor in employe morale and we believe it helps us retain skilled employes."

Chinatown business men threatened

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Extortion threats have been sent to Chinatown business men by a terrorist Chinese youth gang, police say.

Authorities disclosed Tuesday that demands of $10,000 to $20,000 had been made on 18 businesses carrying threats to harm the families of the owners.

The letters, written in Chinese and mailed late last week, were received by operators of the Cathay Bank, plus a market, some restuarants and shops.

Police said that with one exception the letters were signed by the Wah Ching youth gang. The other was signed "City Youth Organization."

"We feel this is the forerunner of some scheme," said detective Vinal Barrett. "Possibly some Honk Kong-oriented setup to extort money from these businessmen. We're not going to let it happen this time and we don't feel anyone is going to be harmed."

Terminal case wants home for 3 kids

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Linda Hardy, a terminal cancer victim, has one last goal in life — finding a good home for her three children.

"I'd like to get well and reach for the stars again," said the 32-year-old Mrs. Hardy, who greets visitors with smiles, not tears. "I have a will to live. I have rounds with God."

But her main concern is her children, Sheri, 12, Joe, 10, and Amber, 6.

Mrs. Hardy said the children's father deserted the family five years ago and that she lives on $209 a month in welfare payments.

"People have offered to take one child, but the children want to stay together," she said.

Mrs. Hardy said her brother in Kansas volunteered to care for the children, but he has three of his own, one with cerebral palsy.

Her cancer was discovered two years ago when she noticed a lump in her breast. She has had several operations since then.

Mrs. Hardy said friends get upset with her because she seems to have accepted death without struggling.

"But I've put up one heck of a fight," she said in an interview Monday. "My doctors know that."

A nurse in the office of Mrs. Hardy's doctor said, "She's just got a remarkable attitude."

Marilyn Marr, director of community relations for the Franklin County Children Services Board, said that if the children were adopted, Mrs. Hardy would first have to get a divorce and the natural father would have to release permanent custody of the children.

However, Mrs. Hardy is not necessarily asking the children be adopted and under the law also could put a guardian assignment in her will; give up her rights to the children before her death and assign a guardian, or place them in a foster home without the father's permission.

Mrs. Hardy, who has been interviewing persons who learned of her plight and have offered to keep the children, was in the intensive care unit Tuesday and was not available for comment on her plans, which are being handled by her doctor.

The children pray for her each night, Mrs. Hardy said.

"I've read that sometimes kids blame their parents for dying," she said. "I hope my kids don't even think I ran out, because I want to hang on. But there's no store to buy time."

She sends them to a Roman Catholic school because she feels religion can help them accept her death.

"It's a cold world," she said. "But it's also a beautiful world and I'd rather remember the beauty."

Man, 71, held in death of girlfriend, 80

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A 71-year-old man was held today for beating his 80-year-old girlfriend to death, police said.

William Riley was booked for investigation of murder in the death of Ida Mathews in the house they shared in East Los Angeles.

Police said the woman was beaten with a telephone during an argument.

Mother, daughter die

Couldn't pay electric bill, burned charcoal

MIAMI (AP) — A widow who didn't have money to pay her electric bill tried to keep herself and her daughter warm by burning charcoal for heat after their electricity was cut off. It killed them.

"It was a sad case — they were both obviously cold," Dr. Peter Lardizabal, assistant medical examiner for Dade County, said.

Dolores Fernandez, 44, and her daughter, Felicita, 11, were killed by carbon dioxide poisoning from a charcoal grill they used in their rented cottage, he said.

The two, bundled in heavy clothing against the cold, had been dead several days when their bodies were found in their cottage Sunday. The bodies were discovered by the landlady when she went to collect overdue rent.

Although daytime temperatures in Miami were in the 70s and 80s last week, overnight temperatures dipped into the low 50s.

"They had a heater, but the electricity was cut off," landlady Juanita Curry said. "She didn't have much money."

Lardizabal said charcoal bags have printed warnings that the material should not be burned in closed areas because of the danger of carbon monoxide poisoning.

Police said a receipt in the home indicated it would have cost $102 to have electricity restored, but Mrs. Fernandez earned only $2.10 an hour as a folder at a Miami laundry, a job she had held a month.

A Florida Power and Light spokesman said company files indicated that services were discontinued due "to nonpayment of bills for services rendered."

Investments now at $2.5 billion

Japanese inroads in U.S.

NEW YORK (AP) — Japanese investment in the United States rose by $500 million during 1974, bringing the total to $2.5 billion, the deputy leader of a Japanese business group said here Monday.

Eiichi Hashimoto, chairman of Mitsui and Co., Ltd., told a news conference he expected the investment rise to continue but declined to provide any estimates. By yearend 1974, he said, U.S. investment in Japan totaled $800 million.

Hashimoto, head of one of Japan's biggest trading companies, is a member of a nine-man economic mission to the United States which is visiting four American cities in an effort to seek greater economic cooperation and understanding between the two countries. It is the first such Japanese business mission in six years.

Referring to upcoming meetings in Washington, the group's leader, Norishige Hasegawa, said, "we wish to know the pulse of the government." The group has meetings scheduled with Treasury Secretary William Simon, Federal Reserve Board chairman Arthur Burns, and Commerce Secretary Frederick Dent among others.

At a press conference following meetings with businessmen here, the group expressed confidence in the American economy. "Our recession remains more serious than yours," said Eishiro Saito, executive vice president of Nippon Steel Corp.

As a result of high interest rates in Japan, Hashimoto said his company planned to borrow money in U.S. markets. The businessmen expressed concern over continuation of Japan's tight money policy, designed to fight inflation.

"Every day we are expecting to get a change in policy," said Hasegawa, who is president of the Sumitomo Chemical Co., Ltd.

"I believe the future emphasis in Japanese economic policy will be on acheiving slower but more stable economic growth and on harmonizing Japan's economic behavior more closely with that of the international economic community," he said.

Two firms recall color TV sets

WASHINGTON (AP) — About 4,500 color television sets are being recalled by two manufacturers because they could emit potentially hazardous radiation.

The Food and Drug Administration said Monday that many of the 2,000 Quasar receivers and the 2,500 Toshiba sets remain in warehouses, unlike the $20 million recall earlier this year of some 400,000 sets which were in consumers' hands.

The pending recalls involve Toshiba 19-inch color model C495 and Quasar 19-inch color portable models WP5532LW, WP5538LS, WP5546LW, WP5534LW, WP5510LP, WP5016MW and HP5552.

Voltage regulation devices on some Quasar sets were not locked after factory adjustment, the FDA said. It said some of the Toshiba sets may have an inadequate number of capacitors to regulate voltage, creating a potential hazard if the remaining capacitors failed.

Meanwhile, the FDA says it has received hundreds of letters complaining that sets involved in the January recall have not been fixed.

The January recall involved 31 models of Panasonic sets, 13 models of Penncrest sets sold by J.C. Penney and three models of Bradford brand sets sold by W. T. Grant stores. All sets were manufactured by Matushita Electric Industries of Japan.

Deeply buried sediments may hold oil

Atlantic was once stagnant lake

LA JOLLA (AP) — A mile-deep hole dug in the floor of the Atlantic Ocean proves it began as a fresh water lake and then turned salty and stagnant for 20 million years, scientists say.

In a report on the 40th expedition of the drilling ship Glomar Challenger, they say the Atlantic became a normal ocean only after the long stagnation and evaporation.

A "remarkable succession" of organic-rich sediments also has been found, posing the possibility of finding oil off the shores of Southern Africa, said the report.

"The possibility that these organic sediments could generate petroleum after sufficiently great burial will be carefully investigated," a spokesman said at the La Jolla headquarters of the multination Deep Sea Drilling Project.

"Several of the major producing oil fields in the onshore and shallow offshore areas of West Africa have tapped their liquid hydrocarbons in sediments of identical age and similar rock type."

There is no indication of the size of the possible undersea oilfield, he said in an interview Monday.

The bore was drilled in December and January in the expedition in which Drs. William B. F. Ryan of the Lamont-Doherty Geological Observatory of Columbia University and Hans M. Bolli of the geologisches Institute of Zurich were chief scientists.

At one period in history, said their report, the Atlantic may have dried up completely.

Scientists formerly believed the early Atlantic was stable, they said, but the expedition found instead that it was "subject to tremendous environmental stress."

A single giant continent called Pangea existed before the Atlantic's birth an estimated 180 million years ago, said the report.

Documents reveal shocking episode

Royal sex scandal at Queen Victoria's court hushed up

LONDON (AP) — Queen Victoria's family and government leaders of the day hushed up Buckingham Palace's reported connection to a sex scandal that shocked Britain 75 years ago, according to official documents opened this week for the first time.

The scandal centered on a male homosexual brothel in London's Cleveland Street allegedly frequented by Lord Arthur Somerset, equerry to the Prince of Wales, and other prominent men.

Details of the affair came to light when the director of public prosecutions opened relevant documents to public inspection. Until recently, the department kept the wraps on official documents for 100 years.

The papers confirm rumors rife at the time that such leaders as the Prince of Wales and the prime minister, Lord Salisbury, prevented authorities from prosecuting Lord Somerset. The Prince of Wales, the eldest son of Queen Victoria, became King Edward VII.

The documents also revealed that officials at the time wrote that Lord Somerset's attorney boasted that if the peer was taken to court "a very distinguished person will be involved — PAV."

That referred to Prince Albert Victor, the black sheep among Queen Victoria's children. The prince's name had earlier been mentioned in the "Jack the Ripper" murders that terrorized London.

The documents do not mention Prince Albert further. They show the attorney general, the public prosecutor and the police commissioner wanted to prosecute Lord Somerset, who is referred to in the documents as "Mr. Brown," under stringent laws forbiding acts of "gross indecency" between male homosexuals.

However, the then home secretary, Lord Halsbury, plus Lord Salisbury and other leaders were against this, partly because of Lord Somerset's position in society and partly because they feared other prominent Britons would be implicated.

The then assistant director of public prosecutions, H. Cuffee, wrote that the Prince of Wales was "in a great state" and sent high-powered emissaries to the prosecutor's department and the police commissioner's office on Lord Somerset's behalf.

The prince, Cuffee said, "didn't believe a word of it and wished to concern himself to clear LAS (Lord Somerset) ... and must have something settled."

Soon after, Somerset left the country — before an arrest warrant was issued.

The papers also included evidence that distinguished clients of the brothel tried to bribe the male prostitutes of Cleveland Street to go abroad before they could be called as witnesses.

The Times of London described the documents Tuesday as "an illuminating example of the Victorian high establishment closing ranks and pulling strings to protect its errant members."

'Suckered,' says seeker of dream girl

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — "I'm beginning to get the feeling that I've been played for a sucker," says the man whose want-ad search for his tennis match dream girl turned into a nightmare.

"It would seem," said Donn Sigerson wth a sigh, "that there is indeed one born every minute."

Sigerson said today that Phyllis Gordon, who answered a Philadelphia inquirer advertisement and said she was the dream girl he met at a Palm Springs tennis match, was definitely not the girl he fell in love with.

And, to make matters worse, he said, he gave her and a girlfriend a free trip to California.

"She's very nice and all that," said Sigerson, a well-to-do industrialist. "And she apparently picked up enough information so that it seemed like she was the girl.

"But she's definitely not. Definitely not."

Sigerson's tangled tale of love began at the Davis Cup tennis matches at Palm Springs when he met a beautiful and intelligent girl whose name he never learned.

As a crowd pushed them apart, he cried, "I'll go anywhere to meet you."

"Even to Philadelphia?" she asked as she disappeared.

He placed an ad in the newspaper which led to Miss Gordon, 24, a University of Pennsylvania law student.

One student at Marshall earns all A's

Eighth grader Leticia Sierra, a student at Marshall Junior High School in Pomona, earned straight As the first semester, according to Principal Jack Housen.

Eighteen eighth graders at the school maintained grade point averages between 3.5 and 3.9 to be placed on the honor roll.

They are Julie Daniel, De Ann Dioses, Richard Haluschak, Gayle Holloway, Cheryl James, Lovely Ko, Frank Lawless, Joseph Luna, Roger Rivera, Duane Rodall, Anitra Sanders, Jon Sobieski, Douglas Stapleton, Dawn Terry, Charlotte Townsend, Adrienne Tucker, Sidney Weiss and Beverly Willis.

Seventh graders who maintained 3.4 to 3.0 grade point averages to earn honorable mention were Sylvia Arnwine, Janet Ballard, Carla Brotherton, Jan Burbanks, Arthur Gonzales, Cheryl Hayter, Wendy Ingram, Charlene Johnson, George Jozens, Diana Koenen, Alex Low, Kerri Matthews, Elizabeth McAlister, Melody Moore, Christopher Northrop, Veronica O'Day, Gayle Olivas, Karen Richardson, Joyce Rucker, Adriana Salazar, David Titus, Deliah Tomlinson, Scott Trotter and Lisa Warren.

Eighth graders who earned honorable mention by maintaining grade point averages between 3.4 and 3.0 are Paul Andrews, Katherine Araiza, Rhonda Bess, Valerie Booker, Christine Brown, Paul Budinich, Patricia Davison, Clayborne Ferguson, Jan Fractious, Diane Gonzales, Vicki Gooden, Sherrie Hardee, Tina Hayter, Karen Hinskilwood, Angel Ho, Rhonda Lane, Susan Leverett, Ruben Martinez, Mi Ling McFall, Trudy Montgomery, James Nixon, David Ojeda, Allison Parm, David Porter, Mark Pye, Randy Reynolds, Theresa Shinsky, John Sohmer, Donald Sparks, Richard Spooner, Lorna Tate, Floyd Williams, Melody Wilson and Julie Woods.

Fainting ruse thwarts theft

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Rosanne Nakampsu's way of dealing with bank robbers may not be courageous, but it was effective.

When a man handed the teller a note recently, demanding money from the cash drawer, Miss Nakampsu pretended to faint and crashed to the floor.

The man, unnerved by the commotion, ran out the door, leaving the note —and the money —behind.

Inning No. 2 in contest between Little League, Elder Dr. citizens

The second half of a public discussion on whether to open up a parking lot at College Park, Claremont, onto Elder Drive will be held Thursday at 7:30 p.m. at Blaisdell Park building.

The meetings are being held by a subcommittee of the Claremont Parks and Recreation Commission, which may receive a recommendation at its meeting next Monday night.

A four-hour meeting last Thursday evening pitted representatives of the National Little League against the residents of Elder Drive. Little League officials contend that a parking lot at the west end of College Park is too distant from their diamond at the east end of the park, and would like the city to remove a berm and build a parking lot which could be reached from Elder Drive, and would be safer for children.

The westerly two diamonds are used by the American Little League which uses the westerly parking lot.

Elder Park residents told city officials at a meeting in March 1971 that the traffic noise in the area would be "excessive" if an easterly parking lot were developed.

No license needed

PORT ANTONIO, Jamaica (UPI) — No license is required to fish in Jamaica, reports The Jamaica Tourist Board. Anglers may charter a boat in Port Antonio and go after salt water fish such as sailfish, marlin, bluefin, yellowfin and tuna.

Campbell eyes double tax on gas ... Cranston bids for youth jobs

ASSEMBLYMAN WILLIAM CAMPBELL, R-64th Dist., said he will introduce legislation to prevent taxes from being taxed in the sale of gasoline.

His measure would exclude federal gasoline taxes and state motor vehicle fuel license taxes from the sales price of gasoline that is subject to California's sales and use tax.

Under current law, the state's sales and use tax is levied on the actual sales price of gasoline and the amount of other state and federal taxes.

"Personally, I think the sales tax on gasoline is entirely unnecessary. What I'd really like to do is repeal the sales tax altogether. Unfortunately, certain political realities make such action unfeasible at the present time."

Campbell said his proposal seeks to reform the state law which forces consumers to pay what amounts to a tax on a tax.

"With proposed increases in federal taxes which could add anywhere from five cents to 15 cents to the price of a gallon of gasoline, this form of double taxation is going to work a real hardship on the already hard-pressed California motorists."

Campbell said his bill would exclude the federal tax on producers and importers which now accounts for five cents of the price on a gallon of gasoline and could, under proposed changes, account for 20 cents.

It would also exclude the state motor vehicle tax which adds seven cents to the cost of a gallon of gasoline.

Thus, assuming no immediate increase in the federal producers and importers tax, the Campbell legislation would reduce the taxable price of gasoline by 12 cents per gallon.

"The actual savings to motorists are relatively small with federal gas taxes at their current level. The point is, however, that federal gas taxes will increase, and probably quite sharply, in the very near future.

"Unless the Legislature eliminates California's tax on the increased federal tax, we are going to find consumers saddled with some outrageous gasoline bills," said Campbell.

U.S. SEN. ALAN CRANSTON, D-Calif, has joined with other senators in seeking $654 million in an emergency program to provide 1.1 million jobs for disadvantaged youths this summer.

At least $65 million to finance 115,000 jobs could go to California, he reported.

Cranston said there is no funding earmarked for a summer job program in President Gerald Ford's current budget.

"Theoretically, public service employment funds can be used for this purpose. But there isn't enough public service money budgeted to take care of the millions of out-of-work adults, many of whom have families to support let alone young people."

Not only would these jobs provide a welcome source of additional income for needy families but also give the youngsters a sense of achievement and responsibility while they are out of school, said Cranston.

About 40 per cent of the requested money would go to the nation's 50 largest cities and the rest to smaller towns in accordance with a formula worked out by the National League of Cities.

Summer jobs would be offered that will last for nine weeks and pay $2.10 an hour for a 26-hour week. Total summer pay would reach $566. These would be limited to those 14 to 21 years old.

Besides the job funds, the senators are seeking $26 million for summer recreational opportunities for disadvantaged younsters between 6 and 13, said Cranston.

REP JIM LLOYD, D-35th Dist., said he will look into the feasibility of the Air Force's Airborne Warning and Control System (AWACS) because of a General Accounting Office report highly critical of the system.

Lloyd, who serves on the House Armed Services Committee, said his interest was prompted by a statement by Sen. Thomas Eagleton, D-Mo. Eagleton said the GAO reported after an investigation by a team of radar experts that inexpensive enemy jammers could defeat AWACS in its purpose of radar scanning enemy territory in Europe.

AWACS is basically a Boeing 707 outfitted with radar and computers which has a stated primary mission of tactical command and control in Europe with intent to control friendly aircraft in an offensive mission over enemy territory.

The system's total cost was more than $4 billion. "In light of this heavy expenditure coupled with our $51 billion budget deficit, I think someone should check out this system," he added.

GEORGE MORRIS will be installed as president of the West End Democratic Club at a dinner meeting Monday at Subsaro's Italian Gardens in Montclair.

Other officers include Ron Pizel, first vice president; Loyal Nixon, second vice president; Dan Paciotti, third vice president; Sarah Remas, treasurer; Zelma Shyler, recording secretary; Virginia Housel, corresponding secretary; and Mae Stover, executive secretary and adviser.

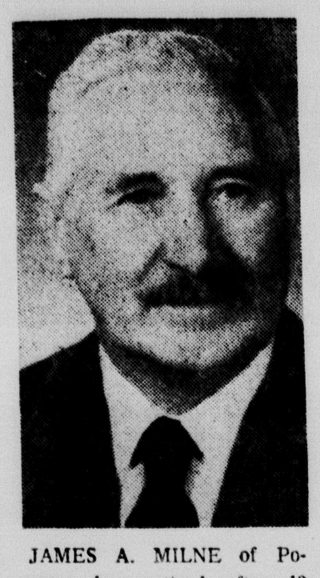
LLOYD is co-sponsoring a bill that seeks to protect insurance companies that provide medical malpractice policies from excessive claim losses.

This would thus begin to reduce premiums for insured physicians and thereby reduce health care costs for the patients, he added.

The proposed measure calls for a National Medical Malpractice Development fund to be established which would be patterned after the federal riot and food reinsurance programs. Insurance companies would voluntarily pay into the reinsurance pool which would be supported by these payments.

The bill also calls for evaluation of alternative methods of providing insurance to physicians and settling malpractice claims, said Lloyd. These would include demonstrations of no-fault insurance and compensation, preliitation screening, arbitration and mediation.



JAMES A. MILNE of Pomona has retired after 13 years of service with General Telephone Co. of California. A native of Scotland who came to California in 1962, Milne served as an inventory control clerk at the General Telephone supply and transportation complex in south Pomona.

Johnny's legacy

John Chapman, alias Johnny Appleseed, planted apple seedling nurseries in clearings cut West before the pioneers arrived. He planted to his dying day, March 18, 1845, near Fort Wayne, Ind., where his grave is now the center of a small park. Some of his trees still stand though many believe the last one toppled in a storm near Mansfield, Ohio, on June 2, 1852.

S.D. gives a boost to downtown project

The San Dimas City Council has authorized $10,900 for landscaping and sprinkler equipment for the downtown business project.

The council voted 4-0-1, with James McLean abstaining, to give tentative approval to allocating $9,500 for landscape materials. McLean abstained because he owns a business in the district that will be affected by the council decision.

The money will pay for flowering shrubs, trees, ground covering and assorted landscape material for the city's Western motif downtown. The downtown landscape committee which recommended the allocation is comprised of members of the Street Committee, the Creative Growth Review Board and local nurserymen.

Jerry Klein, chairman of the Creative Growth Review Board, and Jack Carruthers, manager of the Chamber of Commerce, gave the report on the matter.

Councilmen also approved another outlay to pay for sprinkler equipment.

In another matter, the council acted on a recommendation from Building and Safety Supt. Richard Kumer and awarded Laird Construction Co. the contract for demolition of a public nuisance at 101 E. Foothill Blvd. Laird's low bid was $1,400.

McLean abstained on the 4-0-1 vote because he was absent from the February meeting in which the property and its condition was discussed at length.

In a final fiscal matter, the council accepted $22,093 in Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA) funds. The money will fund 10-month positions for two laborers and a mason.

Design group at college to hold session

The Interior Design Society at Chaffey College will meet Thursday noon in Room P 29 on the campus in Alta Loma.

Students are involved in preparing two projects under the supervision of Mrs. Shirley Mossman, adviser, and Mrs. Ellen Fitchen, president.

The members are designing a showcase, with the theme "Desert Discovery," to be shown in July at the Los Angeles Furniture Mart.

Society members will also design a children's room to be displayed at the Home Arts Building during the Los Angeles County Fair in September. Mrs. Pat Mayeda, designer, will supervise the project.

Howell Webb, headmaster of Foothill Country Day School in Claremont, has announced the spring testing schedule for applicants to the school.

The testing program is required of children seeking admission and is also provided as a service for all children whose parents want a measure of their progress and prospects. The testing is designed to measure achievement and readiness rather than aptitude or intelligence.

Testing for second through eighth grade applicants will be Saturday. This testing includes students who are currently in first through seventh grade.

Kindergarten applicants will be tested April 5, April 19 or April 26 from 9 to 11:45 a.m. Applicants for first grade will be tested on April 12.

The third through eighth grade group may also test on April 12 from 9 a.m. to 12:15 p.m.

Appointments are required and testing dates may be reserved by calling the school secretary at 626-5681. A fee of $10 is charged.

The school will host a Nature Day Friday. Students have been growing plants of various categories to enter in the contest. Nature Day replaces the annual Hobby Day this year as a change of pace, said Gloria Novack, coordinator of the event.

The eighth graders will provide refreshments to raise funds for their commencement gift to the school.

Miss L.V. at Orange Show

Carole Anne Young, the 1975 Miss La Verne, is representing the city at the 60th National Orange Show Citrus Queen pageant this week.

Preliminaries include luncheons and parades with the main event being the pageant beginning at 7 p.m., Thursday.

Miss Young has participated in a number of beauty competitions both in Southern California and in Mexico.

In the parade on Tuesday, Miss Young's car was driven by Mrs. R. G. Harris in a car loaned by Liberty Ford of La Verne.

Spirits welcome

Figureheads are about as old as sailing itself. The art grew from the ancient custom of decorating ships' bows to invite guiding spirits to dwell in the vessels. Throughout the centuries, nations decorated their ships' bows. Luring the Commonwealth of England period, the ship "Naseby" carried an image of the Lord Protector himself, Oliver Cromwell.

THE MAGIC OF SNOW

Youngsters at Danbury School enjoyed the magical experience of tasting and feeling snow Tuesday morning. Upper picture shows the kids in an excited circle around the half-ton pack delivered by Frank Tapia. Dena Mikle, lower, left, prefers the taste of snow to vegetables any day. Albert Ochoa, lower right, winds up for a good right pitch on a classmate.

Truckload hauled to Danbury School

Handicapped youths have a (snow) ball at recess

It took kids at Danbury School about three minutes to learn to shape and throw a snowball Tuesday morning.

The children at the Claremont school for the multiple-handicapped were treated to the feel and taste of snow, some for the first time. The magic of snow came alive Tuesday when Janet Tapia, a student at Mt. Baldy School, asked her father, Frank, to load his half-ton pickup truck with the white stuff and haul it down to Claremont.

Janet had overheard teacher Ken Johnson of Danbury School and Tina Wilson of Mt. Baldy School discuss what fun it would be for the kids to play in the snow.

"They just went bananas," said Johnson, watching the youngsters romp in the snow. "Some of them had never seen snow before. It took them about three minutes to learn to throw a snowball."

Johnson and Miss Wilson coordinated a student exchange learning experience between the two schools. The young people tutor each other, participate in learning projects and share experiences.

All agreed that snow is a great winter experience.

2 elected to board in on session

Roundtree named to school business post

Pomona school board voted unanimously to name Lynn Rountree assistant superintendent of business services succeeding Garrett C. Nichols.

Nichols is leaving the district June 30 to become business manager of Cabrillo Junior College in Aptos.

Rountree has served as assistant superintendent of personnel services since 1966.

The vote came shortly after midnight today and followed a two-hour executive session attended by C. Allen Braswell and Gene E. Whitlock Jr., two newly elected board members who will be seated April 8.

In following the recommendation of Schools Supt. Robert E. Wentz, the board agreed to eliminate the position of assistant superintendent of personnel services next year and reinstate the position of personnel director which was deleted in board-approved Feb. 11 budget cuts. This position is held by James W. Marquis.

The board, during the regular meeting, accepted other administrative recommendations naming Ernest E. Polster, dean of students at Ganesha High School, the new adult school program assistant effective Monday.

Ganesha's director of student activities Phillip D. Kauble was named temporary dean of students to serve from Monday through June 30, and Ganesha language arts teacher David A. Walker was named temporary director of student activities for that same period.

Charles W. Sanders, dean of students at Pomona High School, was named temporary assistant principal succeeding Jan Button who resigned. Pomona High math teacher Anthony Rose was named temporary dean of students. The reassignments actually took place Feb. 27 and are to extend through June 30.

Defends new HUD chief

Lepire offers crow to senator over appointee

On his recent trip to Washington, D. C., Pomona Mayor Ray Lepire and other local officials met with Mrs. Carla Hills, then secretary-designate of the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD).

He was impressed, and is crowing about it.

"She's dynamic, to say the least. I think she is going to be a very good secretary," said Lepire.

Lepire was so impressed with Mrs. Hills, in fact, that he took exception to the comments of Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., questioning Mrs. Hills capabilities to operate HUD.

Proxmire, during the secretary's confirmation hearings, went so far as to say he would "eat crow publicly" if Mrs. Hills proves an efficient secretary.

In reply, Lepire sent Proxmire the following telegram Tuesday:

"I have this date purchased a crow and a book on the care and feeding of same. I believe, however, I will not need the book and am prepared to ship the crow when she has convinced you, as she has me, that she is a 'no nonsense secretary.'"

Chino teachers ask 12% pay hike

Chino's teachers and classified employes Tuesday night called for salary increases of about 12 per cent and a boost in fringe benefits.

The school board, which earlier proposed an 8.5 per cent cost of living increase for employes, took no action on the requests. They said "meet and confer" negotiating sessions would continue.

Cost of the increases proposed by teachers would be about $1,620,000, district officials said. A cost for classified workers' increases was not disclosed, however.

The board's proposal for teachers would cost $1,272,555.

An cost of living increase would be in addition to increases normally earned by teachers for added experience and educational qualifications. Those boosts amounted to about 3 per cent.

The teachers' proposal, from the Certificated Employe Council (CEC) is for an 11.9 per cent increase, and classified workers have asked for 12 per cent.

Rudy Gomez, CEC chairman speaking for about 400 teachers, explained the 11.9 per cent proposal, saying it would "match the rise in employes' cost of living during the past year."

He also called for a $100 boost in fringe benefits, to $592 per employe, per year. Benefits should be assigned, he added, as the employe desires, in areas such as health insurance, tax-sheltered annuities, income protection and life insurance.

Ted Samodell, spokesman for the local chapter of California School Employes Association (CSEA), the group including 235 classified workers, said "Insofar as the district is contemplating a 12 per cent inflation factor in cost of instructional supplies, we request a 12 per cent cost of living adjustment."

He also asked for an additional step to be added to the salary schedule; salaries to be reviewed quarterly; sick pay credit granted at 66 2-3 per cent pay; fringe benefits raised to $600 annually; additional longevity pay; and an increase in the vacation allowance.

CIW paroles one of Manson girls after serving 3½ years

Catherine "Gypsy" Share, one of the Manson "girls" who attempted to rob a Hawthorne surplus store of guns in a plot to free Charles Manson, has been released on parole from the California Institute for Women in Chino.

Miss Share, according to prison officials, was released March 3 after serving a little over 3½ years in prison on a conviction of armed robbery. The 32-year-old woman, said officials, was being released on parole as she has done exceptionally well while in prison and had promised to "change her ways." Miss Share told officials that she would change her name and move somewhere in the San Fernando Valley area.

Miss Share, along with five other persons, armed with shotguns, rifles and pistols, entered the Western Surplus Store in Hawthorne. The robbers held the clerks at bay while they loaded more than 130 weapons into a van. The robbers were unaware that the police had been alerted to the robbery by a silent alarm and sealed off a square block area around the store. The robbers spotted the police cars and a 10-minute gun battle ensued. Three of the suspects in the robbery were slightly wounded, but no one was killed.

She was convicted of the robbery along with other members of the Manson family, Lawrence Baily, 25; Mary Brunner, 31; and Kenneth Como, 35.

Repeal of smog device faces key test today

The repeal of a controversial law that requires anti-smog devices on 1966-70 model cars in the South Coast Air Basin may hinge today on the vote of one assemblyman.

The Assembly Transportation Committee was scheduled to consider today a measure by Sen. Nate Holden, D-Los Angeles, that would remove from the books the law passed last year.

The 15 member committee appears deadlocked 7-7 with one member still undecided, said Assemblyman Bill McVittie, D-63th Dist., this morning. He identified as "undecided" Assemblyman Bill Lockyer, D-San Leandro.

"I talked to him Tuesday and he was still undecided," said McVittie. "If he votes for the repeal, then we can get it before the full Assembly."

McVittie, of Upland, had previously predicted the device requirement would be repealed if voted by the entire Assembly.

Should the transportation committee fail to move the measure onto the Assembly floor, McVittie and Assemblyman William Campbell, R-64th Dist., reported they will present a motion before the full Assembly Thursday asking the bill be pulled from the committee.

Candidates who tied in Chino election will draw for job

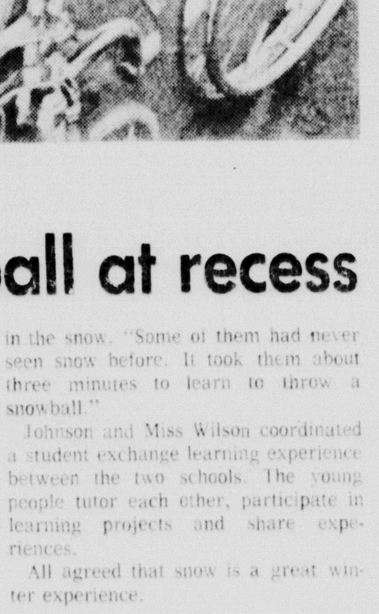
The drawing for a seat on the Chino school board will take place next Tuesday at 7 p.m.

Incumbent Pete VanderPoel and challenger Patrick J. Hooven, who each received 1,026 votes in the March 4 election, will draw slips of paper to determine a seat on the board.

After discussing several methods of conducting the drawing, the school board Tuesday night decided to place about 10 pieces of paper in a box, and go from there.

There will be one slip saying "elected" and another saying "not elected." The candidates will draw until one of them picks the "elected" slip.

Trustee Al McCombs seemed disappointed. "Why not have a bingo game?" he asked.



DAVID L. McKENNA, president of Seattle Pacific College in Seattle, Wash., will speak at Azusa Pacific College today through Friday under the sponsorship of the Staley Distinguished Christian Scholar Lecture program. The lecture program, open to the public, brings to college and university campuses distinguished scholars recognized for their ability to clearly communicate their Christian faith.

S.B. County buys 3 backup buses

The San Bernardino County Board of Supervisors has approved the purchase of three 15-passenger buses to serve as "backup" vehicles for the county's new rapid transit system.

These will be used when the more expensive Mercedes-Benz buses now used are being serviced or repaired.

Transit systems are now operating in Montclair and Chino, with future routes proposed for Ontario and Upland.

Cost of the three new passenger vans is estimated at $15,000 each.

2 postal jobs open for clerk, carrier

The Pomona post office is accepting applications through March 20 for the positions of clerk and carrier.

Starting pay of $5.25 per hour, plus 10 per cent for night work.

Application forms are available at the civil service window of the main post office. Applicants will be notified of the date and place of the examination.

To be eligible, the applicant must be at least 18 or a high school graduate, and must be able to pass a physical examination.

Passengers land, get word: hit by lightning

Passengers aboard a Pacific Southwest Airlines jet heard a loud noise Tuesday while flying from Ontario to San Diego.

But the flight went on as scheduled and not until the Boeing 727 reach its destination did the pilot tell them the plane had been struck by lightning.

No injuries or damages were reported, said officials.

Vikings show strength, class

It's been 11 years since a valley high school basketball team has accomplished what Garey High's has this year.

Garey, winner of the San Antonio League for the third time in four years, has reached the finals of the California Interscholastic Federation (CIF), Southern Section 3-A basketball playoffs.

No other valley team has gone that far in playoff competition since 1964, when both Chino (3-A) and Alta Loma (2-A) highs reached the finals of their respective divisions. But both lost in their bids for CIF championships.

Garey could become the first valley CIF champion in basketball since 1952, when the now-retired Frank Elder piloted his Chino High Cowboys to a 34-32 victory over Chula Vista.

The Vikings, who are boasting a record of 29 victories and only one defeat this season, will play against San Gabriel High this Saturday night (7:30 p.m.) at the Los Angeles Sports Arena. The winner of that contest will be crowned the champion of the 3-A division, which includes approximately 80 schools.

We at the Progress-Bulletin would like to extend our heartiest congratulations to Garey High, and to wish the Vikings a very successful championship game.

Not only has Garey proven itself athletically powerful, but it has also shown a lot of class and has gained the respect of many of its followers.

The support of the Vikings in the playoffs has not only come from the high school, but also from the entire community and valley. Players from teams which opposed Garey in league play have been showing up for games.

At one game, an opposing league team displayed a banner wishing the Vikings luck in their bid for the championship.

All year long, Garey has been rated the No. 1 team in the division and entered the playoffs as the top-seeded team. After going unbeaten (14-0) in league play, the Vikings have knocked off its first four opponents in playoff competition. In the first round, they defeated Bolsa Grande (71-64), then eliminated Ramona (80-52) in the second round.

In the quarterfinals, the Vikings bumped Beverly Hills (90-78) and just last weekend they downed Los Altos (65-52) in the semifinals.

Saturday night, Garey High will finish its 1974-75 season. Win or lose, it'll be a season long-remembered in the minds of all involved.

That gambling jazz

The arguments over legalizing gambling on sport events and just plain lotteries and the like haven't changed much in half a century.

Recently there have been a series of hearings on the subject by a special federal gambling study commission. Most all of the sports Czars said it would taint their enterprises. The chairman of the commission, Charles H. Morin, said he hasn't made up his mind on the subject but the sports organizations failed to make a very convincing case against legalized gambling: "Are they offering convincing arguments? No, they're not. They're saying they can live with gambling if it's illegal but not if it's legal."

Then of course there is the tough argument that it is alright to gamble on horse races but nothing else.

Morin added, "What becomes shockingly clear is that no one has any knowledge of the amount of gambling that is going on in this country. No one who has come before us knows". Most people do gamble in one way or another, if only over who can beat whom to the corner. Probably a great number of people figure if it's okay to bet on horses, why not on dogs, elephants, football or whatever. That approach, however, has the disadvantage of consistency.

A pressing matter

Oakland Democrat Ken Meade has threatened to take his fellow members of the Assembly to court if his confreres persist in chastising him for his casual dress on the lower house floor.

The liberal lawmaker has frequently ignored the Assembly's unwritten dress code by appearing for sessions in slacks and sweater, coatless and without tie. He has refused to discuss his decorum with the Assembly Rules Committee, warning that he'd bring legal action to protect his civic rights and to prevent interference with "my legislative function around here."

Under the separation of powers doctrine in this nation the rules of a legislative body for its own conduct and membership have generally been held to be beyond the scope of judicial review. And today's legislative bodies at various levels have been hell-bent to assert that principle with regard to the executive and judicial branches of government alike.

Maybe with all the really serious problems facing them in Sacramento, Meade's fellow lawmakers might be better off if they just let him remain a sartorial mess. His costumery hardly seems worth a constitutional confrontation.

Chaffey High cutbacks assailed

On March 7, a district-wide notice entitled Bulletin Concerning Official Procedures of the Board of Trustees, Chaffey Union High School District, was placed in the mailboxes of all certificated personnel. This 'notice' listed all teachers who are to be released at the end of the present school year. This was the first official word: at this writing I have yet to receive a letter of termination. I would hereby like to return the courtesy. Since the board has seen fit to notify fifty individuals, who have served the district in good faith, via a copy of 'official' minutes, I see fit to respond to their actions in the public forum.

I am personally outraged that the Chaffey Union High School District Board of Education has officially cut staff, FIRST AND ONLY, and, thus, undermined the education of students when it has repeatedly stated that areas furthest from the classroom would be cut first.

Furthermore, the said dismissal of fifty teachers is most misleading in that thirteen semester or one year replacements are simply not to be rehired. Thus, sixty-three teachers are being terminated. As a result the school day will most likely be reduced to a five period day, as opposed to the present six period day.

Resolution 195 of the Governing Board of the Chaffey Union High School District reads "Be it resolved that the Governing Board of the Chaffey Union High School District . . . determines that the following particular kinds of service shall be reduced or discontinued commencing at the beginning of the 1975-76 school year." It then continues to list three pages of classes that have been seen fit to be reduced, and-or discontinued. I reiterate, what is this madness that usurps the livelihoods of sixty-three employes and the future of thousands of charges. Since English and history are to absorb the largest percentage of cutbacks, literacy and historical perspective will diminish: since students won't know how to read or write and they won't know their history, it's become apparent to me that 1984 is here.

How else can one justify the blatant indiscretions that accompany the recent actions of this school board? An entire family has been wiped out as both working spouses are to be on the chopping block; an industrial arts teacher who has served in the district eight years (!!) is to be released, and another employe of four years will be teaching part-time. Not one area of administration has been cut; athletics, band, transportation and others remain to be cut; wherein can quality education exist in this abyss? — Gloria Garcia-Berlinski, Pomona.

Playing politics with the economy

WASHINGTON — Many economists blame the boom-and-bust economy, which has brought hardship to millions, upon 1972 politics.

Richard Nixon, seeking re-election to the White House, wanted a booming economy during the 1972 campaign. The best way to stimulate the economy was to persuade the Federal Reserve Board to increase the money supply.

The 1972 minutes show that the board disregarded the warning of its staff and kept pumping money into the economy throughout the campaign. This gave the nation a bad case of inflation.

After Nixon was safely re-elected, the board reversed economic gears, tightened the money supply and sent the economy into a nose dive. The public, of course, was taken along on an economic roller-coaster ride.

Insiders disagree over how closely the Fed follows White House directions. Some say Nixon manipulated the Fed through the wise old economic owl he appointed as chairman, pipe-puffing Arthur Burns.

A Fed spokesman insisted, however, that the White House never influenced Burns to increase the money supply. Once, Burns threw former Budget Director George Shultz out of his office for pushing the White House line too strenuously, the spokesman said. The 1972 monetary growth was "absolutely not" political, he told us.

The record shows, nevertheless, that the economy was in no need of stimulation in 1972. The Fed's own experts predicted on Feb. 15, 1972, that "the faster pace of growth . . . would be sustained."

In May, the staff warned that the "growth appeared to be accelerating." On August 15, the staff cited new projections that "real growth would remain rapid." The following month, the staff again warned that "growth was expected to be more rapid."

Yet astonishingly, the Fed ignored its staff and kept pouring on the coals until the economy heated up dangerously. The money growth rate shot up from 5.2 per cent in June to 7.6 per cent by November. It hit an alarming nine per cent in January 1973, before the Fed reversed its policies.

Then the Fed began to hold back money. This forced up interest rates and caused an eventual credit crisis, which compelled private industry to cut back production, curb expansion and lay off workers.

Many economists believed the Fed, over-reacting to the inflation its own policies had caused, is still keeping money too tight. This is the private view, in fact, of two of President Ford's closest economic advisers, William Seidman and Paul McCracken.

In backroom conversations, McCracken has described the Fed's present monetary policies as "unconscionable." He believes it will take an 8 to 10 per cent rise in the money supply to pull the economy out of its doldrums.

Seidman agrees that more money must be made available not only for economic but political reasons. He fears a long slump, aggravated by the Fed's monetary politices, would wreck President Ford's re-election hopes.

It will be interesting to see whether the Fed once again stimulates the economy in time for another presidential campaign.

WASHINGTON WHIRL: In a recent report, we described the bulldozing behavior of Action's crewcut chief, Mike Balzano. If President Ford decides to keep him on the job, senators have told us they will introduce legislation to transfer Action's volunteer programs, such as the Peace Corps, Vista and Foster Grandparents, to other agencies . . . Consumers Union has quietly censured a veteran board member, Scott Maynes, for failing to disclose he got $5,800 in fees for representing Northwest Airlines. CU allowed him to remain on the board, however, over the objections of some members. Maynes pointed out to us that the board didn't question his integrity, only his judgment . . .

Search for an antidote to crime

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — A friend was mugged the other day and stripped of his wallet and other valuables but not before he managed to get a good look at his assailant. Hustling to the nearest police patrol, he succeeded in setting a search in operation within minutes.

A suspect was found, identified by my friend, placed in a police car, interrogated, searched, then released, since nothing was found on his person. He'd hardly gotten around the corner and disappeared when the police discovered that the man had stuffed the wallet and other belongings under the back seat of the police car, all of which would suggest he was guilty of something. But the matter was dropped there.

My friend was luckier than many; he wasn't hurt — and he did get his possessions back. His assailant was lucky, too, but no luckier than average. Nationwide, the FBI figures show, the man or woman who commits a crime is 90 percent certain of escaping punishment.

His chances of being caught are one in five. His chances of being both caught and convicted are one in ten.

Yet a compilation of recent data, state by state, indicates that certainty of punishment is about the only thing we know of today that seems consistently to deter crime. At least it's the only factor that researchers apparently agree on.

Experts argue whether severe punishment is more effective than light and the detailed studies seem to add to the confusion. So authorities fall back on their own judgment. The data seem to suggest that it may depend on the man and the crime — or some other unknown circumstance.

Then, too, none of the rehabilitation programs in a recent review of 230 studies apparently showed a consistent or measurable gain in reducing recidivism, though how accurate or valid those studies are is not clear.

Prof. James Q. Wilson of Harvard University and an acknowledged authority on these matters, doesn't suggest we give up on rehabilitation, abandon heavy sentences or add any particular remedy.

He does advocate that we do some very serious studying of why some approaches apparently fail while others succeed and reorganize our efforts to apply what we learn rather than pushing ahead blindly with preconceived ideas. What he wants, in brief, is convincing evidence as to what works and what doesn't — and fewer assumptions — in both police departments and the courts.

That, of course, means more experimenting.

Ohio is trying out short stays in prison on the theory that the emotional shock of a sentence may be what deters crime — not long incarceration. Lengthy periods behind bars, the theory runs, may be counterproductive and serve only to turn a beginner into a hardened criminal. Early reports show a recidivism rate of around 10 per cent, lower, they say, than normal.

Arizona has taken another course. A new law increases the amount of time a prisoner must serve before becoming eligible for parole.

A 1974 Maine law provides for the nullification of the criminal records of pardoned offenders. That is, a man or woman pardoned is considered as never having been arrested or convicted of the offense for which he or she was pardoned.

New Mexico now makes it easier for former convicts to secure state jobs. And West Virginia now makes it possible for men and women brought to trial, and entitled to legal assistance, to choose their own attorneys.

Each of these concepts is small in itself. But enough such experiments could lead to appreciable results — when those which fail are weeded out.

Just in jest

They pass laws and then they rescind them! In that way our lawmakers manage to give the impression they are so busy they are fully justified in voting themselves salary increases. —You don't believe it?—Well, how about that bill our California Assemblymen recently passed which would rescind the present noise reduction requirements for new automobiles? —And you just know what is going to happen now that a medical authority at the County-USC Medical Center says the exhaust devices which are required on 1975 automobiles to control carbon monoxide and hydrocarbon emissions are unfortunately emitting so much sulphur they are a health hazard. —But why complain? Why not just relax and grin and bear it? After all, hasn't on again off again lawmaking always been one of the legislative occupational hazards which we ordinary citizens are supposed to take in stride?

Odds against laws on guns, gambling

Within the past few weeks, New York officials have gone on record in favor of two "progressive" proposals for federal legislation which they believe will solve problems that similar "progressive" proposals, enacted on a state level, failed to solve. Proving once again the truth of the old political wives' tale that in government, as in all human affairs, misery loves company.

First, there was New York City police commissioner Patrick Murphy testifying before a congressional committee regarding the need, in his expert opinion, for a comprehensive federal gun-control law.

Murphy, for those unfamiliar with the name, served as D. C. police commissioner during the Johnson administration. In that capacity, he distinguished himself as a local level counterpart to Ramsey Clark, articulating his "roots of crime" approach to this community's No. 1 problem at the drop of a television cue.

In time, the roots having grown deeper and the bitter fruit of uncontrolled crime flourishing in the nation's capital, Murphy took his leave. Inevitable, such a crime-fighter was bound to come to the attention of then Major John Lindsay, who saw him as just the man New York City needed for its police commissioner.

In any fortuitious event — for District residents — Murphy returned to Washington a fortnight ago to testify on behalf of stringent federal gun control.

Since New York state now has the country's most rigid gun control law, it would have been a strong point in favor of the argument the commissioner advanced had he been able to cite figures demonstrating how gun registration and other limitations on private ownership of firearms have worked to reduce violent crime in his jurisdiction.

Of course, he couldn't, because as a crime deterrent New York's control laws have clearly failed to keep guns out of the hands of criminals. But Murphy has an explanation for this, in the best tradition of liberal dialecticts. It isn't New York's fault its gun law doesn't work, the commissioner said. Blame the rest of the country. Without a federal law covering all 50 states, no single state can control firearms within its boundaries.

And if a national gun control law should fail to keep firearms out of criminal hands (as it most surely will)? Presumably, Pat Murphy will be seen in a few years making a similar argument to the UN General Assembly, since the notion that guns, not people, cause crime is a hard one for such minds to shake.

Not long after Murphy's Capitol Hill appearance, the Empire State, through its Off Track Betting Corp., weighed in at the Commission on the Review of National Policy Toward Gambling, on behalf of yet another "progressive" measure: the legalization of gambling on all sports events throughout the country.

The National Commission is looking into existing gambling laws, and naturally enough, New York officialdom has a special stake in recommending legalization.

When New York decided to go into gambling a few years ago, the state-operated OTB was touted by proponents as a double-entry winner. They claimed it would both reduce the state's tax burden and dry up the operations of outlaw bookmakers.

In the event, however, state operated off-track betting proved a bust, on both levels. Not only is OTB a financial disappointment, to say the least, but special studies have turned up some nasty statistics showing that New York's illegal bookie trade never had it so good.

It seems that people — most especially, people who can't afford it — who were formerly inhibited in their betting habits have been encouraged by OTB to venture into gambling for the first time.

Nevertheless, Paul Screvane, OTB president, favors legalizing gambling on all sports, including college athletics.

The odds against such a federal law ever being enacted, according to Jimmy (the Greek) Snyder (who testified against legalization), are about a million to one. Let's hope he's right.

We may sympathize with New York officials in their misery. But if American government ever gets to the point where it has to operate on revenues extracted from the gamblers' disease, our system will be a lot sicker than even its worst critics have claimed.

Berry's world

For gosh sakes! We can't afford that! Do I look like an oil-rich Arab?

Duplicate copy of birth certificate not satisfactory

We have been excited and pleased over the birth of our first son.

But in requesting his birth certificate from the county records office, for a fee of $2 all we received was a Xerox copy of his birth certificate stamped "certified."

This is not what we expected for a duplicate copy of our son's birth record, particularly when the cost of the Xerox copy is only four or five cents.

My wife wrote back to the county asking for a certificate that was more attractive in appearance.

In reply we received a note from the county that original birth certificates are filed in Sacramento and never given out, that a certified copy is the only certificate anyone can obtain.

If this is an example of man's progress, I think we're going in the wrong direction. — D. L., Pomona.

You told us that you did receive an ornamental certificate from the hospital but you thought the official document should look better.

Leonard Panish, registrar-recorder of the County of Los Angeles, explained to us that the legal birth certificate form, prescribed by state law, is forwarded to his department by the county health officer. A microfilm copy, like the one you received, is made for the convenience of the public.

The original certificate is then sent to Sacramento, as you previously were informed, and is kept on permanent file.

Copies may be obtained from either the county recorder's office or the state Department of Health.

The $2 fee is uniform throughout the state and is prescribed by the state health and safety code.

Panish said the cost of making the copy takes in employe salaries and benefits, supplies and machine costs, facility overhead and numerous other expenses.

His office issues more than 30,000 certified copies a month. Without the use of microfilming, he said, it would be necessary to build a new facility and hire additional personnel to house and process records.

Panish suggested that you insert the certificate in a photo album with a clear plastic protective sheet over it.

"We cannot disagree with Mr. L— that the birth of his first son is indeed a special event," he said.

He added that he is sure you appreciate the need for government to find ways to cut costs and still provide essential services to the public.

Four months ago I sent $7.98 to Improvement Book Co. in Florida for a book called "What Every Patient Should Know About His Health and His Doctor."

When I didn't hear from the company in six months I wrote asking for either the book or my money back. Two months later I received a message saying a computer was locating my order information. Since then I have heard nothing.

I am no longer interested in the book. I want my money back. — C. P., Ontario.

It took two letters from Action Line and nearly two months to get your refund.

Even if you don't know everything there is to know about your health and doctor, you now know that a computer is occasionally an alibi.

ANN LANDERS

Son, 19, is driving parents crazy; is there anything that can be done?

Dear Ann Landers: Our 19-year-old son is making his father and me crazy. Greg was always extremely handsome and had a great many friends, both male and female.

At the age of 17 he announced he no longer believed in God because "God hasn't done anything for me lately." He is now into something called "Karma" which is part of an Eastern religious cult.

During his second year of college Greg sought the help of a psychiatrist who, it turned out, was gay, so he quit going. (At least that's our son's story.)

Also during his second year of college Greg asked permission to bring a girl home for Christmas vacation. He said they were "in love." My husband and I were so thrilled we allowed them to sleep together in his room. Greg said they were sleeping together at school, so "why sweat it?"

Our joy was short-lived when we received a call from the girl last week saying Greg had fallen for a guy and was dragging him along on their dates. She was calling it quits.

We want our son to be happy and will accept him either straight or gay, but I have a feeling he can, with the proper help, lead a normal, heterosexual life. Is there any way we can help our boy? — Troubled Parents

Dear Parents: You can do nothing to help your son except let him know you love him, no matter which road he chooses to travel.

Obviously, Greg is bisexual. His preference may change again from guys to girls or he might be a switch-hitter for the rest of his life. But if he wants to be straight he'll have to get intensive therapy. It's a long, difficult, unsure, and expensive undertaking. But others have made it and perhaps he can, too, if he wants to badly enough.

Dear Ann Landers: For 17 years I've been married to a man who refuses to discuss family problems although his mother is one of them, his brother is another, and our three children are being raised as if they were fatherless.

I've tried every conceivable approach from "Dear, what should we do about . . ." to, "You really MUST help me make this decision," and finally, "For God's sake, give me a hand with this problem."

Either he continues to read the paper or he'll mumble something that sounds like, "I can't think of a thing . . ." He is a brilliant businessman and I know he has a lot on his mind these days, but who doesn't? What can I do? — High Blood Pressure

Dear: H. B. P.: After 17 years you are not going to change your husband so you'd better accept the realities of the situation before you pop an artery.

Get some counseling and pay someone to listen to you. It's cheaper than a stroke.

Dear Ann Landers: A woman I work with asked me to make a condolence call with her tomorrow evening. I asked, "Who died?"

She said, "A cousin, twice removed. I hadn't seen her in four years but I'll get to see lots of relatives and they'll have a very nice assortment of food."

I told her I'd feel out of place. She insists that when people are grieving they are glad to see anybody. Should I go? — Miss Q

Dear Miss: No. You'd be out of place. What's more, that clod who invited you must be short on activities and long on spare time.

A passion front may be moving in

I hope you're not going to be shocked by what I am about to say, but I am one of a half dozen people in this country who do not know what a low pressure system is. Furthermore, I don't care.

There. I've said it. Every night for the past 20 years I've sat in front of the TV set and pretended to get choked up when a cold front moves down from the Great Lakes or Davenport, Iowa's sun will rise at 5:02.

Oh, I've picked up a few technical phrases. Like I tried on a tube dress the other day and the salesperson said, "You look like a cumulus cloud" and I said, "I hope you find a dead bird in your rain barrel," but generally, I haven't the foggiest notion of what weathermen are talking about.

They pull down a large map of the country and immediately start to draw a curve here, a wavy line there, here a sun, there a moon, everywhere diagonal lines for rain and a few dots for snow. When they are finished, the whole mess looks like a terminal case of acne. Then they say things like, "Florida is having some weather this evening" (so what's the alternative?) or "Ada, Ohio reports a severe depression moving in." (You think you're depressed, Ada, I've just had my scholarship to Weight Watchers revoked when they checked my breath for liver and found out I was cheating.)

The plain truth is if someone is having rotten weather, I can't help it and if they're having better weather than we are, I don't want to hear about it.

I guess what it amounts to is that weather isn't made relevant to people. I wan to know how it affects lives and what a falling barometer does to me personally.

A London weatherman, Gordon Barnes, recently breathed a little life into the subject by reporting that when the thermometer is 29.9 degrees or lower, women are more lovable. "You show me a low pressure weather pattern," he said, "and I will show you a woman who can't let men alone."

I can hear it now, "There's a passion front moving in tonight over Nebraska with winds lusting . . . pardon me, gusting up to 30 m.p.h. Although roads are clear, travelers are warned of heavy traffic for those getting out of Florida's 75 degrees temperature (light love frost). The overnight low is 15 degrees, you son of a gun! There will be some promiscuity as far east as New Jersey but will diminish when the temperature hits the low 30s.

You know what I think? Weathermen have purposely kept women in the dark with their mumbo jumbo. Now that we know, just remember, women, "The hand that controls the thermostat . . . controls the world!"

DOCTOR COMMENTS

Moderation is key in weight lifting

By LAWRENCE E. LAMB, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am 13 and started lifting weights regularly. Then someone told me that lifting weights would hinder my bones. He said that anyone younger than 17 should not be lifting weights.

It was mentioned if you lift weights now, you would not be able to build your muscles to their full capacity later, when your bones are finished growing. My question is, should I still lift weights or should I stop until my bones have matured? Also, is it all right to do a lot of push-ups and other muscle developing exercises?

DEAR READER — Like so many other things, it is a question of getting enough but not going to wretched excess.

Of course you can lift weights. I think, though, that very young boys s h o u l d concentrate on developing muscle endurance with relatively light weights rather than progressively increasing the weights to very large loads.

The truth is that small weights will help you to develop good bone structure. Certainly any exercise that involves lifting your own body is not harmful. Here I would include developing your capacity to do push-ups, chin-ups, sit-ups and at least modified knee bends. In general a good all around calesthenic exercise program will help you develop good muscles and good bones.

You don't need to overdo weight lifting to develop good muscles. Don't try to lift weights that you can't lift easily three times in a row. Lifting that weight more than 12 times more often than three days a week will not speed up muscle development. More frequent lifts may even slow muscle growth.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I'm 16 years old, male, and am 5-feet-1. I'm also 20 pounds overweight. I try and try, but I just can't lose that extra weight. I walk four miles almost every day and only eat half a cucumber for lunch, but my mother makes me eat more for dinner. I just don't know what to do. I'm afraid I'll never lose that much weight. Maybe if I start to grow it will help. Please give me a couple of tips.

DEAR READER — Some young men go through this stage. And, you are right that you may still grow in height and get some help that way.

Meanwhile why don't you make arrangements at one of the gym facilities in your area to start some form of weight training program in addition to your daily walks. That might help more than you realize.

You should also see your family doctor and be sure you don't have some medical problem that is slowing you down, like low thyroid function. Your doctor may also want to check out your endocrine (hormone) system. Low thyroid function sometimes slows down growth as does other endocrine problems.

Perhaps your mother could help you if she would concentrate on giving you foods low in fats and carbohydrates even for that evening meal.

Send your questions to Dr. Lamb, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019. For a copy of Dr. Lamb's booklet on losing weight, send 50 cents and a long self-addressed stamped envelope to the same address and ask for the "Losing Weight" booklet.

Bigger the mother, larger the baby

The bigger the mother, the bigger the baby. Usually, usually. What's meant by that is the weight of babies seem to be related more to the heights of the mothers than to the heights of the fathers. Doctors surmise this indicates prenatal environment is what counts.

Q. "WHAT'S the difference between a recession and a depression?"

A. Severity, that's all. It's a recession when your wife loses her job a depression when you lose yours. That cynic Harold Coffin defined it otherwise, however. Said he: "It's a recession when you have to move in with your in-laws and a depression when they move in with you."

MAFIA

Argument continues over the origin of the name "mafia." In the book "Honor Thy Father," Gay Talese wrote that a French soldier raped a Palmero maiden on her wedding day Easter Monday in 1282. The girl's mother ran through the streets shouting "Ma fia, Ma fia" meaning "My daughter, my daughter." Frenzied Sicilans took up the cry as they retaliated against the French occupying troops, killing soldiers by the thousands. And the my-daughter name "mafia" came to be the catch phrase that identified those certain Sicilians who dedicated themselves to one another.

Ask Dr. Brothers

The generation gap

By DR. JOYCE BROTHERS

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: I know every parent has to expect some generation gap, but really, I don't understand my 17-year-old daughter at all. First of all, neither she nor her two older sisters have any interest in politics or social movements. On the surface, their attitude may not seem odd but both my wife and I have been very active in the civil rights and the peace movements. We consider oursleves active liberals and feel some rebellion in the young and old is both healthy and necessary.

I'd like to think that I'd have something in common with my daughters as they mature and that they would not be ultraconservative politically. I guess I'd just like them to care passionately about something other than sex, which seems to be about the only thing that occupies them now. Don't misunderstand me. I like sex! I'm all for it, but I'm old-fashioned enough to be a little shocked when I see nude male pinups all over my daughter's room. Only boys had pinups when I was a kid and girls weren't supposed to be interested in such things. If they were interested, the nude male form was left to their imagination. For my money, this is pornography — plain and simple. Am I being too critical?—J.P.

Dear J.P. : —I don't know about your being too critical, but I'm afraid your double standard is showing. Maybe I'm being too critical, but I don't think that a figure of a male or female nude is necessarily pornographic.

As I'm sure you know, there are magazines on the market today that are eager and ready to exploit the female's interest in the male body, just as there have always been magazines with pinup girls. Your daughter may only be expressing a healthy interest and appreciation in the male form.

It seems to me that the danger in placing too much emphasis on bodies and pinups, whether they're male or female, is that the viewer may place too little emphasis on the brain, the personality, and the character of the individual.

The real danger is that he or she will fail to see that behind each body there is an individual. If the opposite sex is seen merely as an object for personal gratification, then the individual, male or female, is developing unhealthy attitudes about love and sex, and these unhealthy attitudes may rob him or her of fulfillment later.

Some of the emphasis on male pinups is a form of rebellion by women. Women, for so long, have been looked on by many men as sex objects that some now enjoy turning the tables on the men. Part of the emphasis on male nudity may be a subtle attempt to show men how silly it is to place so much attention on the body. They may be saying—"how does it feel to be treated like a sex object and not be seen as an individual?"

According to several studies of youth on campus, there has been a noticeable attitude change over the past few years. Your daugher probably reflects this change. Apparently the central theme now is how to find self-fulfillment within a conventional career. The rebellion of the 60s and the first two years of the 70s seems to be fading into oblivion.

Unfortunately, the concern for minorities seems to have lessened substantially. My guess is that the current recession is having a great effect on young people. It may be making them more concerned with finding a job and less idealistic, more selfish, and more materialistic. With the end of the war, Vietnam that evoked such strong passions, youthful values and attitudes seem to have reverted to more familiar patterns.

Don't give up hope and above all, even though you may disagree with your daughters, keep talking and listening.

Skin conditioning

If you want a moisturizer there is a new lightweight cream on the market whipped into a remarkable treatment for anyone with dry skin. It was created for anyone from 20 on up in age. The woman who gave us this miracle worker doesn't equate dry skin with aging skin. She knows that you can suffer from dry skin at 20 yet get no help because you have been conditioned to believe that dry skin is a problem for mature women only. Not so.

Fashion item

Many costume jewelers have added to summer sports and fun with watches that work as well as they look in pastel-colored, often brightly printed bands and cases and faces. They're terrific summer fashion items — and they perform as well as more traditional models.

Allergies: too often overlooked problem

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (UPI) — If your child is cranky, sleepy or withdrawn and also happens to be prone to headaches, colds and nasal congestion, a pediatrician says the problem is likely to be a food allergy.

And the culprit more often than not is milk, according to Dr. Frederic Speer of the University of Kansas Medical Center.

"Little children can't tell you a lot; you just have to figure it out from the symptoms," Speer said in an interview.

"Many children are being seen in guidance clinics and by school psychologists and it never occurs to them that their behavior problems are allergic-based. It's a very badly overlooked problem."

Speer directs the Training Program in Pediatric Allergy conducted at the university and at Children's Mercy Hospital in Kansas City, Mo. He said young doctors in training are amazed at how often problems are traced to a milk allergy.

Speer said allergies in children under 2 are usually food-related, while around the age of 4 or 5 they start picking up allergies to grass and weed pollen, mold spores in the air, animal hair and feathers.

He cited the eye-opening figure that four in every 10 children have some type of allergic intolerance to milk which produces symptoms ranging from bad breath and bed-wetting to persistent headaches, abdominal pains, constipation or diarrhea.

"As a matter of fact, if I'm just stopped on the street for an opinion about a child with a headache, I usually say take milk out of their diet for three to four weeks and see what happens," Speer said.

He believes the nutritional value of milk has been oversold to the American people, and most children, even if they have no allergy, should drink no more than a pint a day.

"Children with a milk allergy usually don't eat very well," Speer said. "You take it away and they start to like meat, potatoes, fish, vegetables — nutritional foods."

Speer wrote an article in a recent issue of the American Family Physician magazine outlining the common types of food, skin and respiratory allergies in children. He offered these tips to parents who may suspect their child has an allergy:

—Consult your family doctor. If he pooh-poohs the idea of an allergy ("and some doctors in some parts of the country are not as aware of this as others") consult an allergist.

—The most common allergic foods are milk, chocolate and cola drinks, corn, citrus fruits, onions, garlic, pork, eggs and peanuts.

—The most common inhalants which children are allergic to are molds and house dust. Strong odors like smoke, perfume and paint fumes can cause allergy-related headaches.

—If your child is found to have a respiratory allergy — asthma, hay fever or a frequently runny or stopped-up nose —don't smoke tobacco. "Smoking always aggravates a respiratory-type disease," Speer said.

—Breast-feeding an infant will not prevent an allergy, but it is better than cow's milk.

—Air purifiers are of little help with respiratory allergies. Air conditioning does help keep molds and pollens out of the house.

—Moving to another climate seldom solves the problem and sometimes makes it worse.

Paris' new weapon against pigeons: birth control feed

PARIS (UPI) — City officials, who once tried driving pigeons out of Paris, have declared war against the birds with a new weapon —birth control chemicals.

Parisian authorities have tried for years to reduce the number of pigeons, which delight tourists in parks but carry a virus —ornithosis — causing lung ailments in human beings.

Pierre Roger, director of the Action Center for a Clean Paris, said the chemical, Ornitrol, would be used to stop the city's 70,000 pigeons from reproducing.

The chemical feed is harmless to human beings and animals but causes female pigeons to lay only sterile eggs, Roger said. A female pigeon normally lays about 18 eggs a year.

After each pigeon eats at least one ounce of treated grain for 10 days in a row, the bird will be sterilized for six months, Roger said. A new mass program to cut the pigeon population to 20,000 will start in the fall.

In an attempt to banish the birds from Paris, officials once ordered lubricants placed atop the gargoyles and eaves of ministerial buildings —favorite nesting places of pigeons.

But the birds simply made themselves at home on nearby houses.

832 rattlers taken in hunt

WALNUT SPRINGS, Tex. (UPI) — The ninth annual Walnut Springs Rattlesnake Hunt this year netted 832 snakes weighing 1,048 pounds, according to organizers of the event.

The occasion was declared a success. Well, except for Gene Martin's attempt to perform the "kiss of death" with one of the reptiles.

It bit him on the lip.

Parkland Hospital in nearby Dallas reported Martin, an Apache Indian, in fair condition.

He makes his own bad luck

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Hard Luck Joe likes to bid slams, in spite of the fact that his hard luck seems to leave him one or two tricks short.

Today's slam looked easy to him. He ruffed the second heart and laid down his ace of trumps. He paused for a moment to remark that trumps never broke for him, but this time it didn't really matter. Then he entered dummy with the king of clubs, finessed against East's jack of trumps, pulled the rest of the trumps and went after the diamonds. He had to overtake his jack of diamond with dummy's king. Since West had hung on to all his four diamonds, Joe wound up down two.

"My breaks," groaned Joe. "I could have gone down just one, but with West holding four cards in each minor suit and East all the trumps, there was no way I could have made the hands."

Joe had run into an unfortunate distribution of the adverse cards, but he could and should have made the slam.

Before entering dummy with the king of clubs, Joe should have cashed his queen should have cashed his queen and jack of diamonds. If East had ruffed, Joe would have been set, but that was a chance he had to take.

Then he could lead to dummy's king of clubs and start playing high diamonds. If East never ruffed Joe would discard three clubs and then lead and finesse trumps. If East ruffed Joe would overruff; pull East's last trumps and be able to ruff one club in dummy and discard the other two on good diamonds.

Broken ballots

Citizens of Athens scratched their votes on pieces of broken pottery. Potsherd ballots cast more than 2,400 years ago have been unearthed by archeologists. Such ballots were known as ostraka, from which the word "Ostracize" is derived.

'Assistant' doctors filling medical gap

SWARTHMORE, Pa. (UPI) — Willard Craig, 69, a retired shipper-carpenter who wears a pacemaker to keep his heart functioning properly, began having problems with his balance about 10 p.m., Jan. 30.

In response to a telephone call from the Craigs, Michael Collins, who "would never consider becoming a doctor," arrived at the Craig home in Folson, Pa. Collins examined the ailing Craig, conferred by phone with the doctor for whom he works, and told Craig what medication to use.

"We think a lot of Mike. We've been so friendly, and he knows our cases," Anna Craig said later. "Sometimes we call him Doctor Mike."

Collins, 28, a native of Mechanicsburg, Pa., is one of a handful of physician's assistants working under the supervision of doctors in a Pennsylvania Blue Shield pilot model program begun late last year.

The ultimate goal of the P-A plan involves easing critical shortages of basic care physicians in the rural and inner-city areas.

Collins graduated from North Carolina State University with a bachelor of Science degree in zoology. After a tour in Vietnam he entered the two-year physician's assistant program at Philadelphia's Hahnemann Hospital and graduated two years ago.

The two-year P-A schooling includes six months' internship, compared to a doctor's four years of medical school, plus 13 years' residency.

Class A P-A training permits Collins to perform a wide range of office surgery that includes taking blood counts, samples, suturing lacerations, reduction of minor fractures, applying casts, nerve blocks and removing small lesions.

His diagnostic expertise goes beyond physicals and patient histories to allergy testing, cardiographic, endoscopic and pathology exams and reading diagnostic X-rays. Though obstetrics is not part of his current role, he is also trained to deliver babies.

Some physician's assistants plan to further their medical training to become doctors, but Collins says "I don't. I went through P-A training to be a P-A, and I'm perfectly happy being a P-A.

"I don't cherish the idea of going out at 3 A.M. on emergency calls as doctors do, for one thing."

The salaried Collins works under the close supervision of Dr. William Y. Rial, 55, a basic family care physician educated at Wilkinsburg and the University of Pittsburgh Medical School before beginning practice in affluent Swarthmore.

Patient acceptance of the P-A program has been 95 to 99 per cent, Rial said, and his patient load has increased since the addition of Collins to his staff.

Rial said he exercises "really close supervision in the P-A program—I feel all the patients are really coming to see me."

At the end of 1974, Pennsylvania had 41 physician's assistants trained in the state.

Rial, who is a member of the state Blue Shield board and vice speaker of the American Medical Association's House of Delegates, and the P-A program is being "crowded by the influx of foreign-trained physicians, and the reaction of the medical profession to P-As has been "somewhat hostile."

Rial assessed the P-A program potential as offering "an immediately achievable, partial solution to providing basic health care in areas now underserved."

First decoys

A thousand years ago, Indians made the first decoys in order to attract birds to move within an arrow's range. They were made of bulrushes, woven and twisted into duck shapes.This Indian invention was quickly adopted by North America's first white hunters. In the Old World, hunters used tame birds to trap wild ones in a cage the Dutch called an "ende kooi" — what the Englishmen pronounced "decoy".

Human heart valves can be frozen for later use

HOUSTON (UPI) — A California physician says human heart valves, like corneas and skin, can be frozen and used up to a year later for transplants.

Dr. William W. Angell, in a report recently to a professional conference, said 25,000 Americans require surgery or replacement of the aortic heart valve each year and human valves have proven much better than synthetic ones.

"These valves are still transplants and suffer from rejection," said Angell, cardiac surgery chief at Santa Clara Valley Medical Center. "If we could solve this problem, we'd have something.

"But even with rejection problems we still see living cells in the valves five years after surgery."

Angell said freezing the aortic valve, the main valve carrying blood from the heart to the arteries of the body, extends the usefulness of the valve from seven weeks to more than a year.

He said the valve is taken from young people shortly after death under the most sterile conditions to prevent bacteria from harming the transplant. The valve is then quickly frozen to minus 238 degrees Fahrenheit. When ready for use, the valve is rapidly thawed to 104 degrees.

Angell said another common method of storing the valves is by treating it with gluteraldehyde and tanning the tissue just like leather is tanned.

The tanned valves will store almost indefinitely, he said, and are much better than synthetic valves. He said aortic valves from pigs are tanned more often than human valves and work well in humans. The pig valves are commercially available and cheaper.

The tanning process provides a chemical agent that binds the tissues of the valve and the transplant will not wear out as will fresh or frozen tissue valves, he said.

There have been only two deaths due to valve failure out of 287 operations at the medical center since 1967, Angell said in his report to the American College of Cardiology. He said the valves have lasted more than five years in most every case, but results with artificial valves have not been as good.

The frozen valves will probably have better long term success than the tanned valves but more time is needed to be sure, he said.

The frozen valves cost about $1,500 compared to about $400-$500 for the tanned valves. So far, most of the frozen valve implants have been experimental because of the high cost.

Angell said his medical center was trying to build up a good storage bank of valves along with other human parts so it would be practical to do transplants without having a donor readily available.

Fish anti-freeze

Fish don't freeze in the Arctic and Antarctic oceans because they produce their own antifreeze. The antifreeze — identified as a glycoprotein — effectively lowers the freezing point of a fish's blood, researchers at the Scripps Institute of Oceanography have learned.

Insights on campus today

Good college education is dangerous. How many times have you heard parents of college-age youth or adults gripe about the crazy actions, attitudes, behavior, and beliefs of their offsprings? I hear it all the time. In fact, just recently, I had a parent of a young man tell me he wasn't about to send his son to college and let some crazy professor or the students challenge the fine values his parents had given him.

Excuse my cynicism, but I can point out a significant number of pseudo adults who are a product of values "given" to them by their parents. Please, do not misinterpret this statement to mean that the home and parents are not primary factors in a person's development of a value system and that they are not extremely important. What I am trying to get at is the difference between indoctrinated values and those values that are "caught" and developed internally by a person from his accumulation of experiences and his associations with total environment (including home and famliy). Put succinctly, I am pushing for acceptance of the idea that each human being should and must develop and internalize his own values and attitudes by which he governs his life and makes his decisions. Each person can be influenced by others, but values must be internalized if one is to become his own person and develop the internal and external fortitude to cope with the critical issues of the scary speed of change accelerating us into the future.

Good education means a quest for values and the development of skills and abilities to live a lifestyle consistent with those values. This means studying issues, considering alternatives, testing choices of hypotheses, and maybe sometimes changing your mind. An essential concept of the liberal arts in a college education is the liberating of one from his blind side and from some of the myth of our past that continues to govern our lives. An example would be the pseudo Puritan ethic of our past. If it tastes good, it is bad for you; if it is fun, it is a sin; and if it is very enjoyable, it must be virtuous.

Conversely, another example is the pseudo modern ethic of today. If it feels good, do it. If it requires conscientious conviction or involves sacrifice, let it ride.

The liberation of education gives increasing awareness, an open mind, and the ability to communicate and maintain relationships with those who do not share your views. If one tests values in his quest to become a truly liberated person and seeks to be his own true self, then college education is dangerous. Like other dangers, the danger of a college education can be avoided, but then you miss the challenge and exhilaration as well.

Navy officials fretting over fleet cutback

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The nation's top Navy officials are worried because the United States has the smallest active fleet since before Pearl Harbor while the Soviet navy is increasing its capability.

Speaking for more modern ships, Navy Secretary J. William Middendorf told the Senate Armed Services Committee last month that "Our present Navy has the fewest number of ships in the active fleet since a year and a half before Pearl Harbor."

Middendorf said the decline had occurred at a time when the Soviet Navy, despite detente, "has made giant strides in improving its capabilities to match its expanded missions."

Those "expanded missions" are in the oil rich Persian Gulf and the strategic Indian Ocean, places where the Soviets had only a bathtub naval presence less than a decade ago.

Middendorf's presentation followed the tried and true formula familiar to veterans of past congressional military budget hearings: Paint our situation dark, theirs bright, mix in lots of gloom and doom, and top it off with the implication that all is lost unless the Pentagon gets every taxpayer's cent it deems necessary to buoy the nation's defenses.

Middendorf skirted the fact the 502 active ships the U.S. Navy will have in force on June 30 are far more versatile and lethal than the pre-Pearl Harbor fleet. Also glossed over was the fact that recent congressional Navy budget cuts were intended to assure the design of more multipurpose ships to assure more defense per taxpayers dollar.

Nonetheless, Middendorf made some telling points. He argued strongly for Congress to carry out its will by funding the Navy adequately so it could modernize. He also underscored the extent of the Soviet naval challenge, which is considerable even with the detente policy.

After emphasizing the importance of being able to defend vital oil routes, Middendorf said: "They (Soviets) have established, where none existed 10 years ago, a continuous naval presence in the Mediterranean Sea and the Indian Ocean, as well as a growing naval presence in the strategically important Caribbean Sea and waters near the coast of West Africa.

"Soviet nuclear submarines armed with long range nuclear strategic missiles regularly patrol our coasts and their surface ships deploy to every corner of the world's oceans," he said.

"There is direct and abundant evidence that the Soviets have fully embraced the concept of sea power and have established themselves as a major maritime power," he said.

Perhaps not surprisingly, Middendorf was fully backed up by Admiral James L. Holloway III, the chief of naval operations, who stressed that the Navy's obligations had not diminished while the size of the fleet had.

"From the Eastern Mediterranean through the Middle East and across to the Far East, we find a catalogue of trouble spots to which U.S. forces have reacted for years in support of our diplomatic and peacekeeping efforts. But [illegible] will be more difficult in the future," Holloway said.

Foot-dragging on watchdog commission

WASHINGTON (UPI) — On Oct. 15 of last year, President Ford signed, with some fanfare and some reservations, the most far-reaching campaign reforms in the nation's history.

A key part of the complex package was the creation of a six-member Federal Elections Commission.

The commission, assigned not only to enforce but to interpret the reforms, is considered essential to the new law's success.

Yet, nearly five months after the signing, there is no board, there are no members, there is no money and there is no staff.

And, in between five Democrats have announced as presidential candidates, some Republicans are making noises, and Ford repeats, again and again, that he will be in the race.

The delay is traceable directly to the White House.

Although the board was due to begin operations Jan. 1, Ford requested no funds for the commission until he submitted the budget Feb. 3.

And he did not announce his two choices for the commission until March 1.

There is some progress now under way but it appears likely there will still be a lengthy delay before the commission can get going.

The six members, two picked by Ford and four by congressional leaders, have been selected for the $38,000 a year posts. None are household names.

The six are Thomas F. Harris, general counsel of the AFL-CIO; Joan D. Aikens, a public relations executive and fashion show commentator; and four former members of Congress: Robert Tiernan of Rhode Island, Vernon Thompson of Wisconsin, Thomas Curtis of Missouri and Neil Staebler of Michigan.

Assuming that Harris is a Democrat, the commission is split three-three between the two parties.

Although picked, the nominees still have to be confirmed by the Senate and House. With four former buddies in the running, it isn't likely that any of the choices will be rejected.

As a further sign of progress, a House appropriations subcommittee has opened hearings on providing money to operate the commission.

Ford requested $500,000 for the rest of this fiscal year and $2 million for fiscal 1976.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., and Rep. Bill Frenzel, R-Minn., requested $2 million to get the commission started and a $6.7 million budget for fiscal 1976.

Kennedy called the delays "serious" but said "it is not too late for the commission to start." Kennedy, however, said if the commission has "financial worries at the outset" then Congress will have done "a disservice to our political system."

And one of the first things Kennedy wants the commission to do is set some guidelines for Ford.

"It is essential that the provisions of the 1974 election law, particularly the strict expenditure limits, be clarified in their application to an incumbent President," he said.

"Obviously, there are difficult lines to be drawn between 'presidential' and 'partisan political' activities by a sitting president, and the Federal Election Commission must play a major role in drawing them."

Dolphins continue to amaze trainers

HONOLULU (UPI) — Dolphins are exhibiting highly developed learning and memory capabilities, a remarkable ability to detect differences in sound pitch and unexpectedly keen in-air vision.

Long regarded as intelligent animals, two female bottlenosed dolphins flown from Florida to Hawaii at the ages of five and eight are showing learning and memory skills rivaling those of advanced nonhuman primates.

Dr. Louis M. Herman, with the University of Hawaii psychology department, and a group of graduate students are testing the dolphins in large tanks at the university's ocean research facility.

The bottlenosed dolphin, with a beak several inches long, is frequently the star performer in aquariums, delighting audiences with high leaps, jumps through hoops, ball retrievals and graceful twirls.

Herman explained that in the study of learning and memory his group gives the dolphins a number of different formal tests.

For example, "the dolphin listens to a short underwater sound," Herman said. "After the sample sound ends, two test sounds are heard and the dolphin is rewarded for choosing the sound matching the sample."

Herman found that "the dolphins quickly learned to match any novel sound heard."

"The dolphins are able to match without error even if the waiting period between the novel sample sound and the following test sounds is stretched several minutes," Herman said, indicating that auditory memory is very well developed.

Herman's extensive study, financed by the National Science Foundation, also dismissed the myth that dolphins are hopelessly nearsighted out of water.

"Measurements made under normal daylight conditions showed that the animals were able to resolve fine visual details about equally well in air and in water," Herman said.

The dolphins were also trained to make one response upon hearing a slightly wavering tone and to make a different response upon hearing a steady tone. The reward for the correct response was a fish.

"Under this procedure," Herman said, "changes in pitch of only .2 per cent were detected by the dolphins, a capability unexceeded in the animal kingdom."

"This remarkable ability could assist the dolphin in several important echolocation tasks in his natural environment," Herman said. Echolocation is the technique by which dolphins emit bursts of clicks and by listening to the returned echoes they are able to identify and locate objects in the water, aiding navigation in turbid waters or at night.

"Though originally skeptical about dolphins' learning capabilities, Herman said after his extensive testing he is "no longer surprised when observing their considerable learning skills."

White bass

Midwest fish finds a new home in West

PASO ROBLES, Calif. (UPI) — A sports fish popular in the Midwest has found a new home in a reservoir near here but only after a shaky start.

In fact, the fish took so long deciding that they liked their new home that state Fish and Game Department biologists just about gave up trying to transplant them.

The fish is the white bass, a relative of the striped bass and a native of the Mississippi Valley where lunkers of four pounds and more are common.

The Fish and Game Department began planting the white bass in Lake Nacimiento 15 miles northwest of here in 1965 but the first 100 fingerlings from Nebraska failed to establish a "finhold."

Additional plants were made from Oklahoma in 1966, from Utah in 1967 and from Nevada in 1968 but they showed no sign of reproducing and the fish and game research team was disbanded in 1969.

But soon after the biologists left, the Nevada plant of 2,000 adults began spawning and anglers fishing with crappie lures near the shoreline began pulling in a few small white bass.

The white bass population steadily rose and last year, more than 70 per cent of all the fish caught at the lake were white bass.

Biologists surveyed the catch on 58 days and counted 11,300 white bass, most of them spawns of the Nevada plant.

"We saw an awful lot of fish," said fisheries biologist Charles Von Geldern, head of the research team. "They were very, very abundant."

Von Geldern said the white bass has proved exceptionally popular with local anglers with up to 99 per cent of them approving the transplant.

"One of the best things about the white bass introduction," he said, "is that we have added an entirely new and highly successful fishery to this lake without detracting from any of the other game species.

"The 1973 white bass reproduction was tremendous and at the same time we recorded a highly successful spawning year for large mouth bass," Von Geldern said. Other game fish are crappie and catfish.

The white bass is fairly easy to catch, liking not only crappie lures but minnows and worms and a variety of other lures.

And it's a tasty dish for the dinner table or campfire, Von Geldern added.

Most of the white bass taken from the 6,000-acre lake last year were from the 1973 spawning year and averaged 10 to 11 inches in length with weights of one half pound. Fish from earlier spawns average 15 to 17 inches in length and weigh a pound or more.

The largest landed so far was 19 inches long and weighed more than three pounds.

Von Geldern says the future of the white bass at Lake Nacimiento is bright.

"The fishery should continue to develop with the average size of fish caught increasing as the average age increases," he said.

Experimental white bass plants have also been made in the Colorado River in Southern California during the past years and Von Geldern said they too are showing "successful spawning."

Benefits near end for union

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — The strike by the International Association of Machinists against McDonnell Douglas went into its second month Monday with the union possibly having only enough money to pay strike benefits for three more weeks.

There was no progress toward a settlement. Talks with federal mediators were suspended last Thursday after two days of meetings.

"We're hopefully waiting to get back to bargaining," said Ted Neuma, secretary-treasurer of striking Local 720.

"I am sure we have enough money to pay the $40 a week benefits for another three weeks. Then we 2ill have to check things out and see where we go."

The strike is over wages with the union demanding an increase of 10 per cent in each year of a three-year contract.

About 7,000 IAM members are on strike at Long Beach, Santa Monica, Torrance, Huntington Beach, Palmdale and Vandenberg and Edwards Airforce Bases in California. Another 12,000 walked out at St. Louis, Mo., and Cape Canaveral, Fla.

Dodgers now cheer Juan

VERO BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Baseball, like politics, apparently makes strange bedfellows.

The Los Angeles Dodgers say they bare no animosity toward their former No. 1 enemy, Juan Marichal, after the Dodgers signed the high-kicking right hander Tuesday.

For years Marichal, as a San Francisco Giant, terrorized Dodger hitters, hitting many with his close pitches as well as winning numerous victories. But today the Dodgers say they only hope he can win some games for them.

"I hope he does the job and is physically healthy," said outfielder Bill Buckner, who nearly exchanged blows with Marichal in a knockdown incident a few years ago. "I've talked with him a lot since that happened. What happens on the baseball field in the past doesn't have anything to do with how things are now."

"That just gives us five good pitchers when I come back," said Tommy John, the starting pitcher whose arm injury caused the Dodgers to sign Marichal as insurance.

Most of the rest of the Dodgers asked for comment about Marichal were also conciliatory.

The height of the feud between Marichal, 36, and the Dodgers came when Marichal, batting for the Giants, hit former Dodger catcher John Roseboro on the head with his bat, inflicting a deep gash. Roseboro sued and won $11,000.

Marichal also hit former Dodger center fielder Willie Davis with a pitch and hospitalized him.

But when the club found itself without an established fourth starter after John underwent elbow surgery, it began talks with Marichal.

"It really didn't cost us anything," said vice president Al Campanis of the Dodgers. Marichal will be paid a reported $75,000, but it is expected the bill will be easily offset by thousands of extra fans showing up at Dodger Stadium to see the man who once menaced Dodger favorites.

The Dodgers hope to have him in uniform Friday at Fort Lauderdale when they play the New York Yankees. He agreed to terms by phone from his home in the Dominican Republic.

Marichal had been invited to camp for a tryout as a free agent but sought a contract instead. Players with contracts must be paid for the season, but free agents on trial can be released without payment.

Marichal brings a 243-131 record to the team. Among active pitchers he is second in victories only to Bob Gibson of the St. Louis Cardinals. After spending 14 seasons with the San Francisco Giants, he went to the Boston Red Sox last year and had a 5-1 record before being released.

The only dissenting comment from Dodger players came from catcher Joe Ferguson, who said "I don't think he can pitch anymore. It looks more like a publicity thing to me."

First baseman Steve Garvey, the National League's Most Valuable player, said, "If he can help us....fine. We can always use pitching help."

Marichal had a 37-18 record against the Dodgers, including 21 victories and only four losses to Los Angeles in the Giants' home, Candlestick Park.

OMS--Another crisis for the operators

Whether to try again or call it quits? That is what the operators of Ontario Motor Speedway are trying to decide.

Their motives must be altruistic. The $25 million plant on the east end of Ontario has been a major financial headache since it opened in 1970.

The first operating group, Ontario Motor Speedway, Inc., threw in the towel in November, 1972 claiming a loss of $9.7 million and unable to meet a December payment of approximately $1 million.

Parnelli Jones, the former Indianapolis 500 champion, and a group of associates including racing and business partner Vel Militich, Jim Cook, attorney Dudley Gray and Tony Hulman of the Indianapolis Motor Speedway assumed control in April, 1973.

Operating with a much more liberal lease, they still have been unable to turn things around. Jones told the writer two weeks ago that his group had served notice it was getting out.

George Mim Mack, president of OMS Corp., the non-profit board of directors governing the speedway, denied this. "We have not heard anything officially," Mim Mack said. "That's what we're waiting for. I imagine it will take them about a week to appraise their situation and then they'll have to make a decision."

Mim Mack admitted that the Jones group had indicated to the board that it is losing more than $100,000 a year.

Jones and his associates have spent a lot of money keeping the track running since they took over.

They spent $1 million the first nine months, a figure revealed in a statement to the holders of the $25,500,000 mortgage bounds which was published by the non-profit board Dec. 5, 1973.

First there was personal property tax for 1972 and 1973, delinquent for 1972, and penalties amounting to $121,300.26. The mortgage bond installment plus penalties came to $22,729.76. An additional payment of $25,072.83 due Dec. 2 was paid prior to that date.

Taxes and more taxes

Property taxes with fees and penalties amounting to $287,981.31 were paid Oct. 2, 1973. In addition, there was a Dec. 2 installment on the bonds ($25,027.83) and the first half of real property taxes due Dec. 10 amounting to $138,952.87.

Part of the lease agreement called for Jones' group (OMSOC for Ontario Motor Speedway Operating Company) to settle "certain outstanding obligations" and to acquire "certain assets" of the first operator.

This cost Jones and associates another $260,694.18. Other costs and expenses were estimated at $60,000.

"The total commitment of the second operator (OMSOC) for the first year of the lease," read the statement, "totals approximately $1,040,000."

It might have been as high as $1,640,000. Litigation involving the former lessee of the restaurant on the speedway's first floor and the corporation leasing the sign, pylons and scoring system to the first operator was estimated in the report to bring the total commitment to that amount.

In December 1974, it was acknowledged that OMSOC was behind in paying its rent and as a property tax bill totaling a reported $194,000.

Jones and Cook have said all bills would be paid after the 1975 California 500. With an attendance of only 50-55 thousand for the 500 plus 18-20 thousand for the Twin 100s and a negligible turnout for the qualifications, the situation probably has worsened.

"The weather killed us," said OMS general manager Bill Wills Monday. "As to the future, I think we'll have an announcement that will surprise a lot of people."

We're all still waiting for that announcement.

Financially, the place has been a bust from the start. In the original sales prospectus issued in 1968, was a feasibility study which suggested the largest crowds in the history of auto racing, huge sums of money from television revenues and an unmatched schedule of races that would return "a minimum of $3.96 million a year AFTER all expenses!

Miller returns to golf tour in Doral Open

MIAMI (AP) — Johnny Miller, fresh and rested after some time off, returns to tour competition this week and takes on Jack Nicklaus and Lee Trevino in the $150,000 Doral Open Golf Tournament.

"I always seem to play my best after taking a break," said Miller, a three-time winner and the sensation of the winter tour. "You look at my record.

"Except for the U. S. Open, and the times I've won two or three in a row, all of my wins have come immediately after I've had some time off. I just seem to play better. I'm more enthusiastic, after I've had a break."

Miller has had a two-week rest at his home in Napa, Calif., coming into the Thursday start of this 72-hole chase for a $30,000 first prize over the 7,065-yard, Doral Country Club course.

At one time Miller, the runaway, record-setting winner of the two Arizona tournaments that opened the tour this season, had planned to skip this event, but he decided to enter at the last minute. He's the probable favorite, but Nicklaus and Trevino are close behind.

"It always gives you a lot of confidence when you win your first tournament of the year," Trevino said after his front-running triumph last weekend in the Citrus Open at Orlando.

"I seem to be a streak player. When I get it going, I sometimes keep it going for a while. And I'm playing a golf course that I like."

Nicklaus also has a history of success in this event, winning the tournament in 1972. He's coming off a one-week break and will be trying to wipe out the memory of a final-round collapse that cost him the title in his last start, the Jackie Gleason Classic.

Some other standouts include Sam Snead and his nephew, J. C., millionaires Tom Weiskopf and Bruce Crampton of Australia, defending champion Buddy Allin and Gleason winner Bob Murphy.

Ben Crenshaw, who broke a lengthy slump with a strong performance last week, heads a list of young turks that also includes Tom Watson, Forrest Fezler, Tom Kite and Jerry Heard.

Kent Jordan may start

Garey star is doubtful

By KEVIN CLOE
P-B Staff Writer

The chances of starting forward Delbert McDonald returning to the Garey High lineup Saturday night are getting slimmer.

McDonald, who had entered Pomona Valley hospital Monday after suffering from severe headaches, made an unexpected second visit to the hospital again Tuesday.

Apparently the headaches are not subsiding, and it looks as though he'll be doubtful for Saturday's CIF 3-A basketball championship game against San Gabriel High at the Los Angeles Sports Arena at 7:30 p.m.

"I was satisfied with the news I got Monday," said Garey head coach Mike Wells. "It looked like he was going to be able to play. But when I heard this morning that he was back in the hospital, I didn't know what to think. I've been trying to find out all day. I wish somebody would tell me what's going on."

If McDonald is unable to recover for Saturday's championship game, the man who will step into his place will be guard Kent Jordan.

A little shuffle in the lineup will see guard Sonny Baldez (6-foot-3) move to forward, while Jordan slips in as Billy Evans' backcourt mate.

It won't be the first time Jordan has started a ball game. The 6-foot sharpshooter took over for Baldez midway through the season when Sonny was battling a slump.

However, Baldez slowly regained his top form and Jordan reverted to being sixth man again. Being a substitute hasn't really bothered Kent, though. In fact, he feels he's better as a sixth man.

"I think I'm a much better sixth man," Jordan exclaimed. "I come off the bench and spark the team, and that makes me feel better."

Coach Wells, however, doesn't particularly like to see Jordan in a starting role.

'Evans is the man who controls our offense," the third-year head coach pointed out. "But when Jordan is in there, he does a lot of shooting and doesn't really get the offense going. The one thing about Kent, though, is that he's really learning to discipline himself. He's done one heck of a job for us this year."

That he has.

Kent will consistently come off the bench and bomb in 20 to 30 footers in effortless fashion to get the club going when it's down. He took a couple against Los Altos last Friday night in the semifinals of the playoffs that Los Altos coach Dale Ferber said "would have three-point plays in the ABA."

It's a rarity to see Kent leave a game without scoring in double figures.

Considered as one of the best sixth men in the division, Jordan not only is potent on offense but he's quick and aggressive on defense.

He's the gambling type of defensive player who occasionally comes up with the big steal at the crucial moment.

It's his outside shooting, however, which is his main weapon.

"I like to shoot from the outside," Kent admits. "The coach usually encourages me to shoot. What I do is first concentrate on the basket, then get the ball and go up right away. It's automatic."

Even though he likes to shoot a lot, Kent realizes what the consequences are of having a cold night.

"If I bring down the team I know I'm going to sit on the bench," he said. "But if I spark the team I know I'm going to play a lot."

Kent also has his game strategy set up for San Gabriel Saturday night.

"Even though I like to shoot outside," he stated, "I'll try to penetrate in the lane to draw fouls from the big men.

"In fact, the whole team talks about what it has to do before the game," he added.

One of the big topics of the game will be San Gabriel's 6-foot-11 center Ray Ellis, who averaged 25.2 points an outing during the regular season.

Ellis will be guarded by Garey's 6-6 center David Larry, while forward Gary Carpenter (6-5) will probably defend against the Matadors' high-scoring forward Clay Brown (6-4).

Lakers' strange strategy pays off with a victory

DETROIT (AP) — A pair of clutch free throws by Cazzie Russell were the obvious part of the Los Angeles Lakers' victory over Detroit. But just as important was Zelmo Beaty's unabashed bearhug of Bob Lanier with two seconds left in Tuesday's National Basketball Association game.

Officials saw the hug, which stopped Lanier from shooting, and called a foul. But since the Lakers had less than five fouls, Lanier didn't get a chance for a game-tying free throw. The inbounds Detroit pass went to Howard Porter, whose desperation shot with one second left bounced off the rim, giving the Lakers a 95-94 victory, their first in nine road games.

"We had a foul to give," said Lakers' Coach Bill Sharman. "We were trying to foul whoever got the ball immediately. We had to be careful where we did it so somebody didn't throw it up for a shot.

"The strategy was to foul quick, before they could get a shot off."

For Detroit Coach Ray Scott, the result was pure frustration.

"It hurts when you lose a close one like that," said Scott, "but it's no more damaging than than any other loss — just more frustrating."

The third-place Pistons remain a game up on the Milwaukee Bucks, who lost to Golden State, in the battle for the conference's final playoff spot.

It looked for a while as though Detroit would do just what they had done three times earlier in the season — fall behind early, then rally to catch up and edge to a narrow victory. The scenario went according to plan until the end, as Detroit trailed by 16 points at the beginning of the third quarter. A rally, led by Bob Lanier put the Pistons up 94-91 with 68 seconds left.

But Gail Goodrich's shot with 50 seconds on the clock brought the Lakers within one. Russell's foul shots followed three miscues from the field by his teammates but put Los Angeles up to stay with two seconds on the clock.

Goodrich had 25 points to lead Los Angeles and Russell added 16.

Lanier, playing for the first time in three games because of tendonitis in his knee, had 17 in period three and a game-high of 29.

"The team played well but it took Bob a half to get his confidence back," said Scott.

John Mengelt, who hit 30 points Sunday, secred 19 for Detroit and Dave Bing added 16.

Vachon earns high praise

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Goalie Gerry Desjardins was in the nets for the first time since he jumped from the World Hockey League and had just stopped 26 shots and to give the Buffalo Sabres a 2-2 tie against the Los Angeles Kings.

Still the Buffalo goalie had strong praise for Kings' Goalie Rogie Vachon, who is No. 2 in league goal tending rankings, after the Tuesday night contest.

"I heard that Rogie was playing really well. After watching him I wasn't disappointed. " Desjardins said. "I'd like to see Rogie win the Vezina Trophy (given to the best goalie in the National Hockey League)."

Vachon stopped 36 shots and made brilliant stops of shots by Jim Lorentz and Rick Dudley just before Peter McNab jammed home a rebound during a scramble in front of the net in the fourth period to give Buffalo the tie.

Captain Terry Harper also praised Vachon's effort.

"We've been able to beat Buffalo on good goal tending but tonight they got a lucky goal by Gil Perreault when the puck went off Danny Maloney's stick into the nets."

Pereault's shot was a 50 footer and scored Buffalo's first goal after the Kings had taken a 2-0 lead.

Still the Kings had praise for Desjardins. "He did a good job and came on strong in the later stages," said Kings' Coach Bob Pulford. The newcomer, traded by the Kings to Chicago in February, 1970, made several sensational saves during the evening. Desjardins jumped from Baltimore in the World Hockey Association to Buffalo last week.

The tie enabled the Kings to pick up one point on idle Montreal. The Canadiens lead Division 3 and the Kings by six points.

The Kings grabbed the early lead at 8:32 of the first period on Don Kozak's goal, his first in 20 games. He slammed the puck past Desjardins.

Gene Carr's goal-mouth pass to Tommy Williams who rapped the puck past Desjardins from point blank range gave the Kings a 2-0 lead at 7:07 of the second period.

Perreault's 32nd goal of the season got the Sabres on the scoreboard in the second period.

McNab, who scored his fourth goal in his last three games, connected for Buffalo's second goal at 4:02 of the final period.

The Sabres raised their season record to 41-12-15 and 97 points to lead Division 4.

Angels face long day

HOLTVILLE, Calif. (AP) — Manager Dick Williams, who has worked the California Angels long and hard on fundamentals this spring, has promised his team Thursday "the longest workout ever."

"It will take at least four hours. We're going to go over everything," Williams said after a 3½ hour drill Tuesday that matched earlier training camp sessions in length.

The Thursday workout will be the last one before the Angels first exhibition game Friday against San Diego here. The team will move to Palm Springs for the remainder of spring training.

Williams said Nolan Ryan, Andy Hassler and Ed Figueroa would pitch Saturday against the Milwaukee Brewers at Palm Springs. Chuck Dobson, Don Kirkwood and non-rostered player Steve Blateric will hurl Sunday.

Bill Singer, Frank Tanana and Mickey Scott were previously announced as the pitchers in the first exhibition.

Sports news in brief

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The second round in the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics basketball tournament started today without top-seeded Kentucky State, an upset victim Wednesday night of unheralded Malone College of Canton, Ohio, 85-77.

In second-round games today, Edinboro, Pa., meets Alcorn, Miss.; Wisconsin-Parkside plays Marymount, Kan.; Grand Canyon, Ariz., tackles Illinois Wesleyan, and Midwestern, Tex., takes on Norfolk, Va.

Tonight's slate has second-seeded Fairmont, W. Va., against Winona, Minn.; Malone College meeting Tri-State of Indiana; Millersville, Pa., matching St. Mary's of San Antonio, Tex., and Winston-Salem, N.C. paired against Central Washington.

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Gayle Sayers, Elgin Baylor and other modern athletes who achieved great fome will be inducted into the Black Athlete's Hall of Fame Thursday night along with stars of a segregated era who were denied that fame.

Former Brooklyn catcher Roy Campanella, ex-Pittsburgh outfielder Roberto Clemente and Henry Armstrong, the only man to hold world boxing titles in three divisions, will be among 14 inductees at a blacktie optional dinner in a spacious Las Vegas hotel ball room. Sponsors hope to attract 1,500 persons.

But other inductees will include John Henry Lloyd and Bob Douglas.

CLEARWATER, Fla. (AP) — The Philadelphia Phillies said Tuesday night they have acquired lefthanded reliever Tom Hilgendorf from the Cleveland Indians in a waiver deal for rookie outfielder Nellie Garcia.

NEW YORK — The National Hockey League's Board of Governors agreed to award Denver a conditional expansion franchise for the 1975-76 season.

MUNICH — Bjorn Borg of Sweden whipped defending titlest Frew McMillan of South Africa 5-7, 6-3, 6-1 in a first-round match of a $60,000 World Championship Tennis Green Group Tournament.

HAMPTON, Va. — Fourth-seeded Karl Meiler of West Germany breezed to a 6-1, 6-0 victory over John Yuill of South Africa in the first round of a $37,500 International Tennis Tournament.

HOUSTON — Top-seeded Margaret Court of Australia won a first-round match in a Women's Professional Tennis Tournament by defeating Diane Fromholtz of Australia 6-2, 4-6, 6-2.

NORMAL, Ill. — Will Robinson, 63, the first black head basketball coach in major college ranks, announced his retirement at Illinois State University at the close of the 1975-76 season.

PROVO, Utah — Glenn Potter, head basketball coach at Brigham Young University, resigned after completing his third year at the school.

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio — Ray Dempsey, 38-year-old head football coach at Youngstown State University the past two years, resigned to become an assistant coach with the National Football League's Detroit Lions.

McAlister signs Oakland contract

OAKLAND (AP) — Running back James McAlister has signed with the Oakland Raiders, but it was uncertain today whether his longtime running mate, Kermit Johnson, will also move to the National Football League.

Michael Trope of Los Angeles, who represents both players, said Tuesday after McAlister's signing that he has not yet tried to get clearance for Johnson who was a seventh-round N.F.L. draft choice of the San Francisco 49ers in 1974.

"I can't say when I will," Trope added. "I don't think it would be appropriate right now."

It has been reported Johnson is considering retiring from pro football to enter the ministry.

Details of McAlister's contract were not disclosed, but a published report said it pays $150,000 for two years.

McAlister and Johnson, known as the Blair Pair, played together at Blair High School in Pasadena and then were Pacific-8 All-Conference backs for UCLA.

Last season they were with the Southern California Sun in the World Football League but refused to play in the team's final playoff game, claiming breach of three-year contracts which had two years to go. They were declared free agents, and NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle gave permission for the Raiders and 49ers to negotiate for them.

JC cage champs open state finals

FRESNO (AP) — The Sunkist California Community College Basketball Championship opens a three-day stand at Selland Arena Thursday with Compton favored to take the championship for larger schools and Butte to win the small-college crown.

Compton's Tartars, 28-2, meet Riverside, 25-7, in the first round Thursday and will be trying to avenge a 69-63 nonconference loss to the Tigers in January. Compton is seeking its third state championship in six years. Riverside last won a state title in 1966.

Butte, at 26-0 the only unbeaten junior college among the 96 in the state, is paired against Merced, 26-5, at 5 p.m. Friday, following the small college division opener between Barstow, 21-8, and Skyline of San Bruno, 22-6. Winners of those two games clash for the championship at 7 p.m. Saturday.

Barstow earned a tournament berth by beating College of the Desert 68-59 in a desert Conference playoff Tuesday night at Palm Desert.

The large-school bracket of eight teams opens play at 3 p.m. Thursday with Santa Rosa, 21-7, against Cerritos, 15-13. In the second afternoon game, DeAnza, 23-6, opposes secondseeded Los Angeles Harbor. In first-round contests Thursday night, the Compton-Riverside game precedes one between Cosumnes River, 21-9, and Long Beach, 21-10.

First-round winners meet in the large-school division semifinals Friday night, and Saturday's championship game follows the small-college title contest.

Last year Hancock upset Compton in a Western State Conference playoff to enter the state tournament and beat Long beach in the finals of the large-school division.

Menlo was the small division champion last year, and Barstow won that honor in 1973, the first year of small schools' competition.

Bonita girls beat Romans

The Bonita High girls varsity basketball team defeated Royal Oak, 59-30, Tuesday afternoon at Bonita.

Guard Robin Hayden scored 14 points and center Robin Pearson had 12. Bonita, now 3-2 in league play, is at Ontario Thursday afternoon.

The Bonita girls' jayvee team beat Royal Oak, 48-19 to run its record to 7-0.

Early rainfall forces changes in scheduling

Morning rain made fields unplayable again Tuesday, forcing postponement of high school and college baseball games.

In some cases inundated fields were expected to be unplayable for contests scheduled today as well, and some teams took a wait-and-see attitude about rescheduling the contests.

Cal Poly University called off its game with Chapman with no make-up date set. Monday's game with Cal State L.A. was also postponed indefinitely. Today's game with Loyola was in doubt.

Claremont-Mudd rescheduled its game with Cal State Dominguez for Thursday.

La Verne will try to play Chapman in a doubleheader beginning at noon today. If the Leopard field is determined to be unplayable, the game will be switched to Thursday.

The Southern California Intercollegiate Athletic Conference (SCIAC) opener between Pomona-Pitzer and Caltech Tuesday was postponed until April 1.

Citrus postponed its Mission Conference game with Chaffey Tuesday with no new date set. The Owls will try to host Palomar today at 2:30 p.m.

MSAC postponed Tuesday's game with San Diego Mesa until May 6 and today's game with Orange Coast until next Wednesday. MSAC is scheduled to visit Santa Ana Thursday and host Santa Ana Saturday. Friday's game with Orange Coast was postponed indefinitely.

Only two of the nine scheduled high school baseball games were completed Tuesday. And only five of the remaining seven reported any rescheduling.

Walnut will try again today against Workman on the Lobos' diamond after damp grounds forced postponement of Tuesday's scheduled encounter.

Pomona has reset its scheduled contest with Victor Valley for Saturday, but no time for the game was announced. San Dimas' game against Northview has tentatively been rescheduled for Thursday on the Vikings' turf.

Royal Oak and Charter Oak have also reset their game at Charter Oak for Thursday afternoon. Royal Oak also announced a time change in its Friday Hacienda League game with Sierra Vista. Instead of playing an afternoon game, Sierra Vista will host the Romans' in a 7 p.m. encounter under the Dons' lights.

Four other prep games were scheduled for this afternoon, with Bonita visiting Northview at Hollenbeck Park in Covina in a rescheduled 7 p.m. encounter tonight. Bonita's scheduled home game with Montclair Tuesday was postponed to Thursday.

Huddleston stars in Wolfpack win

COVINA — John Huddleston hureld a two-hitter for six innings to lead Claremont High to a 3-3 victory over host Gladstone High in a non-league baseball outing Tuesday.

Huddleston picked up the victory on the mound for the Wolfpack when he shut out the Gladiators for six innings on two hits, and then gave up three runs on four hits in the bottom of the seventh frame. He recorded eight strike outs and walked none.

Greg Thompson carried the big bat for Claremont, now boasting a 2-2 record for the season. Thompson went two-for-three at the plate and drove in one run. He and Rich Tullis got the only extra base hits for the Wolves, both doubles.

Rob Heair came up with a sparkling defensive play in the fourth inning for Claremont to keep the Wolves up by two runs. With one out and a Gladstone runner at first, Robbie made a diving catch of a line drive, got to his feet and doubled up the Gladiator at first to complete the double play and end the inning.

Claremont was scheduled to face Alta Loma, an 8-7 loser to Upland Tuesday, today on the Braves' diamond.

Prep track action gets underway

A full slate of high school track competition is slated for Thursday afternoon with both the San Antonio League and the Hacienda League hoping to get league action underway.

The Hacienda League tried last Thursday and again Monday to begin league play, but rains have washed out the events both times.

Better weather is expected Thursday, so maybe finally they'll see some action.

San Dimas High will try to defend its two-time Hacienda League title by opening 1975 league competition by visiting Alta Loma at 3:15 p.m.

Ganesha High will try to do the same in the SAL. The Giants have won the league title for the past two years, and will open defense of the crown Thursday afternoon at 3:15 p.m. at Montclair High.

Even though Ganesha is the defending champion, Pomona High has been installed the pre-season favorite to win the title this year.

The Red Devils will be tough in the distances with Barry Boettcher highlighting the mile and two-mile runs. Dwayne Jackson will be the Red Devil to watch in the hurdles, while Hank Zibell should dominate the shot put.

Pat Riggans and Ernest Jarnigan should also be threats in the hurdles, while Charles Cole and Jim Middleton figure to hold down the top places in the long jump.

The Red Devils will open SAL competition by hosting Garey at 3:15 p.m. Thursday.

In other SAL action, Chino will entertain Damien and Upland will host Claremont.

One of the interesting, if not the most interesting, races at the San Dimas-Alta Loma meet will be in the distance battles. Alta Loma will pit Hacienda League cross country champion Joel Hope against San Dimas' Frank Diaz and Kevin Kellogg.

In other Hacienda League competition Thursday, Bonita hosts Gladstone and Royal Oak entertains Sierra Vista. All meets are slated for 3:15 p.m. starting times.

Crowds dropping for California 500

The first California 500 in 1970 drew an "estimated" 180,000. In reality it was probably something over 143,000.

It never again drew that many. But it did draw 100,000 or more every year that it was held in Sept. The one big mistake Jones and his associates may have made was to move the race from its Labor Day weekend date back to March.

Two have been held in March. The attendance in 1974 was about 80,000. This year it dropped off another 15 to 20 thousand.

March in Southern California is at best a chancy month, it's one of the rainiest (as we're all aware of now) and it can be windy, raw and cold.

Only once was the California 500 ever televised.

At one time it was announced that the speedway would have a scoreboard "similar to those in baseball stadiums and as long as a football field with television tape re-runs of spins and crashes."

Instead of the scoreboard, we got two pylons that operate incorrectly if at all.

In Jan., 1922, the San Bernardino County Assessment Appeal board dropped the valuation from $22,311,000 to $15,688,000 which saved the first operating group an estimated $270,000.

The group still couldn't meet its expenses. In March, 1973, the valuation dropped to $9,000,000.

Interest on the Bond issue sank the first operators. It amounted to about $2 million a year.

Jones' group has not made any interest payments.

"The second operator (OMSOC) wouldn't take that kind of a lease," said Mim Mack. What they pay is rent, taxes which were about $240,000 last year, a little under $30,000 in assessment district charges and their own operating costs and expenses."

Jones has said it costs $110,000 a month "just to open the doors."

When will the current operators begin to make interest payments?" Mim Mack was asked. "There isn't anything in their lease that requires them to make interest payments," was his astonishing reply. "All they have to do is pay their rent, taxes, etc. and keep the place in good condition."

How long can Jones and his associates go without making interest payments?

"That would be a decision for the bond holders to make," Mim Mack said. "We haven't heard much from them. They haven't taken any position collectively."

Further questioning revealed that only about 10 percent of the bonds have been registered. As a result most of the 750 bond holders are unknown.

"The bonds are the coupon type," Mim Mack explained. "Anybody can sell them to anybody. The only way to find out who the owners are is if they send them in for interest payment and very few have done that."

The rent was re-negotiated from $500,000 a year to $150,000 the first year, $200,000 the second and so on until it reached $512,000 April 1, 1978.

A proposal to build a horse track (at a cost of $6 million) and hold horse racing at OMS apparently died from the combination of lack of dates from the State Racing Board and financing.

Two rock concerts were held. The first drew 30,000 and the second, the famous (or infamous) "California Jam" drew an estimated 200,000.

Attempts to hold two more have failed. Jones and Cook blame the Ontario City Council charging it is too difficult to get a variance. Mim Mack said, "The first was canceled by the promoter. The second one never was held although the city did finally issue a permit."

These are the things that Jones and his associates are considering as they do some soul searching.

The future of OMS may well ride on their decision.

The Saints will host Walnut Thursday afternoon in hopes of clinching at least a tie for the championship.

Europeans vs. Americans

'Cycle race is rescheduled

IRWINDALE — "Yuk!" was the only comment of the visiting European riders Saturday afternoon when they arrived at Irwindale Raceway to find the track a gooey mess after the heavy rainstorm had hit Southern California. The Saturday evening race has been rescheduled for Thursday.

They were scheduled to face the strong American team of riders in a match-race in Speedway, a series of three events which had begun in early February in the Houston Astrodome and continued to Orange County Fairgrounds on Friday night. After two meetings, the Americans held a slim 110 — 107 advantage in series points. The Irwindale show is to be the finale.

"The track conditions are just too severe for Irwindale to produce a proper program," said track general manager Steve Evans. "I've talked to the visitors from all over the world and they have agreed to remain here until next Thursday night, in hopes of running the event.

"If they left now they'd be going home losers of the series and they definitely don't want that to happen," he continued. "They want the final meeting of the series even more than the Americans do!"

There is a great deal of pride riding on the final match race. The European squad represents 10 years of current and former World Champions whereas the American squad does not have a member which can boast having ever raced for the World Title. Yet, here they are, staring at a narrow three-point margin over the best in the world.

Included in the European squad are captain Barry Briggs and Ivan Mauger, both of New Zealand and both four-time former World Champions. Then there is the 1971 World Titlist Ole Olsen from Denmark. The current World Long Track Champion from West Germany, Egon Muller, is also in the lineup having replaced the 1974 Speedway Champ Anders Michanek who broke his leg recently in Australia while practicing for the series.

The American stars, who could be on the verge of the upset of the decade if they win the series, are captained by Sonny Nutter of Topanga. His squad represents the strongest U.S.A. team yet in three-team National Champ Rick Woods of Huntington Beach, two-time National title-holder Mike Bast of Sepulveda, his brother and current American Champ Steve Bast of Van Nuys, 1974 runner-up to the National Champion Jeff Sexton of Chino and popular veteran "Wild Bill" Cody of Garden Grove.

The Europeans jumped to an early lead in the series at the Astrodome when they annilated the Yanks 64-44. Then American swung into action in event No. 2 at Costa Mesa Friday, March 7 and took that meeting 66-43.

"It was like riding on a bloody wastepaper basket rim," stated Englishman Chris Pusy, another of the European squad after that pounding on the small 160 yard oval.

But, today, through soaked eyes, the Europeans all agreed the Irwindale circuit, at 220 yards, much more resembles their tracks back home and are more than anxious to get the finale underway.

"It will take the track at least two days, and maybe three, to dry out properly so that it can be conditioned again," Evans said Sunday.

Follmer will try Ascot's dirt track Sunday

GARDENA — George Follmer of Huntington Harbour, trying to find the same magic on oval courses he's had in Can-Am and Trans-Am racing, will try Ascot's dirt track in the rain-delayed NASCAR late-model sportsman opener this Sunday afternoon at 2 p.m.

Among others, Follmer will find himself matched against Jimmy Insolo of Mission Hills, the man with whom he shared a front-row starting spot in the Permatex 200 at Riverside in January. Insolo went on to win that one after Follmer blew an engine early in the race.

More lately, Follmer had to withdraw from the California 500 when he was unable to repair his badly-damaged Indy car in time for the race. However, as recently as 1972 George won both the Can-Am and Trans-Am championships and has been a regular performer in the International Race of Champions.

Insolo was scheduled to compete Feb. 9, along with Sonny Easley of Van Nuys, Bill Osborne of Rialto, and Rodger Ward, the former Indy 500 champion, when rain halted Ascot's first effort as the base of operations for Southern California late-model sportsman activities in 1975.

The NASCAR stockers will begin regular Friday-night racing at Ascot, May 23.

Last week, Dick DiGiorgio, Ascot general manager, announced that arrangements had been concluded with the California Racing Association sprint cars to race at Ascot most Saturday nights, starting Apr. 5. There had been some differences over distribution of moneys from the pit gate, but those disagreements were settled amicably.

The schedule this weekend:

Fri. Mar. 14 — AMA motorcycles (amateur IT steeplechase), 8 p.m. Sat., Mar. 15 — Motocross (High school, SAM), 1 p.m. Sun., Mar. 16—NASCAR late-model sportsman stock cars, 2 p.m.

Drivers will exercise more caution

Jose Tanasi and Ed "Flee" Frambes will be keeping a little closer watch on each other this Sunday afternoon at Speedway 605 as they charge their stock cars through the dangerous figure-eight intersection at 70 miles per hour.

Limited stock cars will race at 2 p.m. in trophy dashes, heats and main events followed by street stock races and the grand finale figure-eight on the Irwindale speedway.

It was the opening race of the 1975 season under cloudy skies when Tanasi, of Hollywood, and Frambes, of Orange, lined up for the start of the figure-eight race.

The flag dropped and Tanasi was off for the front while Frambes dropped back running last.

Going into the 11th lap Tanasi had the lead and was running strong going into the intersection at better than 70 miles per hour while Frambes, running last, came into the intersection from the other direction.

Race fans used to near misses in the intersection, were startled by a loud cannon-like report as the Frambes car hit the Tanasi machine broadside.

The Frambes Ford, with its front end gone, stopped dead on the track while the Tanasi Chevy slithered crazily up the track to the wall, bent into a V.

As a silent group of spectators watched, both drivers climbed from their demolished cars without injury and, amid cheers from the crowd, vowed to return again.

Back this Sunday for a little more action Tanasi and Frambes both plan to keep a sharp eye out for each other.

Time trials begin at 1 p.m. on the 4900 Rivergrade Road oval.

Yank motorcyclists eager for next meeting

IRWINDALE — In a meeting Monday afternoon at Irwindale Raceway, the American six-rider team voiced a great deal of enthusiasm when discussing Thursday night's rescheduled "U.S. vs The World" Speedway finale here beginning at 8 p.m.

"We took a real scrubbing at the (Houston) Astrodome last month in the opener," said team captain Sonny Nutter of Topanga, "but when we trounced the Europeans last weekend at Costa Mesa we took over the series lead in points! It now stands at 110-107. We can win this thing!"

"You bet," stuck in an eager Rick Woods, three-time American Champion. "Just think, we are up against a team that has, between its members, 10 world Championships. Not a single guy on our team has ever even raced for the world title. If we win this thing, and we've got a great shot at it, the whole world will be buzzing about it!"

The European riders have been coming to Southern California for five years for this annual series and only once has America won: two years ago, but against a weak visiting squad. This year's team of Barry Briggs and Ivan Mauger (both of New Zealand); England's John Louis, Chris Pusey and John Davis; West Germany's Egon Muller; and Ole Olsen of Denmark is the best team ever to be in town. And for the Americans to beat them would be a devastating upset.

Due to the heavy rains over the weekend, the Irwindale 220 yard track has to be totally reconditioned and will be unavailable for practice. Which means both squads will come out on the track Thursday night without any knowledge as to its surface. Whichever team adjusts the quickest to the track will more than likely take the finale win and the series championship.

Tickets are still available and can be purchased the night of the race at the track for only $5 (adults) and $3 (children 12 and under). Seating is on a first-come, first-serve basis. Gates open at 6:30.

Grand American West will conclude Saturday

EAST IRVINE, Calif. — Twice interrupted by the weekend's rainfall, the AHRA Grand American West concludes this Saturday evening (March 15) at Orange County Int'l Raceway.

Last Saturday's storm washed out any hope of elimination rounds in the four AHRA "pro" categories: Top Fuel, AA-Funny Car, Pro Comp and Pro Stock. Overall eliminators were determined, however, in the nine "sportsman" divisions late Sunday evening.

Pro qualification results find Frank Bradley (Napa), Tom "Mongoose" McEwen (Fountain Valley), Larry Storck (San Diego) and Ken Dondero (Newport) at the head of their respective 16-car starting fields.

Bradley's 454-cubic inch Chrysler dragster recorded a 6.14-second elapsed time (e.t.) for low position among the unlimited Top Fuelers, while McEwen's 6.57 in his Milodon-powered Plymouth Duster paced all Funny Car qualifications. A 7.19-second effort earned Storck's Chevy dragster the Pro Comp honor, and Dondero topped off a tight Pro Stock division at 8.85 seconds in the "Grumpy's Toy" Vega.

Saturday's busy continuation program opens to a round of Pro Comp Eliminator at 6 p.m. Doug Rose ("Green Mamba" jet car) and "Wild" Bill Shrewsberry ("L.A. Dart" wheelstander) have both been signed to exhibition appearances in-between rounds of the pro competition.

The Raceway box office opens Saturday at 1 p.m., with adult tickets priced from just $4.95. Children under 13 will be admitted free of charge.

Motor-polo is scheduled

Orange Show Speedway will spring into action during the 60th National Orange Show with automotive competition events set for the stadium on Saturday and Sunday, March 15 and 16.

Saturday afternoon, March 15, will see United States Racing Club stock car racing practice runs on the paved quarter-mile oval. Admission to the stadium is free for this 1 p.m. event.

Sunday, March 16, will bring the new thrill sensation, motorpolo to the stadium with three slam-bang action-packed shows scheduled for 2 p.m., 3:30 p.m. and 5 p.m. Motor-polo admission is $1.00.

Stock car racing will open the 1975 season at the Inland Empire speed facility on Saturday night, April 12, at 7:30 p.m.

Young champ enters rodeo at Long Beach

LONG BEACH — Dale Putman of Sanger, the 14-year-old whiz kid who has been sweeping junior stock horse events the past eight years has entered the World's Champion Stock Horse Contest which runs four days in the Arena here beginning Thursday.

Citrus gets cagers on All-Mission

Two Citrus College basketball players, Roland Allbright and Paul Walls, were named to the All-Mission Conference team selected by conference coaches recently.

Ten players were chosen, including player of the year Jerome Whitehead of three-time champion Riverside City College. Riverside coach Bill Mulligan was voted coach of the year by his peers.

Citrus finished the campaign with a 12-17 record overall and 6-10 in conference play.

Walls averaged 21.3 points per game in Mission games and Allbright pulled down 193 rebounds for a 13 per game average.

Walls represented Citrus in the annual all-star game at Riverside Saturday night, scoring 12 points.

Other all-Mission selections were Steve Honz of Grossmont, Chuck Gulo of San Bernardino, Tom Shevlin of Grossmont, Dave Maze of Saddleback and Henry Walther of Palomar.

Chaffey was not represented on the all-conference team. Its most likely selectee would have been team captain Russ Williams who was declared ineligible. Chaffey was forced to forfeit three conference games because of it and finished the year with an 0-16 conference record, 1-28 for the year.

Kip Keino's debut in L.A. pro meet

LOS ANGELES — Kip Keino will arrive in Los Angeles from Nairobi, Kenya on March 15 and will make his 1975 debut in the Vitalis Pro Track Classic on March 22 in the Sports Arena.

"I will be fit," Keino said three weeks ago in a telephone conversation with ITA officials, and with this warning, a great two mile race is in the offing.

The Pro Keds two mile in Los Angeles will be for a first prize of $2,000.00. It will, of course, set up the first meeting of 1975 between Kenya's two greatest, Keino and Ben Kopcho, who are also two of the greatest and most versatile runners in track and field history.

Just turned 35, Keino suffered his worst-ever year in this sport in 1974, as he never overcame time and energy sapping family health problems. He told ITA President Mike O'Hara, before returning to Kenya last year, that he would not run in 1975 unless he felt he could run well.

Running well for Keino is another awesome alarm warning. From 800 meters through 10,000, his accomplishments are unparalleled. He has won Olypic gold medals at the metric mile and in the steeplechase, and he has won Olympic silver medals at 5000 meters and at 1500 meters.

During his career, he battled Australian super Ron Clarke at the long distances, and Jim Ryan at the middle distances, coming out on top in both duals. He set world records at 3000 and 5000 meters, and his 3:34.9 1500 meter victory in Mexico City altitude may well be the greatest 1500-mile ever run.

Bennett wants another crack at title

WEMBLEY, England (AP) — American challenger Lonnie Bennett fumed and fretted today for a second crack at the World Boxing Council's light-heavyweight title he failed to win from Britain's dazzling John Conteh.

A brilliant bout before a sellout crowd of 12,000 at Wembley indoor stadium ended in the fifth round with blood gushing from a deep cut over Bennett's left eye and with Conteh shouting in triumph: "I'm on top of the world."

Bennett, a hardy professional who now works as a youth counselor in Los Angeles, stalked angrily to his dressing room Tuesday night, nursing his cut and another livid swelling beneath his right eye, claiming that Conteh butted him out of the title.

"I certainly want another shot at this crown," he growled. "I think I'm entitled."

It was the 23-year-old Conteh's first defense of the title he won last October, and he found it hard going. Bennett, 28, dominated the first two rounds with a left that stabbed punishingly into Conteh's handsome face.

At that stage the title looked bound to go back across the Atlantic. But Conteh started ducking under Bennett's left jabs in the third round of the scheduled 15-rounder and threw combos that flustered the American.

Bennett's eyes always were suspect, and Conteh began hammering at this weakness of the No. 1 challenger. He survived a right hook and a glorious uppercut and began hurling a barrage of punches at the American's head.

Bennett looked sorry for himself at the end of the fourth, but he came out grinning for the fifth and ran into another Conteh flurry. The cut seared a bloody slash across his eyebrow, referee Roland Dakin stepped in, and the fight was stopped at 1:10.

Bennett, suffering only his third defeat in 27 contests, heatedly denied suggestions that he started walking to his corner after the eye injury.

"No sir," he said. "The referee led me to the corner. Listen, for the championship of the world you just don't walk away—you fight on with one eye or even no eyes."

Bennett said he complained to the referee that Conteh butted him twice in the fifth, opening up the devastating cut, but got no satisfaction.

"In the United States," he told newsmen, "this fight would have been declared a draw because of the butting and there would have been a rematch."

Conteh, he said, "is like a horse, he's a front runner. If he thinks he's out in front, he fights good. Otherwise he loses gas, gets desperate, has no stamina."

D'Oyly Carte to fete Gilbert and Sullivan

By GREGORY JENSEN

LONDON (UPI) — Early in 1875 a small-time theatrical agent was scratching around for a one-act opera to fill half an evening in his theater.

He mentioned his problem to a playwright friend, who instantly offered a libretto he'd already written. They took it to a composer who whipped out the music in two weeks.

Thus was born not only "Trial by Jury" but the whole towering tradition of Gilbert and Sullivan, 100 years old this spring.

There will, of course, be a birthday party for the partnership which produced "The Mikado," "H.M.S. Pinafore," "The Pirates of Penzance" and 10 other laughter-filled operas that are really operettas.

The two-week party begins March 25, a century to the day after the first night of "Trial by Jury." It's in the Savoy, a theater built specifically for Gilbert and Sullivan. It features the D'Oyly Carte Opera company, formed exclusively for them, which still performs nothing else.

"We're putting on all the operas in chronological order in the centenary season," a spokesman said. "This is something completely new."

On the first night the blacktie audience, a thousand strong, will troop next door for intermission dinner at the Savoy Hotel, largely built with Gilbert and Sullivan profits.

"We could have sold out the house five times over," the spokesman said. "In fact, we've been returning money by the checkbookful for the whole season."

William Schwenck Gilbert and Arthur Seymour Sullivan first collaborated in 1871 on "Thespis." It was a flop, and its music has long since vanished. Their partnership really began when theatrical agent Richard D'Oyly Carte brought them together again.

Carte was that rarest of business managers, one who "made not one hint or suggestion about artistic matters in a quarter of a century," one biographer said. He did do much else.

Somehow he glued together the bickering, temperamantal duet of the rich, prolific playwright and the society lion who was Queen Victoria's favorite musician. The two of them fought like quarrelsome tigers.

By their last joint curtain call in 1898 Gilbert was not speaking to Sullivan. They refused to shake hands even to please the crowd.

D'Oyly Carte built the Savoy theater for them in 1881, the first theater lighted with electricity. His company has remained a family affair, run after his death by his widow and then his son. Granddaughter Bridget D'Oyly Carte runs it today.

"People tend to stay with us rather a long time," the company spokesman said. "It's like a family, really."

Then he rattled off names among the 82-strong company who have been with it 21, 23, 26 years. Two centenary performances are being conducted by Isador Godfrey, who had retired as musical director after 43 years.

Sullivan always slightly looked down on what he wrote with Gilbert—these amusements were all right, but his grand operas and oratorios were real art. Gilbert himself considered the operas ephemeral fluff.

Yet in 100 years there has never been a time when they were not being played. Carte licensed amateur productions stayed frozen for decades in the mold Gilbert set. Gilbert directed his own productions, meticulously preserving every tiny decision in rehearsal books now in the British Museum.

Gilbert and Sullivan fanatics howled at every change. But changes have crept in.

"They complain when you put in a new bit of business," said John Reed, in his 23rd year as a comic lead. "Then if you stop after a few years, they complain that you've left it out."

D'Oyly Carte's company still tours the world. Traditionalists feared the end would come in 1961, when the copyrights ran out.

"As it happened," general manager Frederic Lloyd said, "it made no difference at all." After a solid century of Gilbert and Sullivan, perhaps nothing ever will.

LIGHTS! ACTION! CAMERA! — Walter Pidgeon, Greer Garson and other actors ready themselves for a church scene in MGM's 1942 classic, "Mrs. Miniver." The movie will be shown in Garrison Theater, Claremont, at 7:30 tonight, part of the Great Ladies of the Screen series offered by the Curtain Raisers as a benefit for the theater. Tickets at $2.50 general and $2 for students are on sale at the box office.

McColl plans free recital on bagpipes

James McColl, internationally known piper, will present an evening of classical pibrochs (bagpipe selections) in Bridges Hall, Pomona College, at 8:15 tonight. Admission is free.

McColl has competed in many piping competitions in Scotland, Canada and the United States. In his three years of competition at the two major piping competitions held at Oban and Inverness, Scotland, he won all major piping events except two, and was gold medalist at Oban in 1953.

Perhaps you know a family that has a coat of arms — a special emblem or design that distinguishes that particular family.

In the Middle Ages knights wore suits of armor that covered their bodies from head to toe.

The armor made it difficult to tell friend from foe in battle, so knights began wearing loose coats over their armor.

They decorated their coats and shields with designs so they could identify each other. People began calling the coat a knight wore a "coat of arms."

Eventually, the design on the coat of arms became the distinguishing sign of the knight and of his family.

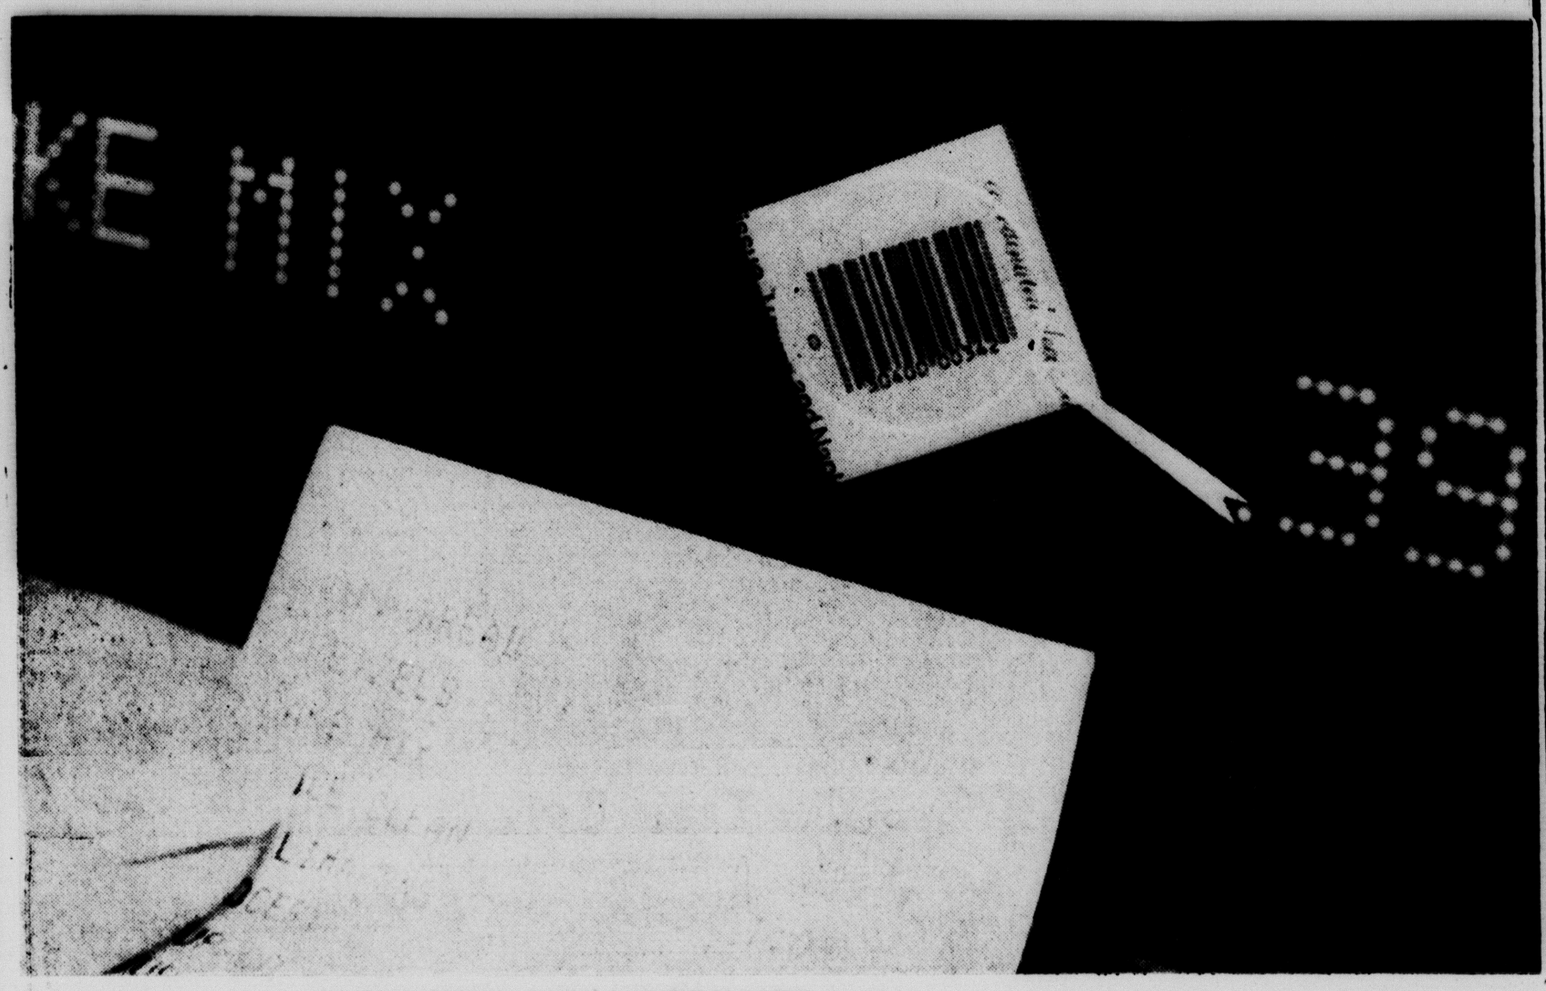
When gunpowder and bullets appeared on the battlefield the knight and his armor became useless. Coats of arms were no longer needed as a means of recognition.

But some people still like the distinction of having their own coat of arms to show which family they belong to.

A pocket radio, camera, World Almanac globe or other fine prize will be awarded to the first youngster sending in a question used here. Send your question and your age to Johnny Wonder, (c/o this newspaper), Box 1335 (DA), Santa Cruz, CA 95061.

Universal Product Code (UPC)

Space age grocery shopping



COMPUTERIZED TAPE AND ITEM CODE (arrow)

Grocery shopping may be more fun in the future, not necessarily prices but your speed through the check-out line. It may take only 2 minutes instead of 12.

The secret is that funny looking batch of lines and numbers that is just starting to show up on packages of everything from blue cheese to bathroom tissue.

Second part of the secret is that new check-out stations will have electronic scanners which "read" the symbol and automatically ring up the item, meanwhile showing the customer the name of the item and its price on a little screen. The clerk merely passes the symbol on the package over a little window in the counter.

And your new receipt from the cash register will show the name of the item purchased as well as its price for easier checking and record keeping at home. The system is called Universal Product Code, and it's already in limited trial use.

The first five numbers stand for a given company. The next five numbers indicate the specific brand, size, item and price.

But the check-out scanner doesn't "read" the numbers, it reads the odd-looking cluster lines above them. There are seven .013-inch-wide light or dark parallel lines for each number, usually arranged in a space 1.469 by 1.020 inches.

As a customer you will see the price of an item in three places, on the shelf edge where it is stored, at the check-out stand on the screen and, a big plus, on your receipt. It is understood that individual coded items no longer will have to be price stamped by the stores. Bulky items like potatoes and bananas still will be rung up by hand the old way, but moving through the line still will be far faster.

National trade sources currently report that, while a number of retail grocery chains already have installed pilot UPC scanners, there are still bugs to be worked out by both manufacturers, in getting the symbol properly printed on their products, and by scanner makers with their machinery as well as by stores with introduction of a new system to old customers.

Two large West Coast chains stated that "we already have our in-house items UPC branded, just as you have, but we're going to watch for a while."

Cost of the complex electronic equipment is not cheap for stores and one chain even figured it might need two managers per store, one for scanner operations and one to run the store.

200 years later, England now casting liberty bells

LONDON (UPI) — Two centuries after casting the original, Britain's oldest bell foundry is back to making Liberty Bells—more than 2,000 er colonies.

Exactly 2,400 scaled-down working replicas are being sold for next year's U.S. Bicentennial celebration—which represents one bell for each month of American independence.

But not a single one will be cracked like the Liberty Bell that hangs at Constitution Hall in Philadelphia.

"We leave it to the Americans to put the crack in," master founder Douglas Hughes said. "That's what they did with the first one."

He and his brother, William, are the third generation of the Hughes family to run the Whitechapel Bell Foundry, situated since 1738 in the same east London Georgian building it now occupies.

Miniature replica of U.S. Liberty Bell at Whitechapel Bell Foundry in London.

The foundry had been a going concern for nearly 200 years when it cast the first Liberty Bell in 1752 with the inscription "Thomas Lester made me." He was the master founder of the time.

Its sooty little workshop turned out all the bells at Westminster Abbey, including two still ringing after 330 years, and Big Ben in 1858.

Customers come from as far away as New Zealand and Nigeria, and recently Whitechapel supplied a complement of bells for the National Cathedral in Washington, D.C.

"Our reputation is fairly secure," Douglas Hughes said.

That's why he maintains a firm line that improper handling by the colonists, not bad workmanship, caused Thomas Lester's Liberty Bell to crack.

The Lester bell cracked soon after being hung in Philadelphia in 1753.

"People don't realize how delicate bells are," Hughes said.

He said records show the ship that carried the 2,000-pound bell from London needed 11 weeks to cross the Atlantic instead of the usual eight, indicating it may have been a rough journey.

"A jar during the voyage could have weakened the bell or a knock during the unloading. Who knows?" Hughes said. "The important thing to us is that it left here with a flaw."

Lester's bell eventually was recast and a new Liberty Bell tolled for independence on July 4, 1776. It, too, cracked, around 1835, but for historical reasons was left, as it was to hang in Philadelphia.

The Bicentennial replicas are working models with a rich, throaty sound. They stand two feet high and weigh 22 pounds.

A Boston organization is marketing them at prices ranging from $1,400 for a "high gloss gold" model to $883 for one with a simpler oxidized black finish.

Patriotic citizens with more space and money can pay $11,000 for a limited number of full-sized copies of Thomas Lester's Liberty Bell.

"They are all the real thing," Hughes said. "We don't make mementoes."

If he were to turn up today, Lester would notice few changes in the brick-front three-story home of the Whitechapel Bell Foundry.

Behind a small paneled museum and Hughes' cramped office, a warren of work rooms covered with sooty black dust stretches out along a side street called Plumbers Row. Old broken bells lie at crazy angles alongside shiny, half-finished new ones.

"Basically the technique for making bells hasn't changed since the foundry began," Hughes said.

Bell-shaped inner and outer molds are fashioned to fit tightly together, with a space in between that is filled with molten metal.

The molds are made from a mixture of horse dung (from a nearby police station), cow or horse hair (purchased commercially and yellow clay (from Sittingbourne, east of London).

This peculiar combination makes the mold porous so that air and gases escape rather than affect the bell when hot metal is poured in.

"The original Liberty Bell was molded right there," Hughes said, pointing to a spot on the dirt-covered floor.

Most of the business in 1975 consists of recasting and repairing old bells and manufacturing small handbells, especially for the United States.

But the tradition of Thomas Lester and other master founders requires specialists and Hughes is finding them increasingly difficult to locate.

"Our blacksmith, Harry Tathum, died several weeks ago," he said, "and I can't find anyone to replace him. After all, you don't run across blacksmiths who specialize in bell clappers just every bell clappers just every day."

Animals should be kept in the wild, says anti-zoo vet

DETROIT (UPI) — Dr. Robert Stone is not your run-of-the-mill veterinarian.

On a typical day at the Canterbury Clinic, he may find himself treating a macaw with sinus trouble, climbing a stepladder to stare into the eyes of an ailing giraffe, or coping with a balding tarantula.

Complete with operating room, X-ray room and pharmacy, the clinic is one of two he operates in the Detroit area. Although most of his patients are of the dog-and-cat variety, he has become widely known for his treatment of more exotic animals.

Such a practice calls for a lot of improvisation.

He has built a "squeeze box" to keep monkeys still when he gives them shots, uses paper clips to examine the mouths of sick birds and rings the necks of tiny patients with playing cards or plastic bottle tops to keep them from pecking at their stitches.

Once, when nothing else worked, he used acupuncture on a quarterhorse to clear up a bad leg.

"You have to use some ingenuity, for that makes it more interesting," he said.

When his patients are too big for the clinic, he treats them in the parking lot. On one occasion, he had to mount a stepladder to examine a giraffe with a sore eye. Another time, he converted a van into a makeshift operating room to treat an elephant with a gangrenous tail.

His practice is not without its hazards, such as the time he examined a cantankerous rhinoceros. The animal hadn't made a sound for several moments inside its trailer truck, but as the veterinarian prepared to open the door it charged, leaving a six-inch dent in the door.

"He was meaner than heck," Stone said. "In cases like that you can't do a full exam. There are certain things you have to skip."

Stone said he has been surrounded by animals since he was a child, and especially when he worked for the Humane Society in his native Baltimore.

"I couldn't go by a cage where they were putting an animal to sleep without taking him home," he said. "How my mother put up with it I'll never know."

He began treating wild animals in 1960 when a firm that supplies them for zoos and research asked him to declaw a lion. Since then he has treated almost everything imaginable, especially in the cat family.

"I've probably taken care of or seen more cheetahs than anyone in the world," he said.

His practice also includes unusual pets brought in by local residents. They range from roller-skating monkeys to diabetic rats and balding tarantulas.

"The guy who brought in the tarantula was worried about it because it was getting bald spots," he said. "Sometimes when they get angry they pull at their own hair with their legs, but I found this one was friendly."

Stone said he decided to try an antibiotic and it wasn't long before the tarantula was bushy again.

Exotic animals account for about one-fifth of his practice, and his services cost about twice what he charges for household pets. A routine examination of a chimpanzee, for example, may cost $50.

A book based on his experiences, tentatively titled A Giraffe in the Parking Lot, is expected out this spring.

His experiences have caused him to form strong views on the importing of wild animals.

"These animals shouldn't be here," he said. "They should be in Africa or wherever they live. The care these animals get coming into the country is terrible."

Stone says he is opposed to zoos, except possibly the drive-through type where animals can live in "as close to their natural habitat as possible."

As for keeping exotic animals as pets, he advises against it for the good of the owner as well as the animal. Many animals can get diseases that are communicable to humans, he said, while on the other hand the owners may not be prepared to care for his pet.

"Uusually the pet shops tell the owners the wrong thing," he said. "Most of the time they don't know what to do. They're looking for help."

Sisters' fashions are really dogs

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A Samoyed dog sheds about 1½ pounds of fur a year. That enough for a full-sized sweater with matching cap.

"There's something esthetically pleasing about wearing something made from your own dog's hair," says doghair spinner Bob Jones, who fashions garments out of sheddings from St. Bernards, Pomeranians and Collies.

Dog hair, these days, is being carded, spun, hot-washed, shocked and dried, providing knitting yarn for sweaters, scarves, gloves and various human garments usually made from synthetic materials or conventional wool.

The gathering process is harmless. Strands are collected from the various canines during the natural shedding process, or combed out and saved over a long period until enough is gathered for a project.

Wilna Coulter and Mrs. Harvey Roe make their dog hair goods from Samoyeds which are known for their strength and thick white coat.

Mrs. Coulter boards Samoyeds, so they have access to the fallout from 23 of the animals.

Technically, garments could be made from the hair of any animal.

If you own a Chihuahua, for example, you'd just have to be patient. In a couple of years, you could gather enough strands for, say, half an earmuff.

Several entrepreneurs in San Francisco are making garments from all breeds of dogs and cats specifically for their owners.

Richard Beard is working on one made from angora cat hair.

Beard, a costume designer, says he's been making garments from animal hair for two years.

He warns that before people begin following the family pet around the house, or cleaning the vacuum bag for strands it should be understood that the process takes time and patience.

To make one ounce of yarn takes about an hour.

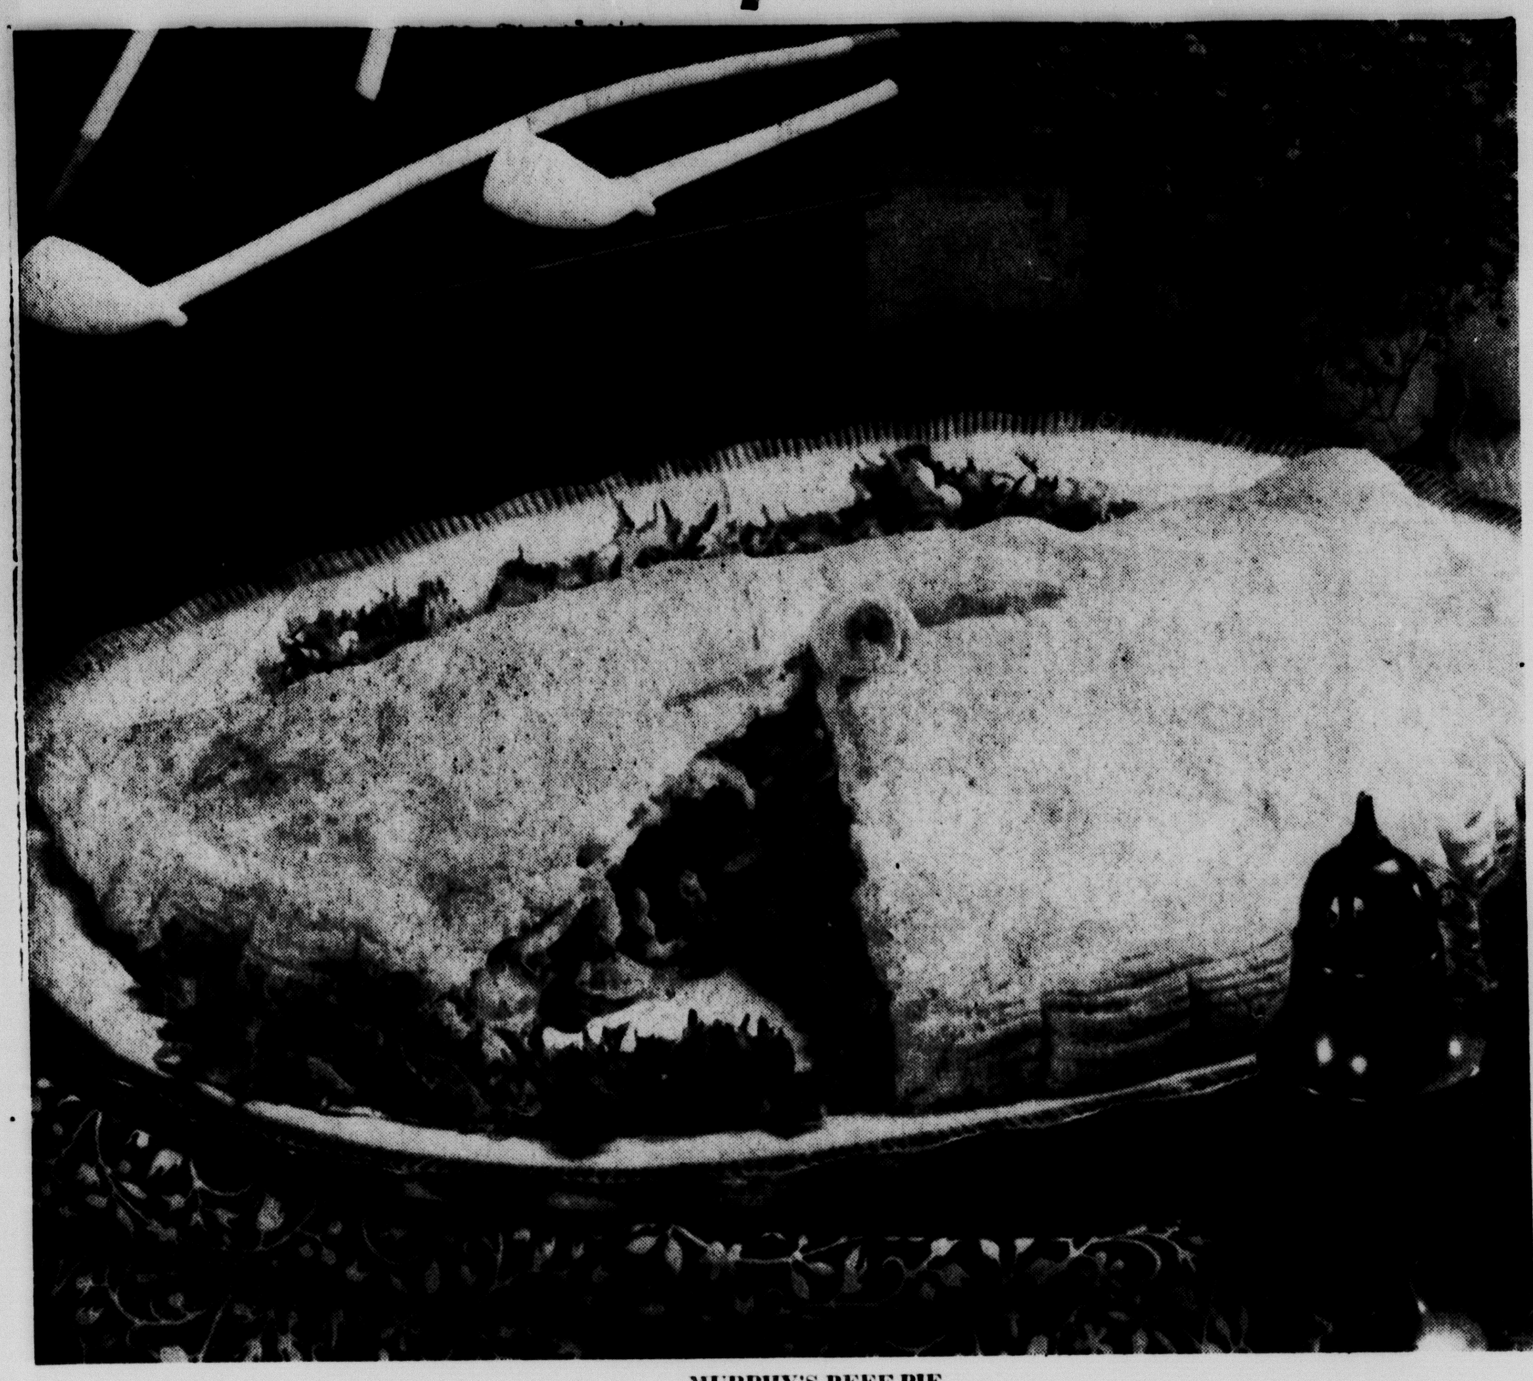
It is fit for leprechauns: Murphy's Beef Pie

Thrifty one pot meal easy on pretty Colleen's budget



MURPHY'S BEEF PIE

Traditional Irish kitchens, with their warming open hearths and glowing peat fires, for centuries have produced fragrant aromas all their own — soda bread baking in a brick oven; iron pots brimming with meat and vegetables simmering over coals.

Modern kitchens can adapt this thrifty idea of a one-pot meal, but to make it a bit more festive, turn this appetizing collection of ground beef and vegetables into a golden crusted pastry jacket.

Ground beef, carrots and cabbage are first simmered together in beef flavor mushroom mix to bring out all the good flavor. The mix has just the right amount of delicate seasonings already properly blended to provide a never-fail, rich, meat-flavored sauce flecked with tender pieces of mushroom.

The mixture then is spooned onto a circle of pastry which is then folded over to form a half-moon, and sealed at the edges. After it's baked to golden perfection, the flaky pie can be served with a crisp salad of assorted greens, tossed with creamy onion dressing, for a great St. Patrick's Day dinner.

MURPHY'S BEEF PIE

Pastry for double-crust pie
1 pound ground beef
2 cups finely shredded cabbage
1 cup thinly sliced carrots
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup hot water
1 envelope beef flavor mushroom soup mix
Milk

Preheat oven to 400 degrees.

Roll pastry to 16-inch circle; transfer to baking sheet.

In large skillet, combine ground beef, cabbage, carrots, and salt. Brown ground beef, then cook covered 10 minutes. Stir in water and beef flavor mushroom soup mix; simmer, uncovered, 5 minutes.

Spoon meat mixture onto half the pastry; fold over remaining pastry to form a semi-circle, sealing edges tightly. Brush top of beef pie with milk and bake 30 minutes or until pastry is browned. Makes about 4 servings.

A very French flair added with salmon crepes

Without a doubt the French have a way with food. They often reveal culinary genius in the varied ways they prepare and serve what could be considered ordinary food. Crepes, as an example, are considered a debonair entree but are in reality thin, tender pancakes. This rather plebeian food takes on a gourmet guise when cleverly filled and served as either an entree or a dessert.

Home Economists who work with the National Fishery Education Center have learned a trick or two from the French and added a few innovations of their own. These equally talented people have developed a savory salmon filling to create a crepe entree that is a dream of flavor and ideal for guests or special family occasions. Now that canned salmon is becoming more plentiful again as well as more reasonably priced, is the ideal time to enjoy this tasty canned fish often. Canned salmon packs a powerful amount of good eating and excellent nourishment into a compactly-packed one-pound can that may be extended with other foods to feed a number of persons. It is waste-free and ready to enjoy, whether eaten as it comes from the can or combined with other foods in delightful entrees.

Canned salmon is the "in" fish when nourishment needs are high and time is at a premium. SALMON CREPES WITH A FRENCH FLAIR fit into the "in-a-hurry" category because the crepes may be cooked ahead of time, separated with plastic film, and either frozen or refrigerated. Prepare the succulent salmon filling which also features peas and carrots, mushrooms, celery, and Swiss cheese in a sauce. Fill the crepes, bake with additional sauce, and top with more Swiss cheese. Fill the crepes, bake with additional sauce, and top with more Swiss cheese. As soon as the crepes are hot and the cheese is melted, you are ready to serve. About 20 minutes baking time is all it takes before this gourmet entree is ready — how's that for saving time while pleasing palates?

SALMON CREPES WITH A FRENCH FLAIR

- 1 can (1 pound) salmon
- ¼ cup sliced green onion
- 6 tablespoons margarine or cooking oil
- ¼ cup flour
- 1½ teaspoons salt
- ¼ teaspoon paprika
- Dash white pepper
- 2 cups milk
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- ½ package (10 ounce) frozen peas and carrots (1 cup)
- 1 cup sliced mushrooms
- ½ cup finely chopped celery
- 1 cup shredded Swiss cheese
- 8 crepes (recipe follows)
- ½ cup whipping cream

Drain, bone, and flake salmon. Cook green onion in ¼ cup margarine or cooking oil until tender, but not brown. Stir in flour, 1 teaspoon salt, paprika, and pepper. Add milk; cook, stirring constantly, until thickened. Stir in lemon juice. Cook peas and carrots, mushrooms, and celery in remaining 2 tablespoons margarine or cooking oil until vegetables are tender and moisture evaporates. Add ¾ cup sauce and remaining ½ teaspoon salt to vegetable mixture. Stir in salmon and ½ cup Swiss cheese. Spoon equal amounts of salmon filling (about ½ cup) down center of each crepe; roll up. Add whipping cream to remaining sauce. Spoon 1½ cups of the sauce over bottom of shallow 2-quart baking dish or crepe pan. Arrange crepes in sauce. Spoon remaining sauce down center of crepes. Heat in moderate oven, 375 degrees F., about 20 minutes or until sauce is bubbly and filling is hot. Sprinkle with remaining ½ cup cheese. Return to oven to melt cheese. Makes 4 generous servings.

Crepes

- 1 cup milk
- 2 eggs
- ¾ cup sifted flour
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- Melted margarine or cooking oil

Combine milk, eggs, flour, and salt; beat until batter is smooth. Let stand 1 hour before frying. Fry crepes in 6-inch frypan over moderate heat. Brush pan lightly with margarine or cooking oil for each crepe. Spoon about ¼ cup batter into pan. Rotate pan until batter covers bottom. Fry until crepe is browned on underside, turn and fry a few seconds on second side. Turn out immediately. Makes 8 crepes

Note: Eight very thin 6-inch pancakes may be substituted for the crepus, if desired.

As the Passover season draws near, it brings forth happy memories of former Passover celebrations . . . the beautiful Seder table with its heirloom candlesticks and goblet . . . Father's rendition of the Seder Service . . . the happiness of the little children . . . and those rich aromas drifting from the kitchen.

The excitement of preparation for Passover begins weeks before the holiday. There is wine to be made . . . russell, the special Passover vinegar made from beets, must be started . . . and meals for the 8 days of Passover must be planned.

Many Jewish cooks serve traditional family favorites during the Passover season. The aroma of kugel and knaidlach, mondlen and chicken soup fills most Jewish households across the country.

Desserts always are a happy ending to a holiday meal. Suggested here is orange blossom cake, a delicious orange flavored sponge cake garnished with fresh orange slices. The recipe uses peanut oil which is the favorite choice among Jewish cooks for Passover dishes. It is the lightest of the polyunsaturated cooking oils and its delicate flavor blends well with other ingredients.

ORANGE BLOSSOM CAKE

- 5 eggs, separated
- ¾ cup sugar
- ¼ cup peanut oil
- 1-3rd cup orange juice
- 1 teaspoon grated orange peel
- ¾ cup matzo meal
- ¼ cup potato starch
- 1 teaspoon salt
- Fresh orange slices

Beat together egg yolks and ¼ cup sugar until thick and light. Beat in peanut oil, orange juice and grated orange peel. Sift together matzo meal, potato starch and salt, and blend into yolk mixture.

Beat egg whites until foamy, then gradually add remaining ½ cup sugar and continue beating until stiff peaks form.

Fold egg yolk mixture into beaten egg whites. Pour into an ungreased 9-inch tube pan.

Bake in a slow oven (325 degrees F.) 50-60 minutes, or until done. Invert cake pan until cool. Makes 1 9-inch cake.

Use frozen bread dough for

An enticing iced Easter basket roll

EASTER DINNER ROLLS

Delightfully Delicious! An enticing Easter basket formed from fresh homebaked cinnamon-raisin rolls, this coffee bread can double as a timely arrangement for your breakfast or brunch table!

The roll basket is easily prepared using frozen bread dough and raisins. All you have to do is knead raisins into softened dough, cut, shape and fit rolls together to form basket, bake and serve! Frost the basket with a glossy cinnamon glaze while still warm. Fill the basket with jelly beans or dyed eggs. Your family and friends will enjoy this Easter or May Basket all Spring!

EASTER BASKET ROLLS

1 one pound loaf Bridgford Frozen Bread Dough
¾ cup raisins
¾ teaspoon cinnamon
1 cup sifted confectioners sugar
½ teaspoon cinnamon
2 tablespoons milk

Let frozen loaf thaw to room temperature. Soak raisins in lukewarm water for 5 minutes. Drain raisins and mix with ¾ teaspoon cinnamon. On lightly floured board knead raisins into dough, using more flour if needed. Cut dough into 16 equal pieces for rolls. Form basket on well greased baking sheet. For base of basket, cut and shape one roll into two 5-inch ropes and twist. For second row use two rolls. Shape each roll into 9 inch rope and coil into a snail. For third row use three rolls and shape into snails. For Fourth row use four rolls and shape into snails. Form each side of basket by cutting one roll in half, forming two six inch ropes and twist. Using remaining 4 rolls to form basket handle, make two 16 inch ropes and twist. Let rise in a warm place (80 to 140 degrees F.) until doubled in size. Bake at 375 degrees for 20 minutes or until golden brown. Glaze while still hot with a mixture of confectioners sugar, ½ teaspoon cinnamon, and 2 tablespoons milk; serve while warm. Yield: 16 servings.

Civilization threatens Brazil jungle Indians

BRAZIL INDIANS

RIO DE JANEIRO (UPI) — The government's determination to develop the vast Amazon rain forest has left Brazil's surviving Indians with a choice between assimilation into the white man's culture or isolation on reservations.

Either way they lose.

A recent attack by 200 warriors underscored the Indians' rejection, often voiced by tribal leaders, of any attempts to incorporate them into the mainstream of Brazilian life.

About 180,000 Indians are left of the approximately three million who occupied Brazil when it was first discovered by Europeans less than 500 years ago.

Aware of their rapidly diminishing numbers and wary of government promises to protect them, several tribes recently have reacted violently against the white man, the perpetrator of their extinction.

On Feb. 10, 200 Maiurmuna warriors attacked a government outpost in the Amazon manned by 16 agents of the National Indian Foundation, known as FUNAI by its Portuguese initials.

None of the agents, who were trying to establish contact with the Maiurmunas, were injured and FUNAI experts in Brasilia said the Indians probably were showing their anger over recent expeditions into their territory by white men looking for mahogany, rubber and other jungle products.

On Dec. 29, a group of Waimiri-Atroaris, angered by construction of a new road through their territory, attacked and killed three FUNAI men 124 miles north of Manaus, also in the Amazon.

In a rare show of unity, chiefs of 18 different tribes from the Xingu Reservation in the Mato Grosso jungle met Nov. 10 to discuss ways to defend their communities against "the white exploiters and adventurers."

The chiefs, who represent about 2,000 Indians, threatened to go to war against the white man if encroachments on their land continue.

Orlando and Claudio Vilas Boas, the white directors of the Xingu reservation, warned that the Indian's way of life is "seriously threatened by the new offensive of Brazilian society to occupy the Amazon."

The Indians also are dying out in a more subtle way, a controversial process of assimilation called "acculturation" by the experts at FUNAI. Critical anthropologists say it is nothing more than disguised extinction.

Once contact is made with an isolated tribe, FUNAI begins the "acculturation" by showing the Indians the ways of the white man, including modern farming and fishing techniques and classes in Portuguese.

Orlando Vilas Boas says the process has a negative effect:

"For the Indian, acculturation means the absorption of most of the white man's vices such as prostitution and alcoholism. It also means contact with civilized diseases against which the Indian is mostly defenseless. What we in FUNAI are doing is a crime."

Antonio Cortim Neto, a disillusioned expert who quit FUNAI in 1972, said, "We are forcing the Indians to take the first step towards hunger, disease and disintegration. The primary goal of our mission is to pacify the Indian so that the white man can have free access to Indian territory."

The Vilas Boas brothers propose creation of large reservations where Indians can live in complete isolation from whites.

Although the government has created reservations and guarantees the Indians permanent possession of the land, it has reserved the right to appropriate those lands if they become "important for the nation's development."

Even the 9,000-square-mile Xingu National Park has fallen prey to "the nation's development." A branch of the Trans-Amazon road cut through its northern third and the government dislodged tribes living there.

Engineers working on a road from Manaus to Caracari have suggeted moving the hostie Waimiri-Atroaris tribe so that construction can proceed without interference.

The government plans to build 15 agro-industrial and mining complexes in the Amazon, some in areas now occupied by Indians.

FUNAI President Gen. Ismar de Araujo Oliveira says Brazil "must occupy all of its territory to reach its objectives of national integration.

"Faced with this historical reality, we must do all we can to protect the Indian and his way of life. But in no way can we isolate him from the process of integration and much less force him to live on the margins of society."

But the chief of the Pataxos Indians, commenting on his people's forced removal from their ancestral lands, said he wants no part of "progress."

Bone up on ham terminology before buying your traditional Easter feast

Traditionally Easter is ham time. But what do you really know about the hams available today? When you shop for ham, you have a wide choice of types and sizes. Some are fully cooked; some are "water added" and some are canned.

Curing and smoking are two of several processing methods for preserving fresh red meats. Both have been used for many years, but today's modern methods insure a tastier and more uniform product.

To cure a ham, a solution of water, salt, sugar and a trace of sodium nitrite is pumped into the meat mechanically by rows of needles. Curing acts to preserve the meat and develops the characteristic flavor and pink color of ham. After curing, the ham is ready for smoking and cooking.

Canned Hams

Canned hams are made from cured boneless muscles and are available in exact weight sizes between 1½ and 10 pounds. A small amount of dry gelatin is added to absorb the natural juices as the ham cooks in the sealed can. Upon cooling the gelatin "sets" and makes opening the ham can neater.

Hams preserved by canning are processed either to pasteurization temperature or sterilization temperature. Canned hams which have been pasteurized require refrigeration and are labeled as "perishable — keep refrigerated." They are vacuum sealed in metal or plastic containers to permit long term storage under proper refrigeration.

Canned hams processed to sterilization temperature require no refrigeration and can be stored on the pantry shelf. These hams are usually sold in sizes under 3 pounds and are sometimes imported brands.

A Ham For Every Occasion

Many different styles of ham allow a wide selection for different uses:

BONE-IN — Traditional ham shape with shank bone present. This style is marketed whole, in halves and as center cut slices.

SEMI-BONELESS — The round leg bone is the only bone remaining. This ham is often cut into two smaller pieces, the shank end and the butt end. The shank half is the lower half extending down the leg; and the butt half is the upper leg.

BONELESS — These hams have all bones removed, skin and fat (even internal fat) trimmed away, and the lean muscles reshaped into a casing or can.

SECTIONED AND FORMED — These hams are produced from the boneless muscles of several hams (the hind leg of a hog), that have been cured. The muscles are then placed in a casing or can.

WATER ADDED — This ham retains water (an essential part of the cure) in amounts less than 10 per cent of the weight of the fresh ham. The meat will be moist, juicy and tender.

IMITATION — When retained water exceeds 10 per cent of the weight of the fresh ham, the product must be labeled "imitation."

PICNICS — This meat is sometimes mistaken for ham. However, picnics are from the front leg of a hog. They are less tender and have a higher fat content.

Don't Foil Your Ham

Hams never should be wrapped in aluminum foil for storage. The salt in the ham may cause corrosion of the aluminum and surface discoloration. This does not affect the ham's quality but it is somewhat unattractive.

Freezing ham is not recommended because it causes flavor and texture changes. However, it may be done for short periods if the meat is tightly wrapped.

To Cook or Not To Cook Ham

Most hams are fully cooked during processing. The label is the best indicator of what type ham you have selected. If you choose a fully cooked ham, it can be eaten cold or hot. If heated, you need only bring the internal temperature to 130 degrees (serving temperature); a higher temperature may dry out the ham. If you choose a cook-before-eating ham, bring the internal temperature to 170 degrees. The best oven temperature for roasting ham is 325 degrees. A meat thermometer is the best guide to accuracy in cooking or heating any ham.

TRADITIONAL GLAZED EASTER HAM

Fish and chip shops

There are 15,000 fish and chips shops in Britain. As one of the original covenience foods, fish and chips are supposed to be eaten while out on the street or walking somewhere. Englishmen have been relishing fish and chips for the last 100 years, ever since the Industrial Revolution produced the first factory workers and their need for cheap, quick, and nourishing food.

BAKE OFF

What a variety of fresh "homemade" smells emanated from the 100 ranges manned (and womaned) by the finalists at the 26th Pillsbury Bake-Off in San Francisco! As a guest this year, I was able to visit with these topnotch amateur cooks while they were stirring up their creations. I especially enjoyed meeting the 22 California and Arizona finalists.

The winners recipes are always printed in many papers, but all the finalists had interesting entries. Theresa Arndt of Tustin has entered the contest all 26 years and was bubbling with excitement. Here is her pizza recipe:

CHEESE PUFF CRESCENT PIZZA

8-oz. can Refrigerated Crescent Rolls
2 cups (8 oz.) diced Swiss or Muenster cheese
1½ cups (6 oz.) diced, cooked ham, pepperoni or salami
¼ cup flour
¾ cup dairy sour cream
¼ cup French dressing
1 egg
1 teaspoon chopped parsley, if desired

Preheat oven to 375 degrees. Separate crescent dough into four (4) rectangles. Place in ungreased 12-inch pizza or 13 x 9-inch pan; press over bottom and ½-inch up sides to form crust, sealing perforations. Sprinkle cheese and ham over crust. Blend flour, sour cream, dressing and egg; spoon evenly over ham and cheese. Sprinkle with parsley. Bake 30 to 35 minutes until golden brown. Serve immediately. Refrigerate any leftovers. 6 to 8 servings.

Largest ever tire recall

WASHINGTON (UPI) — By the end of February an estimated 800,000 American consumers will have received letters from the B.F. Goodrich Co. in the largest tire recall of its type ever attempted.

The action involves the "Space Saver" —a collapsible tire originally designed for the small trunks of the Chevrolet Camaro and Pontiac Firebird but used in other cars as well from 1967 through 1973.

The tire is designed to be inflated with a pressurized can packed with it as an emergency flat replacement. It is aimed at getting the car to a service station where the flat can be replaced. But Goodrich and government safety officials began noting injuries, and two deaths, among drivers who apparently inflated the tire improperly.

Goodrich said the most common problem was that drivers tried to use a high pressure air hose instead of the aerosol can to inflate the tire, causing it to expand rapidly and sometimes jump off the rim. Another problem appeared to be that drivers were not bolting the tire to the rim properly.

In registered letters which began going out in early December to about 800,000 owners and even second and third hand owners of cars equipped with the tires, Goodrich is inviting consumers to take the tires in to their local dealers.

The dealers are conducting inspections to make sure the area where the tire meets the rim has not been damaged by improper installation. Then the tires are inflated so they can be checked and a pressure relief valve is installed in tires which don't have one.

The company says any malfunctioning parts will be replaced free, but the pressurized can will be replaced only at the owner's expense.

The campaign is voluntary on Goodrich's part, although a spokesman for the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration said the agency did put some pressure on the company.

The agency also said it appeared from letters it was receiving that consumers involved were responding well to the campaign.

There were more than one million "Space Saver" tires turned out but not all are being recalled. The company said the campaign is the "largest action of consumer interest ever taken by a tire company."

Owners of the tires have until June 30 to get the inspection done. The company said they should call ahead to the dealer for an appointment since the process could take up to one hour.

While we're talking about tires, it may be of some interest to explain what all those letters and numbers on the sides of tires mean. The following explanation comes from Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co.:

"The first letter of the code, for example 'G,' means the tire is capable of carrying the same amount of weight as any other 'G' tire, regardless of other size factors. If there is a letter 'R' after the first letter, it indicates the tire is a radial. The number following the letters is the aspect ratio —the shape —of the tire. The number following the hyphen is the rim diameter.

"As an example, a GR78-15 means the tire has a load carrying capacity of 1,380 lbs., when inflated to 24 lbs. per square inch; it is a radial; the height of the tire from the bead —the point where the tire meets the rim —to the tread surface is 78 per cent of the tire's width, giving it an aspect ratio of 78; and the tire goes on a 15-inch diameter rim.

"The wider the tread; the lower the aspect ratio. A 70-series tire is wider and lower than a 78-series, a 60-series is wider and lower than a 70-series and a 50-series is the widest and lowest street tire of all."

That system has been in use since about 1966.

No-wax cushioned vinyl flooring has built-in shine.

You'll never need to wax again — just damp mop and that's it. Richly-embossed vinyl surface in many contemporary patterns is tough enough to handle a family — yet not show it. Asbestos back helps prevent stretching, means no recutting. Foam core softens the step, quiets the room (reduces heating cost!) and extends the life of the flooring.
